This PDF brochure publishes the text of the web page authored by Dr Eng. Jan Pająk, indicated in the title of it. In turn the author’s web pages are forms of fast reporting to the readers results of scientific research accomplished by the author of this brochure. The author is aware, that this research, and the results, are unique, as no-one in the entire world undertook earlier research of topics elaborated in this brochure. Therefore ideas which this brochure presents are the intellectual property of the author of this brochure. All ideas, theories, inventions, discoveries, explanations, descriptions, etc., published here, which have documentary or evidential value, are presented accordingly to standards applicable for scientific publications (reports). A special attention the author has given to the requirement of repetitiveness, i.e. that on the basis of this brochure any professional scientist or hobby investigator who would like to verify, repeat, or extend the author's research should be able to recreate his work and arrive at the same or very similar results and conclusions.

This brochure is another one from a series of similar brochures in PDF, offered free of charges to interested readers through the totaliztic web page named text_11.htm - which disseminates PDF versions of most significant and most widely read web pages by the author. The topic of this brochure is represented also in the newest monograph [1/5] with following editorial details:

If we, people, "give a life" to any new thing, then we always require this thing is displaying some level of "obedience" towards us. For example, when we build a new car, we require from it to be "obedient" towards orders of its driver. A new computer must be obedient to its user and programmer. Etc., etc. In turn, if something refuses to be "obedient" - as this sometimes is the case e.g. with prototypes of badly designed military airplanes of a new type, the outcome is always a catastrophe which causes a lot of evil, while in the consequences of which this "disobedient" product must be destroyed while its chance to "receive a life" must be taken away from it. If we thoroughly consider the above regularity, then it turns out that this "requirement of obedience" towards own "creator" is a kind of universal "law of nature". In fact it spreads its validity onto everything that receives a "life" from a creator. And so, for example we already have films of the "Terminator" type which reveal the vastness of evil that "disobedient robots" can bring to the humanity. From rich Western countries we already know consequences of immoral actions of undisciplined children which typically are symbols of the lack of "obedience" towards their parents - for more details see item #J2.4 from the further part of this web page. Etc., etc. So if this requirement of "obedience" towards a given "creator" is the manifestation of action of some universal "law of nature", then, of course, this law must let itself to be known to people much earlier, and thus it received some well-known name already a long time ago. So if we search under what name we all know this universal law, then it turns out that this name spells "morality". This is why the so-called "totaliztic science", which researches our reality from the philosophical approach called "a priori", defines "morality", amongst others, in the following manner: "morality is the level of 'obedience' with which an inferior 'intellect' fulfils commands and requirements of an intellect superior for it that gave to it some form of a new life". Because in the "physical world" there is a whole hierarchy of various "inferior intellects" which receive from someone a new form of life, the "totaliztic science" distinguishes a number of different "moralities". For example every robot that received the so-called "artificial intelligence" is to display a "morality of the robot". Every son is to manifest towards his parents a "morality of the son", while every daughter - a "morality of the daughter". Wives after getting married receive a new kind of life from their husbands - thus they display to them later "moralties of wives". In turn every living person also displays towards God the unique for this person primary "morality" (this most primary morality is defined as the "obedience" of that person towards commandments and requirements of God). This web page presents views of the new "totaliztic science" on all such most vital categories of morality.

Part #A: Introductory information about this web page:

#A1. What are goals of this web page:

Motto: "Without learning the truth there is NO progress."

Everyone of us believes that already knows everything about "morality". After all, in practically every religion the topic of morality takes the lion share, while e.g. in Christianity the presentation of moral requirements occupies the majority of volume of the Bible. Also the so-called "atheistic orthodox science" (means this official science, the claims of which - in majority later discovered to be erroneous, we still must learn in schools and at universities) devotes to morality a number of subjects and specialised topics - e.g. consider the subject of "philosophy" or topics concerning various "ethics". But is it really true that religions and this official human science teach us everything what we need and should know about morality?
After all, we should remember, that e.g. religions repeat to their faithful just increasingly a smaller fraction from whatever God revealed to their founders, saints, and devotees. And we must understand that God has this principle that He reveals to people only the most vital "starters of knowledge" - that later are to inspire humans to own searches for knowledge and truth - means He does NOT support laziness and stupidity by effortless giving to people ready-made solution for everything (which fact is explained on a number of totaliztic web pages, e.g. in item #H3 of the web page named god_proof.htm or in item #B4.1 of the web page named immortality.htm). Thus, it is also sure, that God gave to people just these most vital "starters of the knowledge" about morality, while the rest of this knowledge He wants that people laboriously worked out for themselves. It means that also in matters of morality God revealed to us just the answer to the question "what?" - while answers to questions "how?", "why?", "from what it stems?", "where it comes from?", "which facts confirm this?", "how to prove that this is an absolute truth?", etc., God leaves to own working them out by ourselves.

In turn that old, official so-called "atheistic orthodox science" intentionally limits its research methodologies to just a single approach to research, which by philosophers is called "a posteriori" - means "from effects to causes". In turn, as this is explained in item #A2.6 from the web page named totalizm.htm and also item #C1 on the web page named telekinetics.htm, such "a posteriori" approach to research allows the official human science to learn at most "a half of truth" on every subject. So practically also on the topic of "morality" this official human science can learn NOT more than "a half of truth". In addition, the official science for an openly unaadmitted goal of its efforts assumed the denial of everything that is stated in holy books (mainly in the Bible) - in this also to deny and to deviate everything that the Bible states in matters of morality. For this purpose the official science formulates even its own version of the deviated morality, which in items #B6 and #B7 of this web page is called the "scientific morality" - and the major function of which is to undermine the reliability of the "true morality" required from us by God. In order to learn also this "still unknown to the humanity parts of truth about the 'true morality' ", it is necessary to learn what on the subject of morality determined that new "totaliztic science" which is competitive towards the old official science, and which objectively researchers the reality from an opposite approach called "a priori"- means "from the cause to effects" or "from God understood as a superior cause of everything, to reality which surrounds us that represents effects of actions of that God". Therefore, the main goal of this web page is just to determine and indicate the most vital information about this "still unknown to the humanity parts of truth regarding morality" - about which God decided that effortlessly is NOT revealing them to religions (so that it forces people to put their effort into an active seeking of truth), while which the old, official "atheistic orthodox science" is unable to determine because of the hidden goals it pursues and the limitations of research methods that it uses, but which already resulted from research and findings of the new "totaliztic science".

Of course, in addition to the above main goal, this web page has also several additional goals, e.g. explaining to the reader basic ideas and quantities that rule over morality - including the hugely vital for us so-called "indicators of moral correctness", revealing the most vital punishments for immoral behaviours and most vital rewards for living according to moral requirements, indicating how implement practically the morally correct behaviour in our own life, etc., etc.

#A2. According to the "totaliztic science", moralities of subsequent intellects form a hierarchical structure:

Motto: "Only a person who acts 'morally' is able to reveal to others truths regarding moral behaviours."

One does NOT need to know the "totaliztic science" to understand that "givers" of new forms of life are formed into a kind of hierarchy. For example, parents give a new life to their children, in turn these children can give a new form of life to computer programs that they wrote (e.g. to computer viruses), to robots that they build, etc. Because the new "totaliztic science" defines "morality" as a form of obedience towards requirements and commandments of the one who gave to us a "new form of life", it is obvious that also subsequent kinds of "morality" will be formed into a kind of hierarchical structure. In this structure, the most superior will be the morality defined for people by God. After all, God is the most superior creator, who gave the life to all people. The second layer of morality, already inferior in relationship to this God's one, is the "morality of descendants" defined by parents for their children, and also the morality of wives and husbands defined by their spouses. There is also a third level in the hierarchy of morality. This is the morality of everything to which people gave a new form of life. For example, while building "robots" or "military drones" - for each one of them people design the new "morality of a robot" or "morality of a drone" (see subsections #J1 and #J2.5 near the end of this web page) which actually is the reflection of their own morality. While writing programs such as "computer viruses", they encode into them the reflection of their own morality in the form of "morality of computer viruses". In turn while bringing up and teaching e.g. dogs, owners of these also create specific "moralities of given dogs". (Notice, that in all "wild animals" deprived of conscience, the morality is shaped by God Himself.) More information on the subject of hierarchy of morality described here is provided in item #J1 near the end of this web page.

The awareness of the existence of the above "hierarchy of morality" is very vital. After all, everyone of us takes a specific place in this hierarchy. So everyone of us manifests some form of "morality" towards the one who gave to him or her a "new form of life" (i.e. towards God, parents, spouse). Each one of us imposes also specific moral requirements and rules onto these ones to whom he or she gave a "new form of life" - e.g. onto spouse, children, dogs, computers, robots which he or she builds, drones with which kills enemies of own country, etc. It happens, that the main requirement imposed by God on forming a new morality located below in this hierarchy, is that in any aspect it must NOT be contradictory to all moralities superior towards it (e.g. the "morality of a given person", or the "morality of a son or daughter", must NOT be contradictory to the morality given to all people by God, while e.g. the "morality of a robot" or the "morality of programs" must NOT be contradictory to the morality of people given to humans by God). If in any aspect such an inferior morality is contradictory to any morality superior towards it, then it fulfils the definition of "immorality", while these ones who practice it become the immoral parasites, from which the right to lead a "new form of life" by a definition must be taken away (and really, as this is documented by the evidence from "part #C" of this web page, with the elapse of time typically the right to live is taken away from them).

#A3. The history of this web page:

Motto: "... when that one arrives, the spirit of the truth, he will guide you into all the truth, for he will not speak of his own impulse, but what things he hears he will speak, and he will declare to you the things coming."
If someone asks me what is the most difficult to write about, then I would answer that personally I have the biggest difficulty with writing about myself (this is why I always delay the writing and update of the web page about myself (Dr Jan Pajak) indicated in item #O5 near the end of this web page). In turn second in the order of most difficult tasks, in my opinion is to write about "morality" - as this is done on this web page. This is why, in spite that since a long time the philosophy of totalizm revealed to me that "morality is the key to everything", explaining of this fact on this web page to other people always presented for me the greatest difficulty and challenge. In fact, this web page was rewritten entirely two times already, while additionally improved several times. The first version of it was formulated in March 2004. But I was NOT happy with it. However the difficulty of writing about morality caused that I delayed the rewriting it. Finally I decided that I must NOT delay it any further. So in May 2011 I prepared this version of it, which I decided to drastically improve and update in December 2014. Although I am continually aware that it still does NOT reflect well the unimaginably vital role that "morality" performs in our lives, I am also aware that in order to improve this web page to the level of perfection that it deserves, it will take me several further years of continuous improvements and increasingly more detailed research. Therefore I am appealing here to the reader to forgive me imperfections and drawbacks which is going to encounter in the text that is to follow, and still read this web page in the form in which so-far I managed to prepare it. After all, our knowledge about morality is so immensely vital, that even from imperfect sources, such as this web page, we still need to learn it thoroughly, and then adopt it and pedantically implement it in every situation from our everyday lives.

#A4. Do you know that the majority of your (and other people) decisions and actions is "immoral" because is breaking various moral criteria, and thus must be "punished", amongst others, by the cancellation of their long-term beneficial consequences:

Motto: "Those who decide or act immorally, only waste their time, effort, resources and life - after all, the moral mechanisms in their long-term operation invalidate everything that humans have accomplished as a result of immoral decisions and actions."

It just so happens that we live in times when the majority of people instead of working towards the elimination of their own imperfections, such as greed, lust, selfishness, deviations, favouritism, etc., they rather prefer to cultivate these imperfections and corrupt with them the morality of the whole society by giving to these imperfections a status of legal "rights" that are owned to people. For this reason, as a result of the increasingly powerful public pressure of an increasing mass of such people with corrupt morals, even religions that once taught of principles of the moral conduct, now are also afraid to openly teach the duty to obey the moral principles. So instead of teaching to people methods of meeting the requirements of morality, about which God has told us quite clearly e.g. in the Bible - that we have an obligation to permanently imprint them into our characters, currently religions limit themselves to only promising what prizes await us in heaven, if we regularly participate in the rites of given religion and at the same time we give generously "on the tray". In addition, all religions do NOT carry out by themselves, nor promote carrying out by others, the searches for answers to these most important questions about morality, listed in item #A1 of this web page (i.e. searches for answers reaching much further than to merely already been given by God answers to the question "what?") - the finding of which answers God intentionally left to people for a laborious earning. Just as with religion, also is with the present official science. After all, already some time ago the official science has set to itself the officially unspoken goal of denyimg everything that God says in the scriptures. No wonder that our science neither does teaching, nor objectively researches, the true morality required from people by God. In the result of this ignoring of research and abandoning of teaching of morality by both religions and by official science, in present times the entire humanity begins to act increasingly immoral - to which fact I am trying to direct the attention of readers and to illustrate it on numerous examples, e.g. in item #C4.2 from this web page, in item #B5 from my other web page named p_instruction.htm, in item #T1 from another my web page named humanity.htm, while jokingly also in the second paragraph of item #G3 yet another my web page named prophecies.htm, as well as in a whole range of further totaliztic publications.

Of course, it is unspeakably pity that both religions, as well as the old official "atheistic orthodox science", do NOT conduct reliable research nor actual teaching of morality. After all, the newly emerging "totaliztic science" has already established that virtually everything that people do, can be carried out either in accordance with the criteria of morality, that is, in a moral manner, or in a manner that violates these criteria of morality, that is, in an immoral way. This new "totaliztic science" has also discovered empirically and then documented it on a required sample of cases from the real life, that every "moral" acting in the long term is rewarded by moral mechanisms, while every "immoral" human behaviour is severely punished by the same moral mechanisms. That long-term rewarding and punishing is also made with an iron hand, regardless of whether one is aware or not, that in a given case acted morally or immorally. At the same time, the most important penalty, which in the long-term operation of moral mechanisms is systematically served still in this physical life for every immoral action and every immoral decision, is the cancellation (elimination and lost) of all the benefits that previously for a short term have been achieved as a result of the immoral action or decision. In other words, because of the ignoring of reliable research on the mechanisms of work of actual morality required from the people by God, and also because of the neglect of teaching morality, the humanity still is NOT aware that over the time everything that humans have accomplished as a result of immoral behaviour is cancelled and lost. And these losses are huge. For example, on two occasions I analyzed for the compliance with moral criteria, these fragments of governmental decisions, that reached the public (and my) knowledge (after all,
NOT all decisions of the government the public and I had the opportunity to learn), and later fragments of these analyzes I dared to carefully describe on my web pages when discussing the earthquake in Christchurch and the elections to Parliament in 2014. As these analysis had revealed to me, a majority of decisions of today governments violates various moral criteria. This in turn, in the light of current knowledge about the principle of systematic punishment by moral mechanisms for every immoral decision and every immoral action, as described here, makes it already absolutely certain, that the beneficial consequences of the majority of governmental decisions are later completely lost as a result of long-term work of moral mechanisms. Thus, the making of immoral decisions at the government level leads directly to an unimaginable waste of the human time, effort, and resources - including the wasting of taxes so ruthlessly executed from individual people to finance with them these immoral government decisions. In fact, if just only a half of decisions of the government of a country was made in accordance with the criteria of morality, and thus in the long-term work would NOT have to be punished by moral mechanisms with the cancellation of beneficial effects of these decisions, then the life in the country ruled by such a government would become similar to living in a paradise. Except that, unfortunately, the long-term beneficial effects of such making mainly morally correct decisions, would fully disclose themselves only after the so-called “time of return” of karma by the moral mechanisms, explained in item #C4.2 below - which the "time of return" in some cases of behaviours of entire countries can be extended even to about 70 or 100 years, while very rarely is less than about 7 years. Hence these politicians, who would implement such morally correct actions, typically would NOT benefit from the results of own efforts and decisions, while sometimes they probably would NOT even live until the long-term fruits of their labour will be revealed - which situation in the today's human attitudes described by the saying "after me is OK if even the end of the world is to come", does NOT induce a much hope that in fact there will be any politicians who are to base their decisions on the criteria of morality.

It is worth to add here, that it is good to learn the approximate "times of return" for moral or immoral acting. (Approximately these times are provided in item #C4.2 - although for specific intellects the reader can also determine and check them by himself or herself even much more accurately.) After all, on one hand, they provide us with evidence for the confirmation of the truth of descriptions from this web page, while on the other hand, they allow to determine empirically, for example, what proportion of the actions or decisions of governments, of any institutions, or of any persons, meet the criteria of morality - that means is moral. After all, if e.g. someone builds a permanent house (from e.g. bricks), but he or she does it in an immoral way, then after a time greater than this "time of return", the house will NOT exist any more. This is because the principle of automatic punishment by moral mechanisms will cause, that in order to invalidate the beneficial consequences of this immoral building, the house will be either abandoned and fall into disrepair, or e.g. a cataclysm will destroy it, or will be taken by the court and demolished, etc., etc. So instead of existing for several hundred years, as its durable materials allow this, this house for sure is to NOT exist after a little more than 10 years - if it was built by an individual person, or after a little more than 100 years - if it was built by the government or by an institution (i.e. by the so-called "group intellect"). In other words, if, for example, we want to know what proportion of the actions of a given government, or a given institution, complies with the criteria of morality, then it is enough to check a little over 100 years later how much still exists, is used, and enjoys human respect out of whatever that government or that institution has made. (NOT without reason, e.g. out of all buildings over 100 years of age, mainly churches still exist and are used. After all, in typical situations all phases of their construction, starting from the decision making, through collecting the funds, and finishing with the erection, in past were carried out without breaking any moral criteria - for an example see the caption under "Fig. #G1a" and see item #D3 on the web page named ciecza_uk.htm.)

In addition to this, the Bible (as well as some of other holy books inspired by God) is quite clear in explaining that e.g. to get to heaven in the next life, firstly we have to earn this by proving to God in this life, that we inscribed into our character the permanent habits of moral behaviour. After all, one does not need to be a guru to deduce that if God forgave all sins and would let everyone into heaven, than same wicked people, who today unleash hell on Earth, would also turn heavens into a similar hell. Thus, our primary goal in this life on Earth, becomes the proving to God during the tests and trials on morality, to which we are continually subjected, that we already etched permanently into our character enough moral habits to be able in heaven to coexist harmoniously with other people admitted in there and to implement in discipline and in the manner required by God the job that in the future God will be entrusting to us in heaven. Not without a reason in the Bible God warns us that it is easier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle than for a rich person to get into heaven, and also warns us that from the whole of this vast number of people, who in all times lived on Earth, to the heaven will be permitted only 144,000 of the most "righteous" people - both of which warnings are explained in a bit more detailed way in item #C4 from my web page named immortality.htm, and in item #I1 from my web page named quake.htm. (Notice here, what item #A3 from my web page god_proof.htm explains on the topic of moral degeneration under the influence of wealth, and on upbringing in wealth and in prosperity, as well as explains how God uses the method of upbringing called the "principle of reversals" - i.e. explains the method described, amongst others, in item #B1.1 from the web page named antichrist.htm and in item #F3 from the web page named wszewilki_uk.htm. In addition, note also here that the biblical expression "righteous" does NOT coincide with the today's understanding of this word and in the Bible it is used to describe a person which today we would call "pedantically morally acting person" - for more details about these "righteous" people see the abovementioned item #I1 from my web page named quake.htm.) In other words, yet another immense loss that both, the whole humanity, as well as each individual human is to experience due to ignoring of objective research on the mechanisms of action of true morality required from the people by God, and also by disregard to learning of morality, is that the overwhelming majority of people living on Earth are NOT going to get into heaven - in spite of deceptive promises of many of today's religions. (E.g. from my rough estimates described in both abovementioned web pages stems, that to heaven get only about 4 people out of every million people who have lived on Earth.) Thus the most important own asset that is wasted due to immoral behaviour, is a waste of our own lives by denying ourselves a chance that after the final judgment we get a new immortal body and a new, great, infinitely long life.

Of course, there is a whole ocean of scientifically verifiable facts, which confirm that God fulfils exactly what He said. Only that just that old official "atheistic orthodox science" do NOT intends to deny its doctrinal foundations through scientific verification of these God's indications. Also religions do NOT even attempt to scientifically verify them. Thus, so far the new "totaliztic science" is the only one, which in the extent of its limited resources and capabilities, such scientific verification is carrying out. Unfortunately, whatever this new "totaliztic science" established, still does NOT reach to the most people. After all, the results of its research are still ignored, while its publications are still blocked and ridiculed. However, in spite that the majority of people are to ignore whatever is explained here, it is still worth to promote the truth. After all, to those who deserve it, this truth somehow arrives. So let us list here at least the most tangible categories of evidence, which confirm that in the long-term action God strictly and severely punishes every manifestation of immorality, while handsomely rewards every moral behaviour (and thus, that only those people may count for any future with God, who prove to God, that they permanently inscribed to their characters morally correct habits of conduct). Here are these categories:

(1) The Bible inspired by God. In fact, the Bible in many different places assures us with various words, that immorally acting people (the "wicked ones") are to be punished, while morally acting ("righteous") - rewarded. For example, amongst others God promises in the Bible, that for as long as some human settlements are inhabited by at least "10 righteous" people (i.e. by at least 10 "pedantically morally acting people"), these settlements will NOT be destroyed by any disaster. As I described it in items #I3 to #I5 from my web page named petone.htm, during the time of my living in Petone, one amongst such human settlements turned out to just be the township where I currently live. No wonder, that my personal verification carried out for many years, showed that numerous disasters of various calibre, which spread destruction in towns neighbouring to Petone, bypassed and left untouched the township of Petone itself. (Thus, it is quite a significant loss, that my proposal described, amongst others, in item #J1 from the web page named quake.htm and addressed to a different New Zealand city named Christchurch (which is repeatedly shaken by devastating earthquakes) was NOT accepted. In this proposal I suggested that with the help of residents of Christchurch I will also check on their city the work of this Biblical promise from God.)

(2) Folk wisdom (expressed e.g. through the content of proverbs and legends). Independently from the Bible, about the inevitable punishment for immoral behaviour of people clearly warns us also our folklore, for example consider the Polish proverbs of the kind "easy come, easy go," or "God tardy but fair", or consider legends on the fate of immoral cities Vineta and Salamis described in items #H2 and #H3 from my web page named tapanui.htm.

(3) Scientific findings of the philosophy of totalizm and the new "totaliztic science". The fact of unavoidable punishment of every immoral human behaviour is also confirmed by the results of research carried out by the philosophy of totalizm and by the new "totaliztic science". For example, as it has been proved already by the research of totalizm and the new "totaliztic science", all the short-term benefits obtained by any intellect (e.g. by any person, institution, country, etc.) in the result of an immoral behaviour, in the long-term operation of the moral mechanisms are always made void and replaced by the disadvantages that represent their exact opposites. Examples of various well-known cases investigated by totalizm and by the new "totaliztic science", whose long-term consequences confirm such punishment for immorality, are provided e.g. in item #C4.2 from this web page, while are described in more detail, amongst others, in item #J1 from another of my web page named pajak_for_mp_2014.htm, and in item #B6 yet another my web page named p_instruction.htm.

(4) Ordinary logical deduction. Each of us can imagine, whom he or she would let into heaven, if, for example, God has entrusted him or her with the highly responsible task of choosing people whom the heaven should host. As it turns out, the responsible completion of such a task would be extremely difficult. After all, we know about too large number of people from around us, that if they are given immortal bodies and the ability to do whatever they want, then they would quickly change the heaven into a kind of hell. Therefore, if such a choice of candidates for heaven from our environment is made in a way truly responsible and objective - meaning by NOT being influenced by the cronyism or family ties, but only by the actual character of these people, then it turns out that we know really very few people whose character qualifies them to stay in heaven. (For example, I am ready to bet that if someone in his or her life was able to get to know, let us say, a million of people, probably with a difficulty would be able to find among them four, about which he or she could objectively indicate and justify on the requirements described in the Bible, that actually they deserve to go to the heaven.) Notice here, that the additional achievement of this type of logical analysis is that it immediately realizes to us "why" people whom we objectively would NOT allow to heaven, on a daily basis are plagued by so many problems, failures and misfortunes of life, while the people whom we ourselves would allow to heaven, every day lead completely different lives - i.e. incomparably happier and more fulfilled than these others, although not necessarily richer or more famous.

(5) Our own analysis of the life-fates for humans which we know well. Each one of us knows a few people from the environment, whose exceptionally immoral acting (unfortunately, only in rare cases - particularly moral behaviour), qualify to the category of persons, which in the long-term operation of moral mechanisms deserve the especially exemplary punishment (unfortunately, only in the increasingly rare cases - deserve a special reward). So, if one examines their fate, then it turns out that actually in the long-term work of moral mechanisms such a punishing (or rewarding) is taking place. For example, I once carried out the analysis of the fate of my school colleagues, about which from the time of our youth I knew, that already then they stopped the listening to the voice of their conscience, so that their characters already in those days of my youth become known as particularly hopeless cases of immorality - which have NOT gave any hope for the future improvement. As it later turned out, all those my classmates who already in their youth silenced out the voice of their conscience, died at a relatively young age (their fates are described in items #C7 and #D3 from my web page named god_exists.htm and in item
Thus, since both, the religions as well as the present official science, had already abandoned the teaching of morality, and never carried out a reliable scientific research on the true morality required from the people by God, the last discipline devoted to the true morality remains the new "totaliztic science", in the spirit of which this web page is written. This "totaliztic science" still is trying to teach us about the immense significance of moral principles for both, our personal lives, as well as for the fate of all mankind. It still provides us also with the increasingly deeply verified results of its research on the mechanisms of morality, and on the methods by means of which in our own behaviour we can utilize these mechanisms for expanding our personal happiness, for conducting highly fulfilled lives, and for avoiding the waste of our time, effort and resources to act immorally, the beneficial effects of which acting will later have to be cancelled (the fact of immorality of which actions, unfortunately, still cannot be recognized by us on the basis of any written sources apart from the Bible and the totaliztic publications).

So how we can stop wasting of our life, time, effort, and resources, through the learning of how to convert the most of our decisions and actions into the decisions and actions which are completed in accordance with the criteria of morality? Well, firstly we have to learn how to recognize that the decision or action that we are going to take breaks any moral criteria, means is "immoral". After all, majority of the violations of moral criteria results from human ignorance - means from the absence of knowledge in humans that they just act immorally, from their lack of knowledge to what such immoral behaviour leads, and from their lack of motivation to learn how to act in accordance with the criteria of morality. In turn how to make such a diagnosis, apart from the Bible teaches us also the philosophy of totalizm and the new "totaliztic science" - including this totaliztic web page, starting with its item #C4.2. Then we also need to learn how to convert an intended decision or action that proved to be immoral, into the morally correct decision or action with the same final goal. How to make such a conversion, it also teaches the philosophy of totalizm - e.g. see volume 6 of my newest monograph [1/5].

Part #B: How "morality" is defined in two existing models of our universe:

#B1. Two basic models of our universe, i.e. (1) the model of the "atheistic orthodox science" to-date (i.e. the universe occurred by an accident and is ruled by accidents) and (2) the model of the new "totaliztic science" (i.e. that the universe was created on purpose and is ruled by
From the everyday life we know, that if we want to learn thoroughly about something, then we must "look at it" from at least two different "directions" or from two so-called "approaches". This is because looking from just a single direction (approach) we see "at the most" a half of this something. For example, looking at some building just from the front, we still do NOT know what is on the back of it. On the other hand, our official science (frequently called also the "atheistic orthodox science") on everything that surrounds us looks just from a single and always the same approach, by philosophers called "a posteriori" means "from effects to causes". This means, that such a science learns "at the most" a half of truth on that something. In order to learn also that "still missing second half of truth", people would need to officially acknowledge also completely different science, which would be "competitive" towards that "atheistic orthodox science" to-date, and which would look at everything from a completely opposite approach by philosophers called "a priori" means "from the cause to effects" or "from God understood as the most primary cause of everything, to the surrounding reality that represents effects of actions of that God". In fact, since 1985 exists already just such a new science which is researching the reality from that opposite "a priori" approach. It is called the "totaliztic science" and it really is "competitive" towards official science to-date, i.e. "competitive" towards that science which we learn in schools and on universities and which some call "atheistic orthodox science". (Notice that the world "competitive" is written here in "quotes" because in fact both these sciences mutually complement each other and both are in service of humanity - although, as so far, the new "totaliztic science" was forced to act almost in "conspiracy" because representatives of that old "atheistic orthodox science" which so-far held the absolute "monopole for knowledge" persecute it viciously, sabotage it, fight out, criticise and "close its mouths" on all possible ways available to them, i.e. they do with it exactly what is known from e.g. economics that holders of "monopoles" always do to their "competition".)

The philosophical and scientific foundations of this new "totaliztic science" are described in items #F1 to #F3 of a separate web page named god_exists.htm. These foundations are based on the so-far ignored by the official science the theory of everything called the Concept of Dipolar Gravity. This is because that theory has proven formally that "God does exist" - and thus it undermined the truth of so-called "Occam's razor" which provides philosophical foundations for the old "atheistic orthodox science" to-date.

Each one amongst both above sciences forms its own model of our universe that is unique for it. For example, the model of the official human science to-date is based on the so-called "theory of big bang" and "expanding universe". In turn the model of the new "totaliztic science" is based on the everlasting existence of always moving liquid called the "counter-matter" which displays attributes of a "liquid computer" and in which with the elapse of time evolved a self-aware program that us people call God, and that later created from this counter-matter the entire separate physical world and man. But in order to NOT stretch the patience of the reader, I am NOT going to describe here these models nor prove why the model of the "atheistic orthodox science" to-date is erroneous while the model of the new "totaliztic science" is correct. I only inform here, that about the "Big Bang" or about the "Occam's razor" that form foundations of that old model of the official science one can read in internet - because there is in there a huge number of publications on these subjects. In turn about the "intelligent counter-matter" and about the "model of the universe" that result from the existence of it, most comprehensively one can learn from the volume 1 of my newest monograph [1/5] - which is disseminated in internet free of charge, and which is a kind of "official textbook" for the "totaliztic science".

Both above mutually "competitive" sciences, and also justifications why only one model of the universe that they created is the correct one, are already presented on a number of totaliztic web pages - for example see item #C1 of the web page named telekinetics.htm.

superiorly intelligent God):
item #A2.6 of the web page named totalizm.htm, items #F1 to #F3 of the web page named god_exists.htm, item #A4 of the web page named god_proof.htm, item #C5 of the web page named bible.htm, item #B1 of the web page named tornado.htm, item #J2 of the web page named pajak_jan_uk.htm, item #A2 of the web page named healing.htm, subsection H10 from volume 4 of monograph [1/5], and descriptions from several further web pages and publications of totalizm. So there is no need to again elaborate these here.

#B2. How the "atheistic orthodox science" to-date defines "morality" in the universe that come to existence by an accident and is ruled by accidents:

In the "Oxford English Dictionary" (1 volume, Oxford University Press, Oxford OK2 6DP, UK, 2007, ISBN 978-0-19-920687-2) - which is considered to be one amongst most authoritative dictionaries in the world, on page 1835, under the word "morality" is provided the following definition of "morality": "the doctrine or branch of knowledge that deals with right and wrong conduct and with duty and responsibilities; moral philosophy; ethics; moral principles or rules". The publishing of the above definition in that authoritative dictionary means, that it is a kind of "standard" for the "atheistic orthodox science" to-date. Although some academic textbook or some lecturers may add or take away some less significant words from the above definition, generally this definition is a full representation of what "morality" is considered to be by the old "atheistic orthodox science" to-date. Thus, the type of morality described by the above definition, should be called the "scientific morality" (more information about such "scientific morality" provides item #I5 on the page named petone.htm and item #E2 on the page named totalizm.htm). In turn, those people who practiced such "scientific morality" in Poland were called "martinets" ("służbistami" in the Polish language) - for the essence of their ideology see item #L3 from the web page named cielcza_uk.htm.

The most vital attribute of the above definition of morality is that according to it "morality" is "an idea introduced by people". This means, that according to its supposedly: (a) "morality" does NOT originate from anything else than people (e.g. "morality" does NOT originate from God nor from "laws of nature"), (b) "morality" does NOT have independent from people "standards of morally correct behaviours", (c) do NOT exist any "phenomena of nature" that would indicate or confirm which behaviours of people are morally correct and which are immoral, and (d) no-one independently from people "guards" the "morality" nor makes sure that people actually behave morally e.g. through serving to them "rewards" for "moral behaviour" and "punishments" for "immorality". In other words, because according to this definition supposedly "people invented morality", this definition contains also a suggestion, that as time elapses, people (i.e. "scientists" and "politicians") will be able to "invent also for themselves" a completely different "morality". For example, instead of becoming increasingly perfect through fighting out their vices and temptations, in that "new morality" which people can "invent" for themselves and introduce to life in the future, they simply are to "sanction" these vices and temptations and announce that following them is already "moral" (instead of previous being "immoral"). This seems to happen already now. For example, New Zealand already now banned parents from disciplining their children (and even makes this disciplining punishable by imprisoning) - as this is explained in item #B5.1 from the web page named will.htm while is commented in sub-items #C4.2 and #J2.4 from this web page. Furthermore, it introduced also the law regarding "civil unions" in which it allows that homosexuals can marry each other - in spite that e.g. the Bible quite clearly bans practicing homosexuality (for examples of this bans from the Bible see item #B5 on the web page named seismograph.htm or item #B2.1 on the web page named mozajski.uk.htm). In turn e.g. in Australia is opened legally an internet forum which persuades people to marital unfaithfulness - in spite that this unfaithfulness is banned by 7th God's commandment. The above persuades to undertake serious analyses, whether the definition of "morality" which is disseminated by the old "atheistic orthodox science" to-date is actually correct, or is rather highly wrong and misleading for people.

At this point it should be emphasized, that (as this is explained in more details in item #B6 below) the "scientific morality" described in the above definition shows significant differences when compared with the "true morality" required from the people by God, i.e.
the one evaluated and then punished or rewarded by God, the definition of which is provided in item #B5 from this page. One amongst the most important of these differences lies in the fact that the "scientific morality" in its very definition requires us to obey orders and the requirements of our superiors and to abide the imperfect human laws
- even if these stand in direct conflict with the commandments and requirements of God - as this is explained comprehensively in item #L3 on the page called cielcza.uk.htm.
But because for example in item #G3 from the totalistic web page named prophecies.htm is illustrated that the vast majority of today's laws is already opposite to the commandments and requirements of God, the requests of today's "scientific morality" to implement these immoral laws is an equivalent of ordering people to act immorally. But it has already been documented with certainty, that every immoral human action is punishable with a strong "kick" that God serves to immoral people still in this physical life of theirs, in proportion to the level of their immorality - which fact is documented in detail e.g. in item #C4.2 from this web page, in items #G1 to #G8 frm the web page named will.htm or in item #I5 from the web page named petone.htm. Thus such ordering by the "scientific morality" to act in life in the opposition to the commandments of Almighty God, illustratively can be compared to recommending that each of the people by his action "challenged a horse to a duel for kicks".

#B3. Whether the definition and understanding of morality disseminated by the old "atheistic orthodox science" are agreeable with the reality in which we live, and thus correct, or rather mislead us because they reveal to us at the most a
"half of truth":

If the "randomness" - which is inherent in the definition and understanding of "morality" disseminated by the old "atheistic orthodox science", was consistent with the reality in which we live, then the attributes which this "morality" would have to display in our universe, would also be ruled by "accidents". In other words, in such a universe created by an "accident" and ruled by "accidents", also the morality would have to be the "accidental morality" - which would be characterised by the following features:
1. The work of such an "accidental morality" would NOT be governed by any regularities or laws. Thus e.g. the same actions would completely at random show different moral classifications. There would be no any uniform moral rules and principles that could be applied to all human actions and situations. There could NOT exist any standards of morality. There would also be NO indicators of morally correct behaviours, such as "moral field", "moral energy" or "moral laws" - discovered only recently by the philosophy of totalizm and described more comprehensively on a separate web page named totalizm.htm and also in sub-items #C4 from this web page. Of course, there would also be NO way that such subjects as "ethics" or "philosophy" could be formulated and lectured.

2. "Morality" ruled by accidents would NOT support the development by people of the understanding and models of "justice", "honesty", etc. This is because how one could develop and define these concepts when the same behaviours would have accidental and each time completely different moral meanings. Thus people would NOT know what these concepts actually mean. Also, people would NOT be able to be either right and just or honest, etc.

3. People affected by outcomes of such "accidental morality" would NOT have "conscience", "proverbs", "folk wisdom", "moral tradition", etc. After all, these features are based on the repetitive rules which govern over morality and which humans noticed, and the existence of which was detected by generations of people that lived on the Earth.

On the other hand, when one analyses the universe in which we live, then it turns out that this universe displays a complete opposition to attributes of "accidental morality" listed above that would need to exist in the universe ruled by accidents. This leads to the final conclusion, that "the definition of 'morality' which was developed and is disseminated by the old so-called 'atheistic orthodox science' is significantly 'twisted' and is NOT agreeable with the 'moral laws' which rule over the reality in which we live". After all, according to what is documented in items #B1 and #B2 from the web page named changelings.htm, the reality in which we live was created and is ruled with an iron hand by omnipotent God, while as such it significantly differs from the reality created and ruled by "accidents" that is promoted by the old "atheistic orthodox science". In the world created and ruled by God, this is God who developed moral principles and requirements so that these support His goals, and this is God who forwarded these principles and requirements to people for obeying (while obeying of them He executes from people with an "iron hand"). Therefore, people who practice this twisted "scientific morality" imposed onto the present humanity by the old and incompetent "atheistic orthodox science" risk that they become severely punished by God - e.g. that according to the principle of "survival of most moral" explained in items #G1 to #G7 of the web page named will.htm, they die prematurely in relatively young age. After all, this twisted definition of morality as "moral" announces erroneously activities which in the "true morality" (means in the morality subjected to the judgement and punishment by God) are clearly indicated as highly immoral. (As examples of just such erroneous qualifying by the twisted definition of morality, consider "homosexuality" described in item #B4 from the web page named antichrist.htm, which the scientific and twisted definition of morality declares to be "moral", while God qualifies in the Bible as highly immoral and revolting, or consider "polygamy" described in item #J2.2.2 from the further part of this web page, which the scientific and twisted definition of morality declares as "immoral", which God qualifies in the Bible as a moral behaviour which is allowed for people.) So in order to learn a different (correct) definition of "morality", which truly reflects our reality, we need to learn the definition developed and disseminated by the new "totaliztic science" and provided in item #B5 below.
#B4. What we should know about this "reversed approach" to morality of the new "totaliztic science", and why it reveals the "missing second half of truth":

As it is explained by item #B1 of this web page, the new "totaliztic science" researches the reality around us from the opposite approach by philosophers called "a priori", means "from the cause to effects". In this approach everything, thus also "morality", is defined as originating from the "superior cause", means from God. Only that opposite to the existing religions, new "totaliztic science" is aware of the fact that God does NOT support laziness and stupidity, therefore in spite that in holy books, such as the Bible, He gave to people "starters of the knowledge" about morality, actually He expects that people with their own effort and objective research find out by themselves what really "morality" is, and how one should lead a moral life. Therefore, the new "totaliztic science" does NOT wait - as this was so-far done by religions, until God gives to people for free the entire knowledge about morality, without the need for people to laboriously work out this knowledge by themselves, but this science starts to objectively and intensely research "morality and God" and earns the knowledge about morality with own effort and own contribution of work. In turn, all knowledge that it managed to establish on the subject of morality and principles of moral living, this new "totaliztic science" explains in the philosophy of totalizm and the philosophy of parasitism that it created and developed. The most vital aspects of this knowledge are summarised here on this web page.

#B5. How the new "totaliztic science" defines "morality" in the universe intentionally created and intelligently ruled by superior God:

Motto: "People stubbornly ignore morality enforced by God, God restlessly illustrates to people that NO-ONE is allowed to ignore morality."

The new "totaliztic science" recommends to use the following definition of "morality":

'morality is the "level of obedience" with which a given "intellect" fulfils commandments and requirements imposed onto humans by God, which commandments and requirements are unambiguously expressed by God with the aid of various "standards of morality" (such as the Bible, the human organ called "conscience", etc.) and with the aid of numerous 'indicators of morally correct behaviours' (such as the "moral field", "moral energy", "moral laws", etc.), and which actual fulfilment by people is judged by God and "rewarded" or "punished" with an iron consequence - while manners of fulfilment of these commandments and requirements are revealed to us by two modern philosophies called the philosophy of totalizm and the philosophy of parasitism - which taken together teach people truly "moral" principles of leading their lives'.

Of course, the above definition - as every human finding, can also be expressed with the use of various other words or sentences. A part of these sentences perhaps can improve it even more and allow to express with it even better the essence of “morality”. Furthermore, this definition is too long for us to be able to remember it in its entirety and repeat it for the everyday use. Therefore, for our own use, or for discussing it with other people, one can benefit from simplified versions of that definition, e.g. from the one stated here in the introduction to this web page, or the one discussed in item #A1 of the separate web page named totalizm.htm. Such a simplified version of the above complete definition reflect the essence of it already in e.g. the following formulation "in the world ruled by God, morality should be understand as the strictness with which someone fulfils God’s commandments in the everyday life" (or in the formulation presented in the introduction to this web page). But the addition to such simplified versions of this definition should be our understanding that in order to "persuade" to people the obedience of "morality", God created and gave to people various standards and indicators of moral behaviours (e.g. conscience, Bible, moral field, etc.), and also that God consistently uses "rewards" and severe "punishments" to reinforce moral behaviours in people - only that in order to not break our "free will" this reinforcing He carries out highly "discreetly" and with the fulfillment of so-called "canon of ambiguity" (described, amongst others, in item #C4.1 of this web page).

The above definition is immensely important. After all, it informs quite clearly that "morality" is formulated by God and that God makes sure that people obey it pedantically (and do NOT ignore it). On the other hand, the error of a too-light, unserious, and misleading treatment of "morality" by the official human science to-date, which the science still failed to repair, causes that the humanity currently is in the situation of a "war with God" about "morality". In turn, how "wars with God" typically finish, this for the city of Christchurch in New Zealand is described in item #G2 on the web page named prophecies.htm, while for many other immoral decisions and actions of people (e.g. for immoral introduction of antibiotics, pesticides and the theory of relativity to a common use) explain, amongst others, item #J1 on my web page named pajak_for_mp_2014.htm, or item #B6 on my web page named p_instruction.htm. Therefore, in present times, our civilisation pays for ignoring the enforcement of morality with immense suffering and deaths of numerous people punished for being immoral, and also pays with the devastation of nature, cities, and social lives, which were treated too lightly by decision makers that believed in the impunity of their immoral actions. Thus, in the vital interest of every person lies now to repeat this definition of morality to his or her close ones, and thus to gradually restore the moral behaviours to our civilisation. In turn the restoration of morality has the potential to return harmony, peace, and prosperity to the humanity.

The correctness of the above definition of "morality" is confirmed by a number of various facts and phenomena. Each one amongst these facts and phenomena contradicts also the correctness of the to-date definition of "morality" (i.e. the one from item #B2 above) - disseminated by the official human science. Therefore, the entire next "part #C" of this web page is going to be devoted to the presentation of the most vital examples from the large body of evidence which documents that the definition provided here is absolutely correct, and documents that God really enforces moral behaviours of people.

#B6. Differences between the "true morality" described by the definition of the new "totaliztic science" and the "scientific morality" described by the definition of the old "atheistic orthodox science":

Motto: "Wherever for the attention of people competes more than one idea, over there also appears a form of competition and a form of widening of differences."

On this web page it is stated that in modern times the moral side of behaviours of subsequent individuals can be described by as many as three different definitions of "morality". The oldest of these behaviours can be called the "true morality" - as it is the one which is required from the people by God, while which is made aware to people through the content of sacred books inspired (authorized) by God Himself (such as the Christian Bible), through the whispers of conscience, and recently also through the recommendations and findings of the philosophy of totalizm. The definition of the "true morality" is presented in item #B5 from this web page. Another type of human behaviour can be called a "scientific morality". This one depends on compliance with the requirements and orders invented by various present atheistic scientists, and then imposed onto people by laws formulated by present politicians. This "scientific morality" is defined in item #B2 from this web page, and also in item #L3 of the web page named cielza.uk.htm. Note, however, from item #I5 of the page called petone.htm, that God treats this "scientific morality" the same as a version of "immorality" - as it does NOT comply with God's commandments and requirements. The third variant of human behaviour is a simple "immorality" which most obviously is "practiced" by all followers of the so-called philosophy of parasitism. After all, the person practicing it "do not respect any laws or requirements, unless to the respecting them they were somehow forced". It means, that this principle of human behaviour is reduced only to indulging in own desires, inclinations, whims, deviations, etc. Each one out of these three types of "morality" has fundamental differences with respect to the others. It is therefore worth to learn these differences. In the case of highly immoral philosophy of parasitism, these differences do not even need to be explained, because they are defined by tendencies, moods, desires, wishes, etc., of a given practitioner. However, in the case of two other kinds of "morality", their mutual differences are more sophisticated. Therefore in items that are listed below I will explain the most vital differences between the "scientific morality" and the "true morality". Here they are:

1. Period of validity. The today's "scientific morality" is constantly changing and is just a "temporary" - means valid only in present times, before scientists do NOT change it to something else. After all, this morality is constantly changing, as more and more scientists have come to different conclusions on the kinds of conduct that are accepted in a given time. For example, through practically the entire twentieth century, open homosexual relationships were considered immoral. But in the early twenty-first century these relationships were considered immoral. But in the early twenty-first century these relationships were considered to be officially permitted and even laws were passed that allowed homosexuals to have 'legally blessed', so called "civil unions". In turn during the second decade of the XXI century, instead of keeping a different name for homosexuals who are, after all, the couples of the same sexes, these "civil unions" were even officially called "marriages" - in spite that the age-old name "marriage" means "union between two people of different sexes capable of procreating their offspring". Due to such deviations rising in the "scientific morality", from the legal point of view, these "deviant" gay marriages, in the twenty-first century have become NO different from the marriages of women to men.

On the other hand, the "true morality" is timeless. Moral principle which prevailed in it 2000 years ago during the writing of the Bible, apply also in the twenty-first century. Homosexual unions are having therein a different name than the capable of procreation unions of women with men. For example, in the Biblical "Book of Leviticus", verse 20:13, they are called a disgusting thing" - for more information on this subject see item #B4 on the web page antichrist.htm.

2. Purpose to which it serves. Required by God "true morality" has been designed by God in such a manner that it is to serve a divine purpose as well as possible - especially to serve the God's goal of "pursuing the knowledge" described in item #B1 from the web page named antichrist.htm, and also the described in item #A4 of this web page goal of developing in people such permanent attributes of character, which in the next life allow them to harmoniously coexist with others and with God in heaven, without turning this heaven into a "hell", into which various immoral wickeds managed to turn the present Earth. On the other hand, the "scientific morality" serves to various imperfect goals of people who execute the control over its formation, for example, serve the increase of income of these people, the consolidation or extending of their power, the elimination of the public outrage over some immoral human desires - e.g. to homosexuality, etc.

3. Stand towards human imperfections. The "true morality" is so designed by God, that its practicing forces people to work on the elimination of their weaknesses. By contrast, the "scientific morality" is designed in such a manner that the practicing of it causes the approval by the society the human "imperfections" and taking these imperfections as "perfections" (e.g. consider the changes of human attitudes towards wealth, greed, perversion known as "homosexuality", etc., caused by the development of the "scientific morality").

4. Consequences for the social inequalities and tensions. The "true morality" is so designed by God, that the practicing of it eliminates social disparities, reduce tensions between communities, promotes peace, etc. However, the accidentally changed "scientific morality" causes the opposite consequences, namely causes the increase in social inequalities (for example, increases the gap between the poor and the rich), increases social tensions (e.g. causes periodic outbursts of civil wars, revolutions, and even wars between nations), promotes group aggressiveness, etc.

5. Treatment of justice. The "true morality" is so designed by God, that the practicing of it increases the fairness and equality of treatment of all people. In turn the "scientific morality" works in reverse - i.e. it increases the injustice under the pretence that it increases the righteousness.

6. Consistency of requirements. The "true morality" executed from people by God, has only one requirement, namely "in your life always act morally". In order to make easier for people to obey this requirement, God introduced a number of so-called "indicators of moral correctness" (e.g. "moral field", "conscience", etc.) described more comprehensively in items #C4 to #C4.6 of this web page, or in item #B1 from the web page named changelings.htm. In turn "scientific morality" introduced so many requirements, that in present times are unable to comprehend and obey all of them NOT only ordinary people, but even professional lawyers and politicians. For example, according to this "scientific morality", in our lives we should obey: laws of the country, laws of local authorities, principles of loyalty and discipline, know and obey ethical requirements of our job, keep professional secrets, respect even the most wicked superiors and obey their orders, observe privacy of other people, do NOT offend deviated and crazy, NOT cause noise, not ignore police, insure own properties, not catch fish in specified waters, etc., etc.

7. Who ensures the observance. In the human nature is a tendency to not follow any "morality." Therefore, if no-one is to keep eye on people, then they slip down into practicing the highly immoral philosophy of parasitism. Unfortunately, the societies are unlikely to survive if they consist only of people who practice this immoral philosophy. Therefore, the compliance to these two basic varieties of contemporary morality must be guarded by someone. The "scientific morality" is watched over by the laws prevailing in a given country, as well as by the atmosphere and trends in that country. For example, the requirement that we always need to do whatever our superiors and the authorities require from us, is enforced by employers, police, courts, social pressure, wives, children, etc.

Whereas the compliance with the "true morality" oversees just God alone. However, since all acts of God are obeying the so-called "canon of ambiguity", also this divine supervision of the compliance with requirements of "true morality" for many people seem to be "ambiguous". But in fact it does exist and if someone do study it carefully, then it turns out to be the most realistic - for more details see e.g. item #C4.2 from this web page, or e.g. item #G1 from the web page named will.htm.

8. Type of penalties for non-compliance. If a person fails to comply with the "scientific morality", then he or she is threatened with all kinds of penalties - depending on the aspect which is NOT observed. For example, a failure to comply with commands of superiors can cause a job loss, a breaking of the laws of the country may land a given person in a prison, etc. But if someone fails to comply with the "true morality", the typical punishment is always the same, namely, always in the long-term action of moral mechanisms all benefits that resulted from a given immoral behaviour are cancelled. Furthermore, every immorally acting person is condemned to "early death" - because God typically shortens his or her life by an amount proportional to the quantitative value of the committed "immorality" (as explained in item #G1 from the web page named will.htm or in item #B4 of the web page named antichrist.htm). In addition to this loss of everything that was accomplished due to immoral acting and to this "premature death", each immorally acting person must also experience the same kind of "immorality" which he or she has caused to other people - so as to fulfil the requirements of the "moral law" called the "Boomerang Principle" briefly described in item #C4.4 below on this web page.

#B7. "Problems" arising from differences between the "true morality" described by the definition of the new "totaliztic science", and the "scientific morality" described by the definition of the old "atheistic orthodox science", as well as the avoidance of these problems:

Motto: "Wherever there is a competition, one party may begin to resort to 'disallowed tricks'."

The biggest problem arising from the differences between the two above moralities which currently are simultaneously required from people, is that many of the requirements of both these moralities are mutually contradictory, while simultaneously a failure to fulfil any of these requirements are severely punished. Thus, if one is to listen e.g. to the order of the "true morality" stating "do not kill a human" - then he or she should refuse to go into the army and to a war. At the same time, listening to the "scientific morality" requires from us the compliance with laws and orders of authorities, and it, amongst others, sends us to the army and asks us to kill humans during a war, or during ever increasing lately so-called "civil wars" and "revolutions". So, if for example someone decides to hear the God's command "do not kill your neighbours", he or she may be shot by his or her own countrymen for a lack of patriotism and for insubordination. But if someone is listening to orders of authorities "go to a war and kill those fellows who are dressed in uniforms of the enemies of your country", then God can kill him or her - according to the action of the "Boomerang Principle". So each person believing in God is constantly forced to choose in their lives, whether or not to implement orders of the "true morality", or orders of the "scientific morality". (For other example of a similar situation see item #B5.1 from the web page named will.htm.)

Jesus commands with words discussed in item #C4.2 below, that people should intelligently seek ways of obeying God's laws without the simultaneous breaking human laws. So one can wonder whether the principle of acting described in item #L3 from the web page named cielecza_uk.htm, in fact is still the only developed by people so-far, and used in practice, general principle of avoiding the punishment by one of these two mutually contradictory moralities? After all, is not appearing that in the foreseeable future, neither the human official science nor the politicians suddenly began to introduce laws that would NOT be in a direct conflict with whatever omnipotent God requires from us.

Part #C: What facts confirm the correctness of the definition of "morality" that stem from "a priori" approach to research of reality by the new "totaliztic science":

#C1. The correctness of totaliztic definition of "morality" is confirmed by a huge body of evidence - only that to NOT destroy the human "free will", this confirmation is carried out by God in such a "discreet" manner that the "canon of ambiguity" is always fulfilled:

In reality exists a huge amount of evidence, which unambiguously judges the correctness of both opposite definitions of "morality" presented in items #B2 and #B5 above. This huge body of evidence confirms, that the definition of morality developed by the new "totaliztic science" and presented in item #B5 above is absolutely correct. Simultaneously the same body of evidence indicates, that the definition of morality provided by the "atheistic orthodox science" to-date is completely wrong, and that the erroneousness of it introduces very serious consequences for many people - for example sometimes it even "costs lives" of these people who treat their "morality" too lightly.

Because this wrong understanding of the concept of "morality" is so rich in consequences, and because for the wrong treatment of morality many people must die prematurely, in subsequent items of this "part #C" I am going to present the most vital body of evidence which reveals that only the abovementioned definition #B5 from the new "totaliztic science" is absolutely correct.

#C2. Commandments and requirements imposed by God on our lives:

As this is explained in item #D2 from the further part of this web page, God created and maintains the humanity for a very concrete reason and goal - which is the pursuit of knowledge. But in order this goal can be accomplished, certain conditions must be fulfilled. For example, people must be continuously inspired to carry out discussions and to seek truths; the having and expressing different views CANNOT be punished; discoverers, inventors, and those speaking the truth CANNOT be persecuted by other people (as persecuted is e.g. the author of this web page); the so-called "phenomena of nature" must have such a course that they can be explained on many different manners; people must live in mutual respect and love to others; must prevail peace; people CANNOT be hungry, oppressed or desperate; they must have the required time for philosophical deliberations and for searching for truth; etc., etc. As it turns out, all these conditions are fulfilled only when the significant majority of people lives in the highly "moral" manner - i.e. when they obey just these requirements and commandments of the "moral living" which God imposed onto all the humans.

The need for the existence of specific requirements and moral principles imposed onto people by God is described and explained in items #C1 and #B4 of the web page named tornado.htm. It is also discussed below in item #D3 from the further part of this web page.

#C3. Body of evidence which confirms that God created and issued to people very clear standards of "morality" and "morally correct" behaviour:

There are completely independent from people standards of "morality" and "morally correct behaviours". These standards are given to people by God in several different forms, e.g. in the "written form" expressed in the content of so-called "holy books" (e.g. in the content of the Bible) or in the "whispered form" continually offered to us as so-called "whispers of conscience". Additionally, these are later confirmed also by various historical events, course of wars, attributes of various phenomena of nature, etc. Therefore, these "standards of morality" CANNOT be changed or "re-interpreted" by any power-thirsty or "fame-thirsty" politicians, or by philosophers with over-inflated ego, or by scientists that try to replace God through the formulation of own principles of "pretended-morality".

In sub-items that are to follow now, I am going to discuss most vital amongst these "standards of morality" given to us by God to be obeyed pedantically. Here they are:
#C3.1. The Bible as the primary standard of "morality":

The Bible is (and always will be) the most vital, primary, and initial "standard of morality" that originates from God Himself.

Only that, being written around 2000 years ago, the Bible uses the language and examples which today are already seen as slightly "out of date" in relationship to present times. (E.g. whom today we call "workers" or "labourers" in the Bible are called "slaves"). Furthermore, in order to NOT support human "laziness" and "ignorance", God so formulated the Bible, that it only answers the question "what", but does NOT provide people with ready-made replies nor recipes for questions "why", "how", "what it stems from", "what confirms this", etc. Replies to these questions people must laboriously work out for themselves. In fact these replies are already worked out and disseminated amongst people by the new philosophy called the philosophy of totalizm.

#C3.2. The counter-organ of "conscience" which links directly with God practically every person, as an intelligent "one-way hot telephone line" which also continually whispers for us "God’s standards of morality":

Every person has a 'build-in' own brain a kind of "one-way telephone" that links this person with God. This telephone is called the "conscience". With the assistance of it, God in every life situation discreetly hints us which our behaviour is "moral" and which is "immoral". Therefore, e.g. practising a simplest version of totalizm, called the intuitive totalizm, boils down to simple listening to our own organ of conscience and then thorough doing what this conscience whispers to us.

The conscience works correctly in all people. For this reason, many of so-called "atheists" frequently also benefit from its "whispers". In turn, because practicing the "morality" is the major criterion by which God judges later every person, these "atheists" who act morally because they listen to (and obey) whispers of their conscience, God treasures such morally acting "atheists" and places them incomparably higher that these immoral "believers" - who do NOT listen to whispers of their conscience and thus behave immorally.

Unfortunately, the conscience can be deafen (stifled). Thus "immoral people" are these ones who chronically deafen whispers of their conscience. In this way many highly religious people also act highly immoral - simply these people deafen their own conscience. Of course, if they act immorally, they are punished - similarly as every other immoral person. After all, the basic criterion by which God judges people, and on the basis of which God serves to them appropriate "rewards" or "punishments", is the moral behaviour and the respect (love) of God, not the religiousness.

#C3.3. The philosophy of totalizm as independent, objective and current scientific "confirmations" of standards of "morality" that originated from God:

Unfortunately, in spite that the Bible is the "primary" standard of morality which originates from God Himself, it was put together around 2000 years and until today its language, examples, and various expressions, become slightly old fashioned.

Fortunately, in 1985 was developed the philosophy of totalizm which states practically the same as the Bible does - but it does it with modern (present) language and with the use of most recent examples and scientific tools for objective investigations.

Totalizm is a very simple philosophy which has only one principle that must be obeyed. This only principle states everything that you do always do in a pedantically moral way. Of course, in order every person can implement this only principle, the philosophy of totalizm explains exactly "how", "why", etc., everything must be done in order to be "pedantically moral".

In fact this philosophy of totalizm initially did NOT intend to reflect or confirm the Bible. This is because it was formed when the previously described Concept of Dipolar Gravity revealed that the universe is NOT build nor works as the "atheistic orthodox science" to-date teaches it. Thus, the formulation of the Concept of Dipolar Gravity forced the development of a new philosophy, which from the very beginning was named totalizm (but written with "z", not with "s"), which would teach people how they supposed to live in the world which structure and operation is defined by the Concept of Dipolar Gravity. With the elapse of time, by analysing the Concept of Dipolar Gravity, the philosophy of totalizm scientifically discovered regularities and laws that rule over lives of humans in just such a world governed by the dipolar gravity. As it later turned out, these regularities and laws are exactly the same as these ones which are described in the Bible. This is why the philosophy of totalizm is in every point agreeable with the content of the Bible in the area of the replies to questions "what", but in addition it also explains objectively "why", "where it comes from", "how", "which evidence confirms it", etc. As such, the philosophy of totalizm complements the Bible in all these matters which God did NOT wish to reveal to people for "free", but left them for the laborious working out by people with the appropriate contribution of effort, work and pain.

Both, (1) the Bible, and (2) the philosophy of totalizm, originate from completely different sources, were formulated by completely different categories of authors, and were developed on completely different basis. However, both of them in their descriptions of "morality" arrive to exactly the same truths, principles and regularities ruling over this "morality". This in turn means, that "morality" is the objective entity, that CANNOT originate from people because it is superior in relationship to people, and is the product of true structure and operation of the universe in which we live, and that has the "standard" that is independent from people and results from principles of operation of this universe. The Bible commands that "in everything we always must base on statements of at least 'two witnesses' " - as this is explained more comprehensively in item #C5 on the web page named the Bible. Thus, if the Bible is this "first and primary witness" which persuades to us that we must live "morally", the philosophy of totalizm is this "second witness" which completely independently persuades to us exactly the same.

#C3.4. The philosophy of parasitism which also teaches "morality" but with the different method of "reversed logic", i.e. through revealing standards of "immorality":

In item #B7.2 of the web page named seismograph.htm was explained that "morality" can be learned in two different ways, namely either (a) by showing how one needs to live "morally" - as this is done e.g. by the philosophy of totalizm or (b) on principles of the "reversed logic" - i.e. by learning or experiencing effects of acting "immorally" and to what this "immorality" leads people to. This second standard of "immorality", which depends on thorough illustrating what is the "immorality" and why God so vigorously fight it out and so severely punishes people who practice it, is the so-called philosophy of parasitism. This philosophy constitutes an exact reversal of the philosophy of totalizm described in previous sub-item.

By the way, God Himself also uses both these methods simultaneously, to teach us morality. After all, independently from the Bible, which teaches us how one should live to be moral, God widely utilises towards people also the method of upbringing called the "principle of reversals" (the one described, amongst others, in item #B1.1 from the web page named antichrist.htm and in item #F3 from the web page named wszewilki_uk.htm), which illustrates to us quite well what immorality is all about and to what outcomes it leads us.

Similarly like totalizm, the philosophy of parasitism also is a very simple philosophy. Actually, in order to practice it one does NOT need to learn it, but it suffices to just allow that we are ruled by our inclinations, desires, pleasures, addictions, etc. The essence of practicing the philosophy of parasitism expresses the following doctrine in everything that you do, do NOT obey any duties nor laws - unless you are somehow forced to obey them.

At this point it is worth to emphasize, that people invented a huge number of various philosophies. But almost all of them contain similar views on morality and practically in nothing vital they differ from each other. This is because almost all of them are based on the "unwritten assumption" of their authors, that "morality is a human invention", and thus each one of them tries to introduce some own version of morality. On the other hand, in real life there is only one morality (this defined for people by God) and it is absolutely "non-negotiable". Thus people have only two options regarding morality, namely they can either (1) learn it and obey it, or (2) ignore it and disobey it. This is why from the point of view of God, there are only two philosophies, namely (1) the philosophy of totalizm - which boils down to learning and to pedantic obeying the requirements of God's morality, and thus for the practicing of which God rewards people, and (2) the philosophy of parasitism - which boils down to ignoring and to disobeying the requirements of morality given to us by God, and thus for the practicing of which God severely punishes every human parasite which adheres to this philosophy.

We also need to emphasize here strongly, that people who are highly religious also frequently practice this punishable by God philosophy of parasitism. This is because the majority of today religions limit themselves almost completely to the public "worshipping of God", instead to obeying the God's moral requirements and commandments. However, in case of disobedience towards moral commandments and requirements of God, the religiousness of these people does NOT protect them from experiencing severe punishments for practicing this highly immoral philosophy of parasitism - the evidence of which we see e.g. in fates of some highly religious countries already saturated with the philosophy of parasitism (e.g, Pakistan or Afghanistan), and also in fates of some entire religions or churches - e.g. see items #C3, #C5 and #C6 from the web page named seismograph.htm.

#C4. The body of evidence which confirms that even for "atheists" God also created and make available clear indicators of "morality" and "morally correct behaviours" - of the kind of "moral field",
"moral energy", "moral laws", etc.:

Pity that these indicators of "moral correctness" and "morally correct conduct" so-far could NOT be detected nor described by neither religions nor by the old "atheistic orthodox science" to-date (i.e. by the science we still must learn in schools and at universities), and thus that it was necessary to create the philosophy of totalizm and the new "totaliztic science" in order to reveal these indicators to people and made them available for the use of general public. These indicators take on particular importance in the light of the principle of "survival of the most moral" discovered only in 2012, which may also be named the principle of "extinction of the most immoral intellects", and which is described in more detail, among others, in items #G1 to #G7 from the page named will.htm, item #B1 from the web page named changelings.htm or item #A2.7 from the web page named totalizm.htm. This principle reveals to us the fact, that for people who do NOT act morally, God shortens their life and causes their premature deaths at ages that are proportional to the assessed by God harm that their immorality causes against God's goals and intentions. Therefore below we will briefly review the most important amongst these indicators:

#C4.1. Everything that God does, He always do it in such a manner that it has "at least" 3 independent explanations - thus independently from the Bible, also God created also further objective indicators of "morality" and "morally correct behaviours":

In order people could be "partners of God" in accomplishing the most vital goal for which God created humans, namely the "pursue of knowledge" (i.e. the goal discussed here in items #C2 and #D2), it becomes necessary that God allows every person to have own "free will" that enables this person to formulate own views on practically every subject and topic. Therefore, in everything that God does, He always incorporates attributes which give to it the character of a high ambiguity. The presence of such attributes is defined by the so-called "canon of ambiguity" (also called the "canon of indefinites") described more comprehensively, amongst others, in item #C2 of the web page named will.htm. (This canon states: "in the universe nothing can be fully unambiguous and deprived sources of all doubts, because then the people who confront it would be deprived the right to their own free will and the right to choose their own views and the path through the life". After all, God is the source and cause of everything that exists in our world. Thus everything that would be unambiguous and deprived of all doubts, would also unambiguously point at God, and thus would deprive people of the right to formulate own views and behaviours, means "free will".) Therefore into every phenomenon or event which God causes on the Earth, are incorporated attributes which allow it to be explained in at least 3 different ways. These at least 3 independent ways of explaining everything that God does, are described, amongst others, in item #C2 of the web page named tornado.htm.

In order also "morality" could be explained completely independently from the fact of existence of God, and thus in order "morality" was also acceptable for people who do NOT practice the faith in God, God formulated a range of objective phenomena and indicators, which even for "atheists" point out the most moral behaviours. In sub-items that are to follow now, I am going to describe most important amongst these indicators.
#C4.2. The use of the moral field for an "indicator of the moral correctness" with the characteristics so secular and so scientific, that even for "atheists" this indicator can be accepted for comparing human actions with standards of morality that are objectively existing and independent from humans:

Motto: "The more countries approve and legalize the growing number of immoral human behaviours, the more life on Earth becomes similar to hell."

A phenomenon, which from the point of view of moral mechanisms turns out to be the most important for our life, is the moral field. This field I already described relatively well on many totaliztic web pages, e.g. see items #H2, #D1 and #C1 on my web page named totalizm.htm, or item #J1 and the caption under "Fig. #I1" on my web page named pajak_for_mp_2014.htm. However, in order to NOT force the reader to interrupt the course of reading of this web page, also here I quote one amongst several totaliztic definitions of this field (but notice that the same "moral field" can also be defined in a number of other ways, including ways that bypass the use of the word "God", and thus are acceptable for "atheists"). Here is this definition: the "moral field" is a sequence of discretely (discontinuously) occurring events and phenomena that God intelligently triggers at the moment when we plan and implement any our intention or action, and which by our mind are processed into the feeling constantly acting upon us, which in the case of us completing a morally correct action, in us induces discouragement, while in our environment induces emotional and physical resistance that opposes to the implementation of this action, while in the case of us completing an immoral action, the feeling encourages us to implement it, while in our environment induces situations that help us to complete it. A relatively detailed description of examples of just such discrete phenomena and events intelligently triggered by God during a period of nearly half of the year 2014, to form from them the moral field acting on my mind and my surroundings, is provided in items #N3 and #N4 from my web page named pajak_for_mp_2014.htm. Examples described therein reveal the mechanism of formation of the moral field in the course of my NZ election campaign.

In other words, the moral field is like an intellectual equivalent and a relative, to the gravitational field - which hinders our effort in all cases of, for example, climbing upstairs or climbing up the mountain, while which makes our descent easier in all cases of going down the stairs or down a mountain. However, there is also a lot of differences between gravity and the moral field. The most important of these differences are described, among others, in item #H2 from the web page named totalizm.htm. For example, one of such highly significant difference is that gravity always works in almost the same way, while the "moral field" in the short term works exactly opposite than in the long-term - which fact is explained a bit further below in item #C4.2.1. In its short-term action the moral field mainly has the goal to enable the examining and judging a given action and the person implementing this action. Thus, a short-term work of moral field is manifested most strongly immediately after we started the implementation of a given action, and then it gradually fades away. In contrast, only in its long-term work the moral field starts to generate the "moral return" that is due to the person or to the community for a given action and for the moral or immoral nature of this action. This "moral return", occurs only after passes the required so-called "time of return", means many years later - because it takes the form of either a response from the "Boomerang Principle", or a karmatic response, and thus it has yet to be properly prepared by moral mechanisms. For example, from my research to-date it stems, that in the case of actions taken by individual people, the "time of return" typically amounts to about 7 to 10 years. In turn for group intellects, e.g. for the entire countries or for all of humanity, in some cases, this "time of return" may come even around 10 times later. E.g., the return of karma for the implementation of slavery and colonialism typically began to emerge after about 100 years since such immoral actions were taken by a given country, while the long-term reply of the moral field for such immoral implementations as antibiotics, pesticides, or the theory of relativity, arrived only after about 70 years since their development and implementation.)

The moral field has this feature that everything we do in our life, either immediately climbs us uphill, or immediately slides us down of this field. Namely, everything that is moral demands from us a laborious and difficult climbing uphill in the moral field. In turn everything that is immoral causes our effortless and pleasurable sliding down in the moral field. It is just because of such action of the moral field, that the actual truth is said to us by that popular saying stating that "everything nice in life is either immoral, illegal, or makes us fat" - a quote usually attributed to Dorothy Parker (this saying is highlighted on the web page with the "instruction", named p_instruction.htm - which describes my "playlists" with videos of totaliztic songs programmed for "smart" TVs from the Korean company "LG".)

The new "totaliztic science" also determined that the "moral field" is a kind of invisible "dynamically shifting us back" primary field of intellectual nature (i.e. originally acting on our minds). Its operation is therefore quite similar to the action of gravity on objects suspended in the midair (e.g. on birds), because it requires a contribution of hard work even just to hover motionless in it.

Because of this ability of the moral field to "dynamically shift us back", in this field we always must put continuous effort and work NOT only when we want to climb higher up, but even if we only want to keep ourselves on the same level and in the same position. The discontinuation of climbing uphill in the moral field causes that this field immediately shifts us back. The moral field is always so configured, that doing anything that is "moral" runs "uphill" in this field, while doing anything that is "immoral" runs "downhill" in this field. In turn, because this field is "dynamically shifting us back" - as it is also explained in items #D5, #I2 and #J1 from this web page, "not doing anything" still causes us to slide down in it. In other words, it works in a way that "doing nothing" is also a strongly "immoral" behaviour, and thus demanding a punishment. It is because of the existence of this "moral field ", that everything people do (or everything that they neglect to do while they should do it) always has a clearly defined "moral polarization" (i.e. everything is always either "moral" or "immoral"). For example, in item #A2 from the web page named pajak_na_prezydenta_2015.htm (unfortunately available only in the Polish language) is explained, that even some of the ways to do gym exercises (e.g. used as escapes to gyms from doing the real physical work for the benefit of specific people) also can be implemented in an immoral manner. It also this "moral field" causes that doing anything that is "moral" always in a short term requires putting into it our effort and work to overcome the short-term resistance of this moral field, while doing everything that is "immoral" in the short term is always pleasant and effortless. (This is just why so many people are practicing the immoral philosophy of parasitism, because being the highly immoral, always practicing this philosophy in the short term does NOT require putting into it any effort and is a source of immediate pleasures.)

This attribute of moral field, that it imposes a definite moral polarity onto each human activity which we knowingly take (or onto every lack of action when it is needed), makes the moral field to be an excellent "indicator of the moral correctness". After all, in every life situation it is enough to determine whether a given our action climbs uphill, or slides downhill in the moral field, and we immediately get to know cognitively (i.e. we affirm this with our mind and knowledge), whether this our action is moral or immoral - i.e., whether when we complete it then in the long term we will be rewarded for it, or punished for it by the moral mechanisms. The existence of such an indicator is extremely important, because currently the life on Earth has become very complicated, hence the indicators which God originally provided in the Bible (e.g. 10 commandments) in many life situations no longer suffice for a growing group of people for an unambiguously determination in the cognitive manner, whether whatever is just planned to be done is moral or immoral (although independently from our mind, about the morality or immorality of a given action inform us also whispers of our conscience - but many people have forgotten already how to listen to these whispers). Thus, in an increasing number of cases, people do NOT listen to whispers of their conscience and they violate the criteria of morality, means they act immorally, because they do NOT realize the immorality of their actions - which, however, the lack of cognitive knowledge that one acts immorally does NOT protect anyone from being severely punished for breaking moral criteria (at which fact I already directed the attention of reader in item #A4 of this web page). After all, one of the most important goals of our life is the "pursue of knowledge" - for details see items #B1 and #B1.1 on my web page named antichrist.htm, while penalties for ignoring the obligation of such generation of knowledge are also to "persuade people" to further their knowledge. In spite of this, most people still think, that it is enough to NOT do what is prohibited by the "10 Commandments", and one already has acted enough morally. However, the truth is that virtually every human action can be carried out either in a moral manner, or in an immoral way - only that the current religions neither research this matter, nor they are going to inform us about it, while the official, so-called "atheistic orthodox science" is NOT intending to research and disclose of that fact - as I have already explained this in item #A4 from this web page. However, the today's modern life causes, that on a daily basis we encounter a huge number of situations and actions, about which without the use of moral field as an "indicator of the moral correctness" we cannot be able to established cognitively whether these represent moral or immoral decisions and behaviours of people. So let us list here at least some most troubling examples of such typical situations and action wrongly understood by people. Here they are:

1. Taxes. When I discussed taxes during my election campaign described on the web page pajak_for_mp_2014.htm, the majority of my collocutors expressed the view that taxes are necessary. After all, they allow to built roads, hospitals and schools, equip army, etc. What these people NOT see, is that if one goes one step further and check e.g. how it is selected which roads should be constructed and what kind of contractors builds them, how well hospitals today are serving to ordinary taxpayers, what in those schools is taught, and what level of knowledge children of taxpayers are reaching, for what is used the army after it is equipped, etc., and also if we count e.g. for what we would be able to pay by themselves if we do NOT pay taxes, then we can begin to have doubts about the true "value for money" of many taxes we pay. In addition, the moral analysis carried out for taxes show that virtually all taxes imposed onto individual people violate various moral criteria, means are "immoral" - for more extensive explanation see item #T2 from the web page named humanity.htm. (The morally correct may be some forms of tax collected from companies and institutions.) In turn the most immoral out of all of taxes, are the ones called VAT or GST. Their effects on humans and on the economy can be compared to pouring sand into the gears of working machines. As the research of the new "totaliztic science" has shown, in a long-term action of moral mechanisms the punishment for immorality always turns out to be, among others, the cancellation of all beneficial consequences of a given immoral action. Because the money collected by the government in the form of taxes, are then used to finance various governmental projects, this practically means that the true punishment for immoral collecting taxes from individual people, is the waste by the governments of almost everything that from these taxes is later financed. This penalty is independently confirming my finding, which I already described in item #A4 from this web page - namely, that the majority of decisions of today's governments violates various criteria of morality, and thus in the long-term work of moral mechanisms the beneficial consequences of almost all government decisions are cancelled (eliminated).

2. Songs. Not everyone is aware of the fact that many products of artists, for example songs, also cause significant harm to audiences - means also break various moral criteria.
In November 2014 I started the search in YouTube for songs which would be morally unblemished (i.e. which by themselves do NOT break any moral criteria). I wanted to form from them several "totaliztic playlists" with song videos. But I was shocked to discover that there is so few of such morally unblemished songs, that it appears almost impossible to form from them several thematically oriented playlists - for details see my web page named p_instruction.htm.

3. Antibiotics, pesticides and the theory of relativity. Moral field is quite clear, that the decisions of implementing all of these were (and still are) highly immoral. Explanation of "why it is so" is provided in item #J1 from the web page named pajak_for_mp_2014.htm. It is just because those decisions and actions have proven to be highly immoral, that as the discoverer of the "telekinesis" I have decided to declare the "telekinesis free zone" described on the web page named tfz.htm - after all practically everything can be done in a moral or immoral manner. However, from the resistance which the moral field has been exerting since a long time onto the construction of telekinetic devices, it can be deduced, that in typical cases the implementation of technical telekinesis is to be the moral decision and the morally correct action - although in the future perhaps there will be also cases that someone starts to use telekinesis for immoral purposes (the irreparable harm of which use is intended to be prevented by the establishing of my "telekinesis free zone").

4. Addictive principles of operation. In past factories were proud that whatever they produce is reliable and durable - hence it will serve to their buyers almost indefinitely. But then it turned out that this reliability and durability led the factory of "Volkswagen" almost to bankruptcy. Their cars "beetles" in fact turned out to be so good, that no-one wanted to buy new ones. At the same time the Japanese car factories, which did NOT hide that their cheap cars are produced only for a service life of about 10 years, earned fortunes. This caused a drastic change of tactics of almost the entire industry. It was at that time that was invented a lasting trend, which by analogy with the action of drugs can be called "addictive principles of operation". It depends on the fact, that currently an increasing number of products of industrial mass production is designed and built in such a way that they are like narcotics, namely that force their users into a cycle of endless acquisition of these products, or their components - e.g. to a repeated disposal of older versions of the product from a given factory, or the older part of this product, and repurchase of a newer version or a newer part of the product from the same factory. Of course, the driving force behind this trend is greed, which does NOT take into account the damage that it causes to the environment, natural resources of the Earth, the advancement of knowledge, human habits, health and wealth of mankind, and the like. What even more interesting, this trend NOT only has been implemented already for a long time to less-important products such as cardboard plates or plastic disposable spoons, but also to cars, television sets, electrical and electronic equipment, etc. Let us now review some of the most representative "tricks" used by various factories and manufacturers in the practical implementation of this highly immoral trend.

4a. Hand drills and other electrical power-tools. In past the hand drills and almost all other so-called "power-tools" were powered from the electrical grid. However, they worked very reliably and for a too long period of time. So their manufacturers have invented their powering by batteries. This is because today's batteries are quickly ageing, and their electrical capacitance decreases rapidly. After all, so-far the humanity has NOT been developing anything significant enough for it to motivate the development of long-life batteries - i.e. such as would be the Oscillatory Chambers of my invention (such motivator to increase the lives of batteries could be solar systems described in the next example - but for now their development is blocked by electric monopolies, as described in items #A1, #B5 and #F3 from my web page named solar.htm). Owners of battery-powered tools are quickly so impatient because of the need to recharge them too often, that they repeatedly buy new batteries for themselves - of course, from the same factory as a given power-tool is. Thus, at present one cannot buy any longer e.g. a hand electric drill powered from the grid - as personally I realized it due to the futility of my own attempts to buy such a drill
4b. Battery-deprived domestic solar systems for the generation of electricity from the energy of sunlight. Solar energy is considered to be "clean", because it does NOT pollute our planet and eliminates dirty power plants. But smart managers of such dirty power plants quickly came up with an idea as to how, under the guise of promoting "clean" solar energy, force idealistic people to become additionally dependent on these dirty power plants. Namely, they came up with an idea, that if they manage to persuade those idealistic people to build for themselves solar systems without batteries that store electricity, then at nights, when there is NO sunlight, the owners of these solar systems will still need the services of these dirty power plants. In this way, there come up a situation that in many countries, the projects to build "clean" solar systems are now monopolized by dirty power plants, and these power plants build only the accumulator-deprived domestic solar systems, which additionally make even more dependent (instead of freeing) their owners from these dirty power plants. Thus, the moral field confirms here, that building such accumulator-deprived domestic solar systems, also represents a highly immoral decision and behaviour - for which in the long-term work of moral mechanisms people will be punished. The moral is only the installation in private homes the solar systems equipped with batteries. More information, including answers "why", is provided in items #A1, #B5 and #F3, from my web page named solar.htm.

4c. The so-called. "smart" TVs. If one has a computer and a TV, then these impose strongly that someone should merge them both into one device. Thus, under the pressure of public opinion, the television companies began to build the so-called "smart" TVs, about which is claimed that they combine the quality of the TV picture with the capabilities of a computer. However, to support the trend described here for making members of public dependent on the television and computer industry, these "smart" TVs have a whole range of inconveniences and imperfections, the existence of which can be justified only by the human greed. For example, they already have a built into themselves a recording function for whatever is watched, but in order to NOT decrease the sales of video-recorders they have too small memories to accommodate in it even only just a single film, and in addition they do NOT allow to send a recorded programme onto any external memory. A list of immoral limitations and disadvantages of such "smart" television sets, which clearly result solely from human greed, is provided in "part #B" and in item #A10, from the web page named p_instruction.htm.

4d. Medicines. We are used to believe that all medicines are good for people, because they heal. However, the truth is that everything, even the production of medicines and the treatments, can be made either in a moral or immoral manner. It so happens that in order to satisfy their greed, some pharmaceutical companies have come up with an idea, that if instead of producing medicines that heal diseases and thus terminate the profits of these companies, it is preferable to profitably produce medicines that only relieve the symptoms of the disease, and thus make the patients to take these medicines for the rest of their lives. That immoral trend of some pharmaceutical companies to produce mainly such addictive drugs, is described in items #I1 and #I2 from my web page named healing.htm. Lately, various "research" try to even convince people, that they should take continually old medicines as well - in spite that this old medicines used to heal and should NOT be taken all the time (e.g. consider the supposed "benefits" of continuous taking of aspirin).

4e. Cars with immorally large engines. At the beginning of the 1980s, the passenger cars with largest engines were in NZ Fords with 2-liter engines. However, typical NZ cars still had then engines which displacement volume of the cylinder smaller than one litre. (I remember this fact very well, because as a newly arrived from Wroclaw University of Technology lecturer of mechanical engineering with interests in the direction of propulsion systems, who in Poland had a Fiat car with engine of 650 cubic cm capacity, after my arriving in NZ I spent a lot of time to study the differences between the state of the automotive industry in communist Poland and in capitalist NZ.) Unfortunately, cars of that time burned too little of gasoline to satisfy the greed of oil companies - which are constantly... manipulating the automotive industry. Thus, in the following years, the capacity of the engines in NZ passenger cars grew rapidly, so that by 2014 (in December of which year I was reediting this item of the web page) the engine capacity in some luxury cars, for example GM and Chrysler (Dodge), had already exceeded 10 litres, while the new cars with a capacity of less than one litre, in 2014 could NOT be purchased in NZ at all. That is, only in the period of 30 years, the size (and thus also the fuel consumption) of engines in passenger cars increased at least 5-fold. In other words, the engines of some luxury cars in 2014 were already bigger than the engines of the most important battle tank "Valentine" used by the British Empire in the battles of the World War II - which tank is described under "Fig. #E1.3" from the web page named bitwa_o_milicz_uk.htm. Of course, if we think about it, cars with engines larger than war tanks, at a time when the planet is dying from pollution and when the global oil reserves are coming to a complete exhaustion, do NOT allow to be described otherwise than as a provocative immorality.

5. Destruction of mechanisms that teach people morality. Starting since the end of World War II, our civilization began to gradually destroy the mechanisms that taught morals and sustained morality among the people. Leading role in the destruction are the consequences of monopoly of the "official orthodox science" for knowledge and for education. Let us list here some of these mechanisms.

5a. "Politicization" of religions. Instead of concentrating on fulfilment of the role that God has given to religions, leaders of various religions began to more resemble the politicians seeking to increase their popularity and influence. Although the methods of this "politicization" varies across religions, in each of them they caused changes that can be detected in almost all religions, and consisting of moving away from serving God and turning to serving for the political goals.

5b. Raising children without disciplining them. In many countries, including NZ, in the name of a mistaken sense of supposedly being "good for kids", now are adopted the so-called "anti-smacking laws" - which forbid disciplining of children, and thus which turn into criminals parents that discipline their children. Meanwhile, the disciplining of children is greatly needed. After all, it develops and trains in children the habit of listening to the whispers of conscience. In turn, as it is explained, amongst others, in items #A4, #C4.6 and #C5.6 of this web page, as well as in item #G1 from the different web page named will.htm and in items #C7 and #D3 from yet another web page named god_exists.htm, children who do NOT learn to listen to the whispers of conscience die at a young age - in accordance with the principle of "survival of the most moral". More Information "why" this "anti-smacking law" is immoral, provides also item #B5.1 from my web page named will.htm.

6. Situations when human laws are exactly opposite to the laws of God. The number of such situations is constantly growing. Their excellent example is this New Zealand "anti-smacking law" which is discussed in the previous example. Each one of these situations represents a "trap number 96" - after all, if one does what explicitly tell us the divine law, then one breaks human laws and is to be punished by human authorities and human courts, while if one does whatever requires the human law, then he/she breaks the laws of God and shall be severely punished by God. So how we should deal with such situations - Jesus explained this to us in the Bible with the following words: "Render therefore unto Caesar what belongs to Caesar and to God what belongs to God" (see Matthew 22:21, Mark 12:17, Luke 20: 25). In turn the biblical descriptions of the circumstances in which Jesus spoke these words, clearly suggest that behind these words lies much more meaning than the Bible can afford to speak without being announced as "banned book" by all governments and all rulers of the world. After all, if the Bible ordered, for example: "God's laws take precedence over the laws of people, thus if human laws require something opposite to the laws of God, then always follow the law of God", then the Bible would encourage to civil disobedience - the effects of which would also be immoral because it would lead to anarchy and to the collapse of the rule of law. Therefore, when interpreting these words of Jesus to specific situations in life one has to use a dose of wisdom. For example, in the light of research of totalizm, these words mean in practice: in situations where a divine law and laws of human authorities are opposite to each other, do what God commands, but simultaneously do NOT break the precepts of human laws - so that instead of wasting your time, energy and resources on staying in prison, you could rather take care of the legal elimination of the differences between the content of human and divine laws through e.g. the promotion of knowledge and the truth on this subject, by publishing or disseminating explanations such as these here, by putting your candidacy for parliament or for the government, etc. In other words, Jesus commands in such collisions of laws to intelligently find such ways out of the situation that this do NOT expose us to penalties and persecution of the authorities because of some apparent violations of human laws, while simultaneously this way out of the situation also allow us to do discreetly what God commands. And there are always such ways out - only that one needs to use own wisdom to find them, because they do not reveal themselves to us. The philosophy of totalizm explained, that from every life situation there is at least one morally correct way out, by totalizm called the "highway through the sea" (for details on this "highway" - see item #J3 from the web page named pajak_for_mp_2014.htm). An example of one of many possible ways out of a similar situation, that do NOT demonstrate a civil disobedience yet complied with the laws of God, which the way out I have experienced in the days of my childhood, is described in item #L3 from the web page named cielcza_uk.htm.

7. Thousands of other similar human decisions and actions, about which typically we assume without thinking that they are "moral", but which the moral field, and other "indicators of the moral correctness" in fact unmasked as "immoral". A lot of these wrongly qualified decisions and actions is discussed in various publications of totalizm. However, since most of them represent only yet another example of the use of any of the immoral "tricks" already explained before - I am NOT going to repeat them here anymore. For several such examples - see, among others, item #B6 from my web page named p_instruction.htm.

What is most important, the moral field NOT only confirms the whispers of our conscience, and thus additionally allows us to establish in a cognitive manner (i.e. with our mind and knowledge), which decisions and behaviours are moral and which are immoral, but it also allows us to quickly decide what in a given situation should be done to turn them into morally correct decisions and actions. For example, one of the totaliztic ways to respond to developments of life situations says "always follow the opposite to what tells you the so-called line of the least intellectual resistance". The point is that what this "line of the least intellectual resistance" tells us, it is very easy to almost immediate determination in almost every life situation - for more details see item #A2.1 from my web page named totalizm.htm. So in order to act morally, it is enough to do something that is opposite to the precepts of this line - e.g. if this line pushes us to call someone an idiot, the moral behaviour is the reversal of such calling, means e.g. a polite explanation of whatever constitutes a given problem.

The use of "moral field" as an "indicator of the moral correctness" has also this advantage, that its characteristics are so secular and so scientific, that can also be explained (although erroneously) as caused by "natural mechanisms" completely independent from God (e.g. as caused by the action of the human mind). Hence the use of "moral field" as an "indicator of the moral correctness" is acceptable even for "atheists". In the today's world, increasingly completely filled up with atheists and supervised by the monopoly of the old "atheistic orthodox science", it is a very advantageous feature. After all, it allows that the ordered to us by God moral laws were also accepted by atheists as a kind of independent from people and existing in the "nature" moral standards, and that at the end atheists stop of fabricating their own perverted "scientific morality" which is contrary to the morality dictated to us by God. (This "scientific morality" is described in more detail in items #B6 and #B7 of this web page.) After all, if atheists accept that in the "nature" are ready moral standards that are not susceptible to warping, then they may abandon attempts to create a different "scientific morality" dictated by someone's human whims and "pleases". In turn the acceptance of God's moral standards cease to generate their distortions, while the increasingly wide decision-making and acting done in accordance with the criteria of morality would reduce the number of penalties which for the immoral decisions and actions must now be served to communities and nations. In the result, this would bring peace to earth and allowed for a conformed building a better future for all of people - regardless of whether the builders of this better future are atheists or believers in God.

Even a wider and more detailed explanation of what exactly is this "moral field" (and in other items also what is the "moral energy" and what are "moral laws"), as well as how this moral field affects us, is provided in items #H2 and #D1 from the web page named totalizm.htm and in item #B2 from the web page named parasitism.htm, and also in volume 6 of my newest monograph [1/5]. In turn the graphic illustration of short-term work of "moral field" in four most common life situations is shown in "Fig. #I1" from my web page named pajak_for_mp_2014.htm.

#C4.2.1. The "principle of contradiction between the short-term and long-term effects of the work of moral field" - that also acts as an excellent "indicator of moral correctness":

Moral field is the primary field very similar to the gravity field - only that instead on the physical masses, it acts on our minds. However, the work of moral field slightly differs from the work of gravity. The point is that gravity works much approximately in the same way in both a short-term and in the long-term. On the other hand, the moral field always in the long-term works completely contrary to its own work in the short-term. Namely, doing what is morally correct always in the short-term requires to overcome a clear and significant resistance of the moral field. So in a short-term the moral field works as if it tries to "punish" those people who do whatever is morally correct. However, in its long-term work the moral field always reverses the kind of its work when compared to how it worked in the short-term. Thus, e.g. towards the people who worked morally and hence whom in the short-term this moral like tried to "punish", in the long-term work the moral field always adds its "prize" to the fruits of actions of these people, who in a given matter acted morally correct. At the same time, towards the people who in a given matter acted immorally and hence whom in the short term the moral field as if tried to "help" by making their life and work easy and pleasant, in the long-term the moral field always severely "punishes" for previous immoral acting, by invalidating everything that has been achieved in the short-term with the help of the moral field for the previous immoral actions in a given matter, and additionally by escalating further the problems that this immoral action supposed to solve. This principle of moral field work is called the "principle of contradiction of the short-term and of the long-term effects in the moral field work". The detailed description of it, together with examples of its work drawn from the real life, is provided in item #J1 from the web page named pajak_for_mp_2014.htm.

Consequences of the abovementioned "principle of contradiction in the short-term and in the long-term effects in the moral field work" are so repetitive and so decisive, that they can be utilised as yet another perfect "indicator of the moral correctness". This is because, for example, if we notice that whatever we just are doing is met with a significant resistance from the "moral field", then this means, that our action is morally correct and thus if we only feel that we are able to overcome such resistance then we should persist in the continuation of this our action. True is also an opposite situation. Therefore when we notice, that whatever we just are doing is easy and pleasurable, means that it does NOT encounter clear resistance from the "moral field", then this practically means that our action is immoral and thus for our own good we should abandon it. For an example of the use of this principle as an effective "indicator of the moral correctness" see items #A1, #B5 and #F3 from my page named solar.htm.

Because of the principle discussed here, all the human conducts that are immoral, are pleasant and easy only in a short-term. In turn, in long-term effects, they always turn out to be unpleasant and inducing problems and evil. For example, all immoral decisions in a short-term are fun and easy to implement, and seemingly they look as if they solved the problem for which they were taken. However, in long-term effects they always turn out, that they never solved the problem for which they were taken, and in addition they escalated this problem. As an example consider the long-term consequences of the introduction of antibiotics and pesticides into common use, or the introduction of the theory of relativity to the official education - analysed and described in item #J1 of the abovementioned web page named pajak for mp 2014.htm, or consider the long-term consequences of today's introduction of the "battery-deprived" solar systems for the domestic generation of electricity from the energy of sunlight - described in items #A1, #B5 and #F3 of the abovementioned web page named solar.htm.

#C4.3. The moral energy which provided a further objective indicator of "morality" addressed, amongst others, to "atheists":

The "moral energy" is a kind of intelligent equivalent of "potential energy" known to us from physics. In people increase of it takes place when they climb "upwards" in the abovementioned "moral field" - means when they do something that is "moral". In turn our "moral energy" is dissipated from us in each case when people do something "immoral", or when they do nothing (after all, idleness is also a kind of immorality - as it is explained in item #C4.2). The moral energy is absolutely necessary for living. For example, our "feelings" are simply "sensations experienced during the flow of the moral energy" - as this is explained more comprehensively in subsection I5.5 from volume 5 of my newest monograph [1/5]. In turn the lack in someone of the appropriate level of this moral energy manifests itself in the form of so-called "psychological depression" which CANNOT be healed for as long until that someone complements in himself or herself the missing amount of this vital energy - for a wider description of this depression, see e.g. item #D10 from the web page named totalizm.htm, items #E1 and #E2 from the web page named parasitism.htm, or item #C6 on the web page named nirvana.htm.

Even wider and more thorough explanation of what is this "moral energy" (and also what is this "moral field" and what are these "moral laws") is provided on web pages named totalizm.htm and parasitism.htm, as well as in volume 6 of my newest monograph [1/5].

#C4.4. Moral laws which supply yet another indicator of "morality" addressed, amongst others, to "atheists":

"Moral laws" are independent from people and objectively working mechanisms which with an appropriate time-delay release for us various consequences which are having the character of "rewards" or "punishments" depending on whether what we did previously was "moral" or "immoral". Moral laws work with such an "iron consequence" and so repetitively, that their existence and work is verifiable objectively and can be noticed even by "atheists". This is why their existence is known already for centuries and expressed with countless proverbs, e.g. "The Mills of God grind slowly but they grind surely" or "If you play with fire you get burnt".

A good example of a moral law is the so-called "Boomerang Principle", which in the application to so-called "individual intellects" (i.e. to single people) states, that "whatever feeling you release in other people with your own behaviour, exactly the same feeling in a future someone else is going to release in you". (Notice that this "Boomerang Principle" is based on the mechanism of action which popularly is called karma. Descriptions of the work of this principle are provided in item #B3 of the web page named mozajski_uk.htm.) The "Boomerang Principle" works also for "group intellects" - while an example of just such work of it is described e.g. in item #A2 from the web page named petone.htm.

In the Bible "moral laws" are named quite inconsistently and misleadingly (for our times), with the use of several different expressions, for example "law of God, commands of God, requirements of God, etc. "Relatively well this inconsistency of the biblical terminology referring to moral laws is revealed to us in following quotations taken from the Bible - i.e. from the "Book of Psalms", verses 37:30-31, quote: "The mouth of the righteous is the one that utters wisdom in an undertone, and his is the tongue that speaks justly. The law of his God is in his heart, his steps will not wobble"; or from the "Book of Zephaniah", verse 2:3, quote: "Turn to the Lord, all you humble people of the land, who obey his commands. Do what is right, and humble yourself before the Lord. Perhaps you will escape punishment on the day when the Lord shows his anger"; or from the "Book of Micah", verse 6:8, quote: "The Lord has told us what is good. What he requires from us is this: to do what is just, to show constant love, and to live in humble fellowship with our God."

Because of the above terminological inconsistencies of the Bible, the introduction by totalizm of uniform scientific name "moral laws" for the body of these laws, has many advantages in comparison to the use of old biblical terminology. For example, the totaliztic name much better reflects the function of these laws. Furthermore, it allows these laws to be obeyed without reservations both, by "believers in God" as well as by "atheists" (while e.g. atheists most probably would refuse to obey laws which would carry names such as the "law of God, commands of God, requirements of God, etc."). After all, the work of moral laws, similarly like everything that God created, can be explained on many different ways - while at least one amongst these ways should suit atheists. On the other hand, we must remember that at the present level of human knowledge "atheists" are still very needed by our civilisation as an "active competition" for scientifically passive "religious" people. This is because such a competition induces discussions and creative searches, and thus it causes the progress of knowledge and technology in humanity - for more details see item #J3 on the web page named bitwa_o_milicz_uk.htm or items #A2, #C3 and #C4 on the web page named will.htm. The point is that, as the above web pages explain this, "if the Earth is populated exclusively by the passive scientifically religious people, who blindly and uncritically believe in claims of their religions about God, then probably until today the humanity would live on trees or in caves, we still would NOT have matches nor know how to ignite fire, while people devoted to truth would still be burned on stakes or crucified".

Similarly as for everything that God created, also for the work of "moral laws" one can find a number of different explanations - as this is emphasized in item #C4.1 from this web page. The explanation which is based on the model of the new "totaliztic science" (i.e. on the model described in item #B1 of this web page), as to what actually the "moral laws" are, how they work, and what they state (and also what is this "moral energy" and what is the "moral field"), are provided in item #C1 of the web page named stawczyk_uk.htm, in item #B3 (and in several other, e.g. #D1) from the web page named totalizm.htm, in item #B2 (and also on almost the entire rest) of the web page named parasitism.htm, as well as in volumes 5 and 6 of my newest monograph [1/5] (especially look up in there subsection I4.1.1 from volume 5 of that [1/5]).
In turn the explanation that is based on the model of "atheistic orthodox science" to-date, but which also describes the work of the same "moral laws" while it was supplied to us by a "simulation of an UFOnant", is provided in paragraph N-116 from subsection UB1 in volume 16 of my newest monograph [1/5]. That explanation from the "UFOnant" is sufficiently "secular" and "scientific" to satisfy every "atheist" and to convince him or her to also join the crowd of people who already obey these "moral laws".

#C4.5. Karma the action of which can notice every observable person:

The action of karma results from the "Boomerang Principle" described in previous item. But because this action is quite complicated, I recommend to learn it from a separate web page named karma.htm. In order to fulfill the "canon of ambiguity" described more comprehensively in item #C4.1 of this web page, for karma the "time of return" typically is around 7 to 10 years since was completed a given action for which this return of karma comes - for an example of just such a dating of the return of karma see item #G2 from the web page named prophecies.htm. For many people this is too late to still remember "for what they are getting it".

#C4.6. Conscience:

In order to make easier the fulfilment of requirements of morality, God equipped every person into a special organ of conscience. This conscience continually whispers to the owner what is moral and what is immoral, what he or she should NOT do, etc. Unfortunately for us, the conscience can be silenced, while many immoral people silence it so frequently, that with the elapse of time they loose the ability to understand its whispers. As it is indicated by my research described in items #C7 and #D3 from the web page named god_exists.htm and in item #G1 from a different web page named will.htm, if that loss of ability to understand whispers of conscience appears already during childhood, then such children which learned to silence their whispers of conscience, die at a young age - accordingly to the principle of "survival of the most moral". For more information about the conscience, see also item #G1 on the web page named will.htm.

#C4.7. The use of our knowledge of moral statute of the source of given idea just being born for an "indicator of moral correctness" that is to reveal to us, whether a given idea in the long-term work of moral mechanisms turns out for people to be beneficial, or destructive:

Motto: "Even so every good tree bringeth forth good fruit; but a corrupt tree bringeth forth evil fruit. A good tree cannot bring forth evil fruit, neither can a corrupt tree bring forth good fruit." (Bible, King James Version, Matthew, 7:17-18)
The general methods of God’s action include, among others, the principle which in the best manner is expressed by the warning words of the Bible quoted in the motto to this item. Since this principle is expressed in general terms, it refers virtually to the entire physical world. In this way it expresses, among others, NOT only the principles which apply to the bearing of fruits, but it also expresses principles relating to the emergence of new ideas, to inventions and theories, to results of wars, to consequences of traditions developed and maintained by families, institutions and nations, etc., etc.

If the words of this general principle are to describe and interpret anything that just is being born, then they tell us precisely, whether during the long-term work of moral mechanisms that emerging something is going to prove to be beneficial or disastrous for people confronted with it. This is because according to the words of this biblical warning, "everything that originates from immoral sources, in the long-term work of moral mechanisms is to turn out to be destructive and detrimental for people". In turn "everything that originates from the moral sources, in the long-term work of moral mechanism is to turn out to be good and beneficial for people". Thus, if in any way we are able to determine whether a newly-born something is derived from moral or from immoral sources, then in advance we can also specify whether in the future it proves itself to be beneficial or destructive for people. In this way, such apparently innocent-sounding words of the Bible, express the well camouflaged God’s method of acting, which allows us to use our knowledge of the moral status of the sources of whatever is just being born, as another "indicator of the moral correctness". NOT without reasons in our immoral civilization various laws are established regarding the protection of supposed “privacy” of people who act immorally, so that this makes impossible for us a simple finding out a connection between cases of immorality and the problems that the usage of "bad fruits" generated by sources of this immorality brings to people.

There is a vast amount of empirical evidence, which confirms to us that God with the "iron hand" controls the development of mankind and the operation of the physical world, so that the principle described above with words of the Bible, is always fulfilled. In order to inform the reader about the kind of this evidence, I am going to indicate here several examples of such evidence, which I have described in more detail on my web pages. And so, for example in item #J1 from my web page named pajak_for_mp_2014.htm, I explained both, long-term adverse consequences of the introduction to use of inventions of pesticides and antibiotics, as well as the introduction of the theory of relativity, and also I explained why we can have serious reservations regarding the moral status of sources from which these inventions and the theory originate. Similarly, in the caption under "Fig. #1" from the web page named p_e.htm, I explained that God has NOT allowed that the son of Wernher von Braun invented the Magnocraft and the Time Vehicle, but highly meaningfully God caused, that both these starships invented the son of the von Braun’s "slave" miraculously saved from the botched Allied bombing of the camp of war prisoners in Peenemunde. (Wernher von Braun was the Nazi builder of deadly missiles "V2" - whose heritage and traditions Americans used as "source" for their technology of space rockets.)

As it appears God knows since a long time, that the rocket propulsion systems already today are sources of suffering and deaths for scores of people, and that in the future rockets are to prove to be a serious obstacle in the development of entire mankind - as already such an obstacle appears to be the theory of relativity. (Such an obstructive influence of rocket propulsion systems was fully confirmed a long time ago during my interactions with NASA, when due to the NASA’s investment in the rocket propulsion system, that agency stubbornly ignored my countless applications and appeals directed to it to gain a support for my research on the Magnocraft and on the Oscillatory Chamber.)

On a similar principle everything that originates from the tradition and from the development of the atomic bomb already now is proving to be a curse for the mankind - including the destructiveness of nuclear power plants, an excellent example of which is the Japanese disaster in Fukushima - the actual reasons and consequences of which are described in items #M1 to #M1.3 from my web page named telekinetics.htm, and also including the destructiveness of current "neo-medieval epoch", the not-too-distant arrival of which, induced due to the "telepathic noise" generated by the explosions of atomic bombs, was already indicated by results of my research on consequences of the Tapanui explosion carried out and published back in 1989, while the beginnings of the actual arrival of which "neo-medieval epoch", with all its deadly aggressions, fights, plagues, savagery of human customs and the ugliness of "works" of artists, we can see across the globe since 2001, means since 12 years after my prediction that the neo-medieval epoch is to come soon (for a brief summary of the current "neo-medieval epoch" see "part #K" from the web page named tapanui.htm). Furthermore, virtually all of ideas identified as immoral in item #C4.2 from this web page, as well as in item #B6 from the web page named p_instruction.htm, also show decisively immoral origins. Hence, it is absolutely certain that if for these ideas until this moment of time some amongst them have NOT showed yet to us their destructive consequences, then various kinds of such disastrous consequences for people are to emerge soon. In other words, the point and the information that I am trying to convey here is that, by knowing whether the sources or the traditions from which originates something that is just emerging, have a moral or an immoral character, we can already now predict with a high accuracy just on the basis of words from the Bible quoted in the motto to this item, whether after the completion of this emerging something, in the long-term action of moral mechanisms it is to turn out to be beneficial or destructive for people.

The folk wisdom also has been aware of the action of God's principle described here. For example, it is just from that principle that originates the idea of the so-called "evil eye" cultivated in the folklore of the Far East - which persuades NOT to have anything to do with highly immoral people, because everything at what they just only have a look, will wither. In a similar way the old Polish folk tradition persuades NOT to get anything from immoral people, nor hire immoral people to help us with anything that is related to birth of something new - because their participation is to bring "bad luck" to that something new and will make it either to die, or to wither, or to cause that it only brings troubles and losses.

Nowadays it becomes increasingly difficult, if not almost completely impossible, to determine whether a given immoral action originates from someone who always acts chronically immorally, or originates from someone who in principle acts morally - only that in the given matter made a mistake, or let loose some amongst his/her human imperfections, as a result committing an immorality which is a rare mistake for him/her. After all, various human laws, such as the "Privacy Act", as well as various customs that the humanity has practiced, of the kind of "telling complements" or "white lies", or to NEVER say "bad things" about the member of family, or someone famous, or someone dead, cause that the immoral nature of chronically immoral people is carefully hidden and for ordinary people this bad nature is almost impossible to link to specific people or institutions. Fortunately, such an immoral human nature is impossible to hide from all-seeing God. In turn God uses His knowledge of the entire nature of a given person, and also uses a thorough analysis of the habits, characteristics and behaviour of each person, revealed to God during the previous passage of that person through time and life, and then on the basis of His methods of acting, God judges what His actions should be regarding the specific individuals and regarding activities that these individuals decided to complete in their current passage through time and life. It is just because of the result of actions taken by God, that the quotation from the Bible described here directs also our attention at the additional and highly useful truth, which states that the "fruits" of the behaviours of both, individual people as well as group intellects, always belong to just a single moral category, namely if these behaviours of an intellect are qualified by God as predominantly immoral, then the "fruits" of practically everything that God allows this intellect to do, are to turn out to be harmful or even destructive in the long-time work of moral mechanisms, but if the behaviours of an intellect are qualified by God as predominantly moral, then "fruits" of virtually everything that God allows this intellect to do, turn out to be positive and constructive in the long-term work of moral mechanisms. In other words, in spite that today people are effectively hiding their immorality, still God discreetly reveals to us this immorality, because if we manage to definitively establish, that in a given matter someone, or some institution, generated any "fruits", which in the long-term turn out to be decisively immoral, then the quotation from the Bible described here assures us, that we can be certain, that also in all other matters in which God allowed the same person or institution to also generate "fruits", in long-term these "fruits" turn out to be equally immoral. So it is a big risk to accept any of the "fruits" of its conduct, as in the long-term almost certainly these "fruits" will prove harmful. It is, among other things, because of the uselessness of the "fruits" of their actions, that such chronically immoral people, in the days of my youth were called "Midases in reverse" - because everything that they would touch after a time would turn into shit. Thus, the above quotation confirms to us the vital truth which already a long time ago discovered the philosophy of totalizm when it determined that every intellect belongs to just one category of intellects, namely belongs either to totalizts, or to parasites. At this point it is also worth to add, that the so-called "scientific morality" (i.e. this "morality" which is described more comprehensively in items #B2, #B3 and #B6 from this web page) uses various human concoction to continually renew its efforts to form among the people the dominant opinion that contradicts the discussed here words of the Bible. For example, numerous films and TV programs are made and disseminated for this purpose, in which ex-offenders are shown as supposedly performing highly noble deeds. Or dangerous criminals are pardoned and released back into the society - supposedly in order to give them a "second chance" to rehabilitate themselves, but in practice in order to enable them to commit further wickedness. Etc., etc.

At this point I feel a moral duty to direct the reader's attention also at the fact, that a large number of "fruits" yield by the institution of the current official science (in the publications by the author called the old "atheistic orthodox science"), already are proved to be wrong and immoral. Thus, the method of God's acting indicated in the Bible and described here means, that absolutely all "fruits", which God allows to be yielded by the institution of present official science, are for sure erroneous and immoral. This in turn means, that all the claims of official science we should treat like in communistic times the Polish nation used to treat the "governmental propaganda of success". Namely, we should be aware, that the official science does NOT disseminate its claims to promote the truth, but only to enforce its monopole for the knowledge and education, and to obtain further funding from taxpayers to finance its "research". In turn, when it become impossible to maintain any longer the fiction, that given claims of the official science are correct, then every year a further batch of "scientific" claims and fables which previously deceived people, is exchanged for a new portion of similarly erroneous claims and fables, which are to deceive people for next several years. The official science hides this process of chronic erroneousness of its claims behind the apparent need to continually update the knowledge. (Notice, however, that "there is only one truth" - thus, if something really represents the truth, then it does NOT need to be continually changed and updated.)

Of course, there are also unrelated to the "fruits" methods of determining whether someone belongs to the category of generally morally or immorally acting people - i.e. to Totalizts or to Parasites. For example, people who generally act immorally are NOT able to take approvingly any morally-correct conduct, because their nature orders them to spontaneously demonstrate hostility and aggression against everything that is morally-correct. In turn their continual aggression causes, that also people who act morally are forced to undertake a defence - which process causes a never-ending "war of evil with good". In addition, the extinguishing of moral compass in them causes that they typically are NOT able to distinguish between moral conduct and immoral conduct - thus in everything they are driven only by their own convenience, emotions, feelings, desires of their bodies, etc.

The principle of God's acting described here, that moral intellects God allows to accomplish a success only in activities the long-term "fruits" of which are positive, while immoral intellects - only in activities the long-term "fruits" of which are negative, allows us to determine also the fact which in practice turns out to be the most difficult, namely to find out the moral statute of ourselves. The point is that in spite we are given the "free will", in real life only a very small percentage of actions we take ends up with the eventuation of any "fruits". (For example, every time when I was looking for another job, I was forced to submit hundreds of job applications before one of them ended successfully in getting a job. Similarly is also happening in virtually all other matters - for example consider how much effort costs every person the finding of the right wife or the proper husband.) Of course, although we believe that matters in which we are successful or unsuccessful depend on the accidents, situations, other people, etc., in reality in the world ruled with the "iron hand" by the all-capable God, in which we live, it is this God that decides in what matters we supposed to be successful or unsuccessful. As it is always in the God's acting, in choosing of what supposed to provide a success or failure to a given person, God also follows the method expressed by the motto to this item. Of course, our learning the method of God's acting immediately gives us a highly-useful tool. After all, the described in this item warning from God, namely that the intellects assigned to the category of predominantly immorally acting people, are allowed to complete only the actions the "fruit" of which is to prove to be harmful or even devastating, gives us to hands a very important for each of us opportunity for an early obtaining the feedback regarding the moral category to which we already have been classified. The point is, that according to the Bible, during the so-called "final judgment" people previously classified as belonging to the predominantly immoral category of "goats", will be separated from those previously classified as belonging to the predominantly moral category of "sheep" and designated to a complete annihilation – see Bible, Matthew, verses 25:31-46. But the majority of people leads their lives without having the slightest clue into which amongst these two categories they are classified. Meanwhile, the quoted in the motto above verse from the Bible, complemented by the described in item #C4.2 from this web page the knowledge of principles which outline the short-term and long-term work of the so-called "moral field", allow everyone for an early learning whether he/she is classified to the category of those "sheep" or to the category of those "goats". After all, if one is classified to the category of "goats", then the "fruits" of everything that he/she is able to do in our present passage through time, in the long-term work of "moral field" turns out to be harmful or destructive. In turn "fruits" of whatever we do, each one of us can identify and then analyze in moral terms. After all, if one is classified to the category of "goats", then the "fruits" of everything that he/she is able to do in our present passage through time, in the long-term work of "moral field" turns out to be harmful or destructive. In turn "fruits" of whatever we do, each one of us can identify and then analyze in moral terms. After all, each one of us somehow earns for living, and as part of this earning is obliged to give "something" back to people. Thus, it is possible to judge, whether this "something" is more similar to drugs, cigarettes or tanks, which destroy the lives of other people, or is more like bread, milk or beautiful homes that satisfy and make us happy. Also, many people have children - which are either like a plague, or radiate good to other people. Some are building something, or plant something, which either irritates and harms everyone around, or beautifies and helps. Etc., etc. Just that in the later moral analysis of these "fruits", we need to take under account moral principles and criteria, explained in more detail by the Bible or by totalizm. The point is, that these days a lot of "fruits" have more than one creator - so in their case we need to determine whether we are the co-creators of their harmful aspects. For example, if our children grown to be criminals, the question is whether we were only their biological parents, or we were upbringing them as well. Also, if someone else was upbringing them, then whether we have done everything in our power to prevent them from "going to the dogs". Similarly, if a building that we co-created collapses and kills many people, then whether this collapse was caused e.g. by our careless and unprofessional design, or for example, by a theft of cement and the use of poor building materials, about which we did NOT know. (In turn, if we knew e.g. about these thefts of cement and building materials, then whether we informed of whoever needed to act upon this - or were silent and thus morally becoming co-responsible for the subsequent collapse - as explained in item #A2.8 from the web page named totalizm.htm.) Therefore, if we can detect that everything that we do in fact is turning into harmful or destructive "fruits", then we still have time to drastically change our behaviour into whatever the Bible or the philosophy of totalism commands us to adopt - as after the learning of our fate during the "final judgment" it will be too late to change our behaviour. In turn, when we prove to God that we drastically changed our behaviour, then probably we will be shifted back in time to an earlier age, and at the same time our memory of previous passage through the time will be erased in us, while in already a new passage through time the "fruits" of everything that we are allowed to do, in the long-term work of "moral field" will turn out to be beneficial and uplifting.

A meaningful attribute of these warning words of God cited in the motto to this item, and the corresponding to these words principle of God's acting, is that the context in which those words are expressed in the Bible clearly tells us that the principle described by them extends its validity onto the work in both directions. In other words, with regard to morality, these words explain that not only all actions of either moral or immoral people bear later the good or bad consequences, but also the good or bad consequences are always a proof that they are the "fruit" of moral or immoral people. In nature the possession by something of just such an attribute of the two-way action is relatively rare, as most of "natural" principles of action are valid and work in only one direction. For example, although all the wives are women, but NOT all women are wives. Similarly, although all inventors gathered extraordinary knowledge, but NOT all people who have gathered an extraordinary knowledge are inventors. Etc., etc. But what gives us a lot to think about, is that every principle that naturally works in only one direction, can be turned into a principle that operates in both directions - if someone puts into it the right amount of intelligence, motivation, good will, thinking, intellectual effort, etc. So, for example, if we overthrow the present legal limitations forcing people to monogamy - which are clearly contrary to the intentions of God, and let that, for example, every man could have as many wives as he only wish and they are agreeing, and for maintaining of which allows him his financial situation (as this is described in item #J2.2.2 from this web page), then the end result of such a treatment would be that NOT only every wife will be a woman, but virtually all women are somebody's wives. (After all, the natural excess of births of women over men, and typically shorter life expectancy for men than for women, cause that in monogamy for some women husbands must run out.) Similarly, if we cause with various moral, educational, legal and incentive encouragements, that all people which gathered the required knowledge, will direct this knowledge towards the improvement of the world in which they live (instead of, e.g. "making money"), then the end result will be that it is NOT just that everyone who is the inventor accumulated an extraordinary amount of knowledge, but also everyone who has accumulated an extraordinary amount of knowledge is to become an inventor. Etc., etc. The point and the main message that I am trying to reveal here to the reader with the help of the above examples, is stating that the fact that the principle described in the Bible with the words quoted in the motto to this item works in both directions, on one hand indicates that its two-way work results from intelligent and targeted actions of God, aimed at such controlling the operation of the physical world that this is going to cause a two-way work of this principle, on the other hand, it confirms to us that although God acts in a manner so unobtrusive that it does NOT break our "free will", still His actions and control over the physical world are relentless, ubiquitous and absolute - so that they cover with an iron control absolutely everything that people do. Of course, I do NOT have to add here that in order God with such an "iron hand" is able to control discretely absolutely everything that people do in our physical world, firstly that God must really exist - in spite of the floods of lies about God with which buries the humanity the present official "atheistic orthodox science".

The two-way work of the principle described here is of great importance to morality and to humanity. After all, since the first moment it is not only able to allow us to predict what will be the long-term consequences of a given action - if only we know what is the moral status of the source from which this action originates. In addition, it also allows us to back-track to find out who, or what, is exactly the reason for a given kind of fruits that reveal themselves only in the long-term operation of moral mechanisms. For example, this principle reveals, that some current American racial frictions stem from the immoralities of slavery, NOT from the differences between people of various races (as some individuals tried, or try now, to believe). Similarly, it reveals that, for example some today's problems of England stem from immoralities of colonialism, NOT e.g. from the friendly immigration policy of UK. Etc., etc. In the opposite direction, this principle allows also e.g. to predict what in the long-term work of moral mechanisms will arise in the future, from e.g. the current bombing or sending "UN peacekeeping troops" to other countries, or e.g. to predict what fate in the long-term work of moral mechanisms is to be met by the institutions and by their owners or directors, if these institutions accumulate their wealth at the expense of starvation-wages paid to their workers.

Highly teaching are also circumstances in which the actual work in our lives of words of the Bible quoted in the motto to this item has been experimentally confirmed by the philosophy of totalizm. Namely, firstly as part of totalizm and the new "totaliztic science" I researched the principles on which works the so-called "moral field", the existence of which I had the honour to discover myself, and which I described, amongst others, in item #C4.2 from this web page. But when I brought this research to the point in which it became clear to me how this "moral field" really works, and when I described the results of these research, among others, in the above item #C4.2 newly updated in December 2014, then suddenly I realized, that the work of this field is described in the most perfect way by the words of the Bible discussed here - which words I remember well because they are often spoken during holy Masses in which I participate. In other words, actually I firstly discovered the work of moral field empirically, and I described it scientifically, while only later I discovered that this work of moral field is most perfectly described by the abovementioned words of the Bible. In exactly the same way I carried out the discoveries of work of other words from the Bible to which I refer in my publications. For example, firstly I discovered empirically and determined scientifically the work of so-called "omniplan" described in items #C3 and #C4 of the web page named immortality.htm (which "omniplan" informs us, amongst others, that each one of us is repeating own life more than once), while only then one of my readers posted to me his discovery that just such repeated living of every person though his/her life God describes in the Bible - see item #B4.1 in abovementioned web page immortality.htm. Thus neither totalizm, nor I, do operate in such a way that firstly we select a verse from the Bible, and then we check it scientifically whether it is fulfilled in the real life. In fact, I and totalizm, we do exactly the opposite - i.e. firstly we discover the action of a moral principle that governs over the real life, then we find (usually unintentionally), that this principle is already clearly expressed with words of a verse from the Bible. This in turn introduces a whole range of extremely vital consequences. For example, this causes that the empirical findings of totalizm independently support and confirm the words of the Bible, and that simultaneously statements of the Bible add validity to the empirical evidence which independently confirms the findings and discoveries of totalizm. It also reveals how well and wisely the Bible is written, that although it contains more knowledge that so far the entire human science was able to accumulate, still the Bible does NOT support the ignorance and laziness by giving to people ready-made recipes and solutions, but it requires that firstly something needs to be empirically and scientifically discovered by people, before the precise meaning of the words describing this discovery in the Bible becomes understandable for people. In addition, it also reminds me and us, why the words of the Bible are still "alive" and continually work in the real life, and why the Bible was NOT able to be authorized by some imperfect people, but it had to be authorized/inspired by all-knowing God Himself. (For example, consider whether any amongst people, in around 30 words quoted in the motto to this item, is able to provide the knowledge, the explaining of which to others took me over 3000 words of this item, plus further over 5000 words of item #C4.2, and in spite of this it still misses the addressing of several further meanings of this quotation, worth our thorough learning.)

The general rule of God's acting described here, expressed, amongst others, in words from the Bible repeated in the motto of this item, "Even so every good tree bringeth forth good fruit: but a corrupt tree bringeth forth evil fruit", from the scientific point of view of its principles of operation is also explained in item #C4.2 of this web page. In addition, it is also discussed on a number of other totaliztic web pages - for example see item #D6 from the web page named pajak_jan_uk.htm, item #D4 from the web page named artefact.htm, or item #H1 from the web page named boiler.htm.

#C5. Which facts confirm that God strictly controls "moral" life of people with the use of "rewards" and "punishments", while for "immoral" intellects He sometimes even takes away the right to live:

The definition of "morality" provided in item #B5 of this web page points our attention at the hugely vital fact completely overlooked by "atheistic orthodox science" to-date, namely that God with the iron consequence executes from people their duty to live morally and to pedantically obey moral requirements and commandments that were revealed to people. In fact, if someone leads immoral life, then he or she is severely punished for this - frequently even being killed. This in turn causes, that "morality" is NOT at all a "human invention" that is left to any interpretation by human politicians or philosophers, but a kind of "laws of the universe" executed with the iron consequences - the obedience of which is the duty of everyone and the breaking of which is always severely punished. Especially highly punished is the practicing of immoral philosophy called "parasitism" - described, amongst others, above in item #C3.4 and also on a separate web page named parasitism.htm.

It is also worth to notice, that the analyses of the surrounding reality indicate that actually God does NOT forgive any immoral behaviours - as some religions try to convince us. God limits His "forgiveness" to just a narrow class of "sins" which shift people horizontally in the moral field and thus which really do NOT display attributes of "immorality" - although religions consider committing them to be "sins" (e.g. to fasting, regular attending temples, praying, selected forms of sex - e.g. marital or prostitution, telling complements which are lies, killing animals for our own food, killing in self-defence, etc.) Unfortunately, for political reasons (i.e. for accomplishing a greater influence on their believers), religions extended the scope of human "sins" supposedly included into "God's forgiveness" also onto "immorality". Furthermore, they usually additionally make this forgiveness a subject of saying a good word for it to God by priests of a given religion. Unfortunately, the research of reality and empirical facts do NOT confirm these religious claims about "God's forgiveness". Also definitively the punishment still in this life, for any form of "immorality" that really pushes people downward in the moral field, is NOT included into the "God's forgiveness".

Below I am going to provide descriptions of evidence which certify that God severely and decisively executes from people the duty of unconditional obedience of moral commandments and requirements issued to us by Him.

#C5.1. Warnings provided in the Bible: if you do NOT live
morally, you will be "punished" - if needed even by the removal of your right to live:

These warnings are contained in the Bible. Their content provided e.g. in item #A1 from two web page named quake.htm and seismograph.htm. In turn explanations of the reason of their issuing by God are provided in item #B1.1 from the web page named antichrist.htm. One amongst the best formulations of such warning is provided in the Biblical "Book of Ezekiel" verses 33:18-19, quote: "When someone righteous turns back from his righteousness and actually does injustice, he must also die for them. And when someone wicked turns back from his wickedness and actually carriers on justice and righteousness, it will be on account of them that he himself will keep living."

In spite of the apparent simplicity of the above warning, in fact its work is immensely wise and far-sighted. On one hand it allows people the earning of a wide range of life experiences, which later are useful for them in their role of "soldiers of God" (described more comprehensively in item #B1.1 from the web page antichrist.htm). On the other hand it guarantees that the humanity continually moves in the direction from "immorality" towards increasingly moral behaviours. In fact, the iron execution of this warning in the real life is documented by an array of facts, a part of which I am going to indicate and discuss in sub-items that are to follow here. Here they are:

#C5.2. The fact, that "every war is lost by aggressors", is a proof that immoral aggression and attacking others who try to live in peace are always discreetly punished by God:

If someone asks us "who in the final effect is to loose a given war", then knowing who in this war was an "aggressor", each one of us can provide an answer almost immediately. This is because if we analyse the history, then we can see quite an obvious action of "moral laws", which causes that "every war in the final effect is always lost by the aggressor". Only that in order to NOT take away from people the so-called "free will", typically God avoids making this fact too obvious. This avoidance God accomplishes usually by such control over every war, that according to the "canon of ambiguity" described already in item #C4.1 of this web page, always can be found several explanations why a given war was wan by one side, while lost by a different side. But the true reason of winning and loosing a war is always very simple. Namely "God always 'punishes' whatever is 'immoral' while "rewards' whatever is 'moral' ". In turn "aggression" is always highly immoral, in turn peace is highly moral. Therefore this side which acted immorally, e.g. through the act of aggression towards the side which wants peace, in the final effect always is going to loose a given war.
Fig. #C1 (A1 in [1/5]): All wars always are lost by aggressors who attacked someone that wanted to live in peace - for more details see item #I2 on the web page named bitwa_o_milicz_uk.htm. Only that in order to fulfil the so-called "canon of ambiguity" (described, amongst others, in item #C4.1 of this web page and in item #C2 of a separate web page named will.htm), the omnipotent God always so controls the course of every war, that depending of human views the win and the loss can be explained on a whole array of different ways - as this is outlined more comprehensively, amongst others, in item #C2 of the totaliztic web page named tornado.htm.

The above painting portraits a medieval battle in Korea. Hits from it the scary enthusiasm with which people are inclined to kill each other. The picture reveals, that in the "human nature" - intentionally designed by God as much imperfect as it was only possible, existed (and still exist) an array of low vices such as desires, inclinations, wants, habits, addictions, etc. In turn people must learn how they can overcome these own low vices in order societies could live in peace and prosperity. Independently from desires and inclinations which throw people into wars, to these belong also, amongst others, power, sexual desires, greed, wish to dictate, etc., etc. To the overcoming these desires and inclinations supposed to motivate "religions" which God gradually created and gave to subsequent nations and races of people. Unfortunately, as we clearly can see it in present times, religions did NOT fulfil their function and the humanity still is following its desires and tendencies. Obviously, the humanity needs something even more perfect than religions and believes. In turn the only thing that is really more perfect than belief, is knowledge. So it appears, that the third millennium which the humanity is just entering, must evolve the knowledge on which human behaviours are acceptable, and which must be curbed and controlled. Let us hope, that instrumental in formulating this new knowledge, turns out to be the "totaliztic science", the product of which is, amongst others, this web page.

#C5.3. "Cataclysms" which destroy immoral cities and communities are also a proof, that "immoral" behaviours are discreetly punished even in present times:

The Bible provides us with examples of cities of Sodom, Gomorrah, and Nineveh, in order to warn us that immoral behaviours are severely punished by God, amongst others by sending "cataclysms". In turn the history and folklore of various nations indicate concrete examples of cities which in fact were punished for immoral behaviours. The best known out of these examples include the Roman city of Pompeii - which fate is mentioned in item #B5 of the web page named seismograph.htm, and also: Polish city of Vineta on the Baltic sea near the present Świnoujście, decadent city of Salamis on Cyprus (in which "salamis" were invented - means kinds of sausages), and the city of Saeftinghe in medieval Netherlands - which three cities are described in items #H2, #H3 and #H4 from the web page named tapanui.htm.

In present times cataclysms also destroy misbehaving cities and communities. Their example is the fate of the city Port-Au-Prince from Haiti - described in item #C3 from the web page named seismograph.htm, city of Christchurch in New Zealand - described in items #C5 to #C6 of abovementioned web page "seismograph.htm" and also in item #G2 of the web page przepowiednie.htm, or fates of many cities in Japan described in items #C7 and #11 of abovementioned web page "seismograph.htm", and also in items #M1 to #M2 of another web page named telekinetics.htm. (It is intriguing, whether the tsunami on Friday, 11th of March 2011, which completely devastated many cities, including nuclear reactors from Fukushima near Tokyo, designates a beginning of karma return for destructions which Japanese inflicted during the aggression-annexation and occupation of Korea, as then the "time of return" for this karma would also amount to around 100 years - i.e. the same as the "time of return" for slavery and colonialism.) Still further communities, punished with cataclysms for practicing the immoral philosophy of parasitism, are described, amongst others, on web pages named tornado.htm, katrina.htm, landslips.htm or day26.htm.

#C5.4. The so-called "curse of inventors" as a proof that immoral countries and nations are punished with the "inventive impotency" and are NOT able to create anything new:

Cataclysms described above are NOT the only tool with the use of which God "punishes" immoral so-called "group intellects" (i.e. entire countries, nations, cities, institutions, etc.). Another such a tool is so-called "curse of inventors" described more comprehensively on a number of totaliztic web pages, amongst others on item #B4.4 of the web page named mozajski_uk.htm, in items #G1 to #G9 of the web page named eco_cars.htm, in item #K3 of the web page named fe_cell.htm, in item #H4 of the web page named free_energy.htm, in items #B4 to #B5 of the web page named will.htm, in item #H1 of the web page named newzealand_visit.htm, in item #B3 of the web page named telekinetics.htm, in item #E1 of the web page named evolution.htm, and marginally also mentioned on several further totaliztic web pages.
The "curse of inventors" depends on punishing immoral "group intellects" (e.g. entire countries and nations) by sending on them the so-called inventive impotency. This impotency manifests itself by inability to develop and to implement by a given nation or country any significant invention or discovery. In this way such a country or nation ceases to matter in the world, nor is able to harvest any benefits which result from the development of new inventions and discoveries.

#C5.5. Examples of consequences of practicing "homosexuality" forbidden by the Bible":

The Bible clearly forbids practicing homosexuality. The discussion of examples of verses which ban homosexuality are provided, amongst others, in "Re. (1)" from item #B5 of the web page seismograph.htm, in item #B1 of the web page named plague.htm, or in item #B2.1 of the web page named mozajski.uk.htm. However, politicians of many countries, and even some churches (e.g. Anglican) issued laws of the kind of "Civil Union", which legalise homosexuality and even allow homosexual couples to "marry" each other in churches and to "bring (have) children" - e.g. see the article [1#C5.5] "Gay couples get nod to tie knot in church" from page A1 of New Zealand newspaper The Dominion Post Weekend (issue dated on Friday, February 18, 2011). In this way such countries and churches openly put themselves directly against moral requirements and commandments of God. This, of course, is later severely punished - e.g. see items #C5 and #C6 from the web page seismograph.htm.

Descriptions of types of evil and destruction that an open practicing of homosexuality brings onto present communities is provided in item #B4 of the web page named antichrist.htm. In turn an example of probable reaction of God to the official approval of homosexuality is documented in in item #I3.1 from the web page named petone.htm.

#C5.6. Examples of badly brought up children, whose "immorality" is punished sometimes even with taking away from them the right to live:

God intensely tries to upbring every person in such a way, that he or she permanently writes into his/her character the habit of morally correct behaviour - and thus becomes suitable for living in the future in heaven with God. Thus, in order of just such upbringings, God subjects this person to the method called the "principle of reversals" (the one described in item #C3.4 from this web page), and in addition God several times shifts everyone back in time to years of his/her youth, after each such a shifting subjecting him/her to increasingly better selected life experiences, so that this person could acquire permanently all the required by God traits of character - for details see items #B4.1 and #C4 from my web page named immortality.htm. Unfortunately, in spite of all this, many children from rich homes still grows up at highly immoral adults. Because most of such rich homes exists in rich countries, these countries have the biggest proportion of such situations - this in turn causes that from rich countries they fast transform into one amongst most poor - as explained in item #B5.1 from the web page named will.htm and in item #F3 from the web page named wszewiliki.uk.htm. Of course, if, after several shifting a given person back in time to years of his or her youth - as on the basis of the quotation from the Bible this is explained in items #B4.1 and #C4 from my web page named immortality.htm, God sees that a given person is a morally "hopeless case" because no matter to which experiences God subjects this person, he/she still always is going to grow up into someone highly immoral, then in a next passage through his/her life and time God disposes this person sometimes still at a young age - as this is explained in more detail in items #D1 to #D2 from the web page god_exists.htm, while is documented (on examples known to me from real life) in item #G1 from the web page named will.htm.

In order a given child could grow up into a moral adult, it is necessary to fulfil a whole range of conditions. For example, this child must be subjected to the recommended by God so-called "principle of of reversals", menas, must be frequently disciplined - as this is emphasized by God in many places of the Bible (see explanations, amongst others, from item #B5.1 of the web page named will.htm). The child must also be brought up in the atmosphere of love, respect to parents, tradition, duties, access to sources of knowledge, etc. - as this is explained, amongst others, in item #A3 from the web page named god_proof.htm. However, politicians of many countries break these commandments and requirements of God and issue laws of a kind of the New Zealand's "anti-smacking law" described in item #B5.1 of the abovementioned web page named will.htm - which threatens with imprisoning these parents who try to bring up their children according to requirements of God. No wonder that countries which have such politicians and such children are later troubled by a multitude of cataclysms send to them by God - of the kind described wider in item #J2.4 near the end of this web page.

The matter of punishing by God such "immorally" growing up children is discussed more widely in sub-item #J2.4 near the end of this web page.

#C5.7. Learning examples of God's punishments to immoral politicians:

Motto: "The finding of philosophy of totalizm reveals that 'the leader of country always is a politician whose morality is the best representation of the current morality of inhabitants of that country'."

In order to fulfil the "canon of ambiguity" (discussed previously e.g. in item #C4.1), whenever God serves a "punishment" to someone, then He always does it in such a manner that it is NOT obvious that this comes from God. This is why, if an individual person is punished by God, then the executors of this punishment usually are other people, or something that everyone considers to be an accident, a bad luck, a phenomenon of nature, etc. The most easy to notice that regularity, from the manner on which are punished immoral politicians. After all the present form of the profession of politicians is the most immoral profession in the world. This is because on one hand numerous benefits of this profession attract to it people who usually from the very beginning display immoral inclinations. On the other hand, this profession creates numerous situations and conditions which are almost ideal for a fast corruption even people who initially act morally. In addition to this, present politicians developed for themselves a kind of "professional tradition", principles of which contradict requirements of morality. For example, in order to become elected, they typically promise "gold mountains" to their people, but from the very beginning they do NOT intend to implement these promises. In almost everything that they say they use "diplomatic language" which later can be interpreted on any possible manner that fits given situations. Also it is easier "to squeeze blood from a stone" that get "truth" from a politician. Their "solving problems" typically limit itself to skilful doing nothing by themselves with a simultaneous inventing increasingly new obstacles and excuses and then passing the fault onto someone or something else. As the result, the reason why the life on Earth becomes increasingly more difficult, is because only just a few immorally acting politicians of today is able to spoil, destroy, deviate, squander, etc., much more than a whole nation is later able to repair, rebuild, straighten, earn, etc. - which fact I try to explain a bit better in items #A4 and #C4.2 from this web page. Because of all these reasons, when - after finishing their "cadence" arrives the time of "return of karma", for many politicians their further fates could serve as the best illustration of the work of morality.

From history we know many politicians about which it is easy to notice not only the immoral character of their actions, but also the punishment that they later received.
Examples: Adolf Hitler, Joseph Stalin, Pol Pot, Idi Amin, Sadam Hussein, etc. But if someone starts to search in biographies of other politicians, then usually will find least known to the societies examples of "silent" immoralities and later equally "silent" punishments for committing these. For example, may discover truth about the fate of politicians who "silently" stole, make poorer, bankrupted, limited, deceive, persecute, or tyrranise their own nations, while almost immediately after loosing the power they experienced various suffering of the kind of getting crazy, losoing the respect and wealth, painful illness, death on cancer, etc.

Because of the clear link between the fate which they experience and the kinds of morality which they practice, politicians could be perfect subjects for research on mechanisms of work of morality. Unfortunately, they are also very dangerous subjects for research - e.g. writing about them is rather risky. Especially in present times, when people typically still do NOT understand nor appreciate findings of the philosophy of totalizm of the kind that "without learning the truth there is NO progress", or that "the more we love and respect someone, the bigger duty we have to reveal truth to him or to her" (for details see item #K1 below, or e.g. item #F1 on the web page named totalizm.htm).
Therefore, people who reveal truth (e.g. so-called "whistle blowers" are still persecuted with repressions - instead of rewarding for creating a chance that other people could improve their actions and that together we all could build progress to entire our civilisation.

#C5.8. Frequently overlooked moral regularity, that "in the final effect oppressors always oppress also themselves":

In item #C1 of the web page named stawczyk_uk.htm, effects of action of moral mechanism are explained, which causes that "in the final effect oppressors always oppress also themselves". For example, if any superpower turns another country into its colony, or installs its occupational forces on its territory, then independently how rich it would be, mysteriously its own economy starts to degenerate, so that after the "time of return" of karma its own nation reaches the level of the nation which it previously oppressed. Similarly happens with individual despot, tyrants, and other kinds of oppressors. This regularity is already known for a long time by folk wisdom, which expresses it e.g. in the form of various proverbs, like the English "curses, like chickens, always come back home to roost", or Italian "curses are like processions, they always return to the place from which they come".

#C6. The final conclusion of this "part #C":
"departing from morality is severely
'punished' (e.g. by taking away the 'right to live') - so we better start to take notice of our morality":

The definition of morality worked out and disseminated by the "atheistic orthodox science" to-date is highly misleading. It causes that people believe that "morality" can be treated as one amongst "inventions of philosophers" and acted upon as pleases us - e.g. when it only suits our interests. However, the facts provided here reveal, that "morality" is the non-negotiable command and law, which must be pedantically obeyed, while for disobedience of which people pay severe consequences - including lost of lives. So in vital interest of every inhabitant of the Earth is to begin the pedantic obedience of "moral laws" and principles of moral living - as this is taught to us by the modern and currently the most moral on the Earth philosophy of totalism.

Part #D: Attributes of the superior "morality" revealed by the new "totaliztic science" but imposed and executed by intelligent God:

#D1. Without learning the goal for which God created humans, it is NOT possible to work out the operation of "morality" in the world created and ruled by highly intelligent God:

One amongst reasons for which during the last several thousands of years the entire humanity accumulated less knowledge on the subject of morality (in addition and above the knowledge which God gave to people for free in the form of the Bible), than the philosophy of totalizm managed to work out within only around 20 years, is that people did NOT know the goal for which God created humans. (This goal was NOT revealed by God in any religion.) In turn by NOT knowing what this goal is, people were NOT able to define "requirements" and "conditions" which must be fulfilled in order this goal could be accomplished. Furthermore, without the knowledge of these "requirements" and "conditions" it is NOT possible to work out the "need" and the "principles" of morality.

On the other hand, the "philosophy of totalizm" started its considerations from identifying this goal of the creation of humans. In turn when knowing this goal, the realising the need for the existence of independent from people requirements of "morality" turned out to be just consequence of logical reasoning. In this way the "philosophy of totalizm" arrived completely independently from the Bible to "what" must define a "moral" behaviour, and in addition it also determined "why" must be this instead of being something completely different, "how" it should be implemented, "which evidence" confirm this, etc., etc.

#D2: What is the God's goal in creating and maintaining humans:

From findings of the philosophy of totalism stems, that the most vital goal for which God created humans, is the pursue of knowledge. Because the full explanation of this goal and the documenting evidence which confirms it, requires quite extensive presentation, to these readers who would be interested in learning more on this subject I recommend to view subsections A3 to A3.2 and A7 from volume 1 of the official "textbook of totalism" - means my newest monograph [1/5]. A short summary of information about this goal is provided also in item #B1 from the web page named antichrist.htm and in item #B4 from the web page named tornado.htm.

#D3: Why the "pursue of knowledge" imposes certain requirements on the behaviours and philosophy of people, which requirements are fulfilled only when people obey "principles of morality" commanded to them by the superiorly intelligent God:

In order people are able to "pursue knowledge" a set of specific conditions and requirements must be met. About the actual existence of these conditions and requirements certifies e.g. the fact, that the human equivalent of the "pursue of knowledge", i.e. the learning and studying, are also impossible if a given country, a family, or a person do NOT fulfils similar conditions. This is why e.g. in Africa and in the South America a significant proportion of children do NOT attend schools at all.

If one analyses conditions which need to be fulfilled on the Earth for people to be able to effectively "pursue knowledge", then it turns out that they are exactly described by the requirements of "morality" - as it also is mentioned in item #B4 on the web page named tornado.htm.

#D4: In order to cause that people obey principles of the "moral life", God uses specific tools of the kind: methods of acting, attributes and principles of phenomena release, punishments, rewards, etc.:

In order the humanity really "pursue knowledge", God was forced to enforce amongst people the obedience to requirements of "morality". In turn this enforcing turned out to be effective, God has NO other choice but to apply towards people various tools of the kind: rewards, punishments, pressures, examples, persuasion, etc. Because there is quite a lot of these tools, these are described on other totaliztic web pages. Their examples include, amongst others, "cataclysms" described more thoroughly e.g. on web pages seismograph.htm, landslips.htm, plaque.htm, tornado.htm, or day26.htm.

#D5: Attributes which according to the new totaliztic science must be displayed by "morality" in the universe created and ruled by superiorly intelligent God:

In order to effectively fulfil its purpose, "morality" must display a whole array of various attributes. Here are examples of most vital amongst these:

- Availability for learning by all people. In order to obey "morality" all people must be able to learn what is "moral" and what is "immoral" - thus "whispers of conscience", "content of the Bible", action of the "moral field", "moral energy", "moral laws", etc. In fact God based the access to "knowledge about morality" on a similar "model like "education" in the "Polish Model" from former communistic Poland - described in 1 from item #E1 on the web page named rok_uk.htm. Means, "everyone has the access to knowledge about morality, this knowledge is for free, after it is mastered countless rewards are granted, but in order to gain it it is necessary to go through various unpleasant experience and to meet a huge number of various difficult and laborious conditions and requirements".

- Consistency. In order to be learnable, "morality" must work consistently - means for a given situation and human behaviour it always must cause the same consequences, independently from the prevailing epoch, age and position of the person which it judges, etc. - for more details see subsection I3.6 from volume 5 of monograph [1/5].

- Unanimity. Morality must also fulfil the so-called "principle of unanimity" described in subsection JA13 from volume 6 of monograph [1/5]. This means, that independently with what standards or indicators of morality we would judge a given behaviour of a person, always all these must lead to the same "verdict" (i.e. all of them always must unanimously indicate that a given behaviour is either the same moral, or the same immoral).

- Backward dynamism. In order "doing nothing" and "remaining passive in face of immorality" does NOT constitute the "most moral behaviour", the "moral field" must be the field which "dynamically shifts people backward" - means so formed that "these people who already 'rest on laurels' and ceased to continually put effort into doing what is the most moral, are by this field shifted backward" (as this is also described in items #C4.2, #I2 and #J1 of this web page). In other words, "moral field" must be similar to the current of a fast river which flows from the state of "morality" to the state of "immorality". All people who try to live morally must "row" upstream in this river. But if any amongst them stops the laborious "oaring" upstream for even a short moment of time, then the current of that river starts to automatically push him downstream towards increasingly greater "immorality".

Of course, there is much more of these attributes. But to NOT bore the reader, I am NOT going to discuss all of them. But the reader may deduce them just by himself, or may read about them from my newest monograph [1/5].

#D6: The final conclusion of deductions from this "part #D": "the model of morality created and enforced by superiorly intelligent God is exactly corresponding to the reality in which we live":

If we analyse the work of morality on the world which we occupy, then it turns out that the "totaliztic model of morality created and enforced by God" described on this web page, is fully corresponding to our reality.

Part #E: How God enforces the "morality" amongst humans:

#E1. Mechanisms created by God for enforcing morality, e.g.: "conscience", "moral field", "moral energy", "moral laws", etc.:

Because "morality" is so immensely vital for the accomplishing "goals" that God set by creating and maintaining people, mechanisms which rule over morality in real life are immensely complex algorithms, the complete learning of which is to occupy the humanity for many further years. For example, every "moral law" has build-in algorithms which describe "replies" of this law to specific human behaviours. Therefore, e.g. implementing of the operation of just a single "Boomerang Principle" (described, amongst others, in item #C4.2 of this web page) required the introduction to the human soul a special "register of behaviours" popularly called karma, and also the creation of complicated algorithms which cause the "return" of this "karma" back to the person who generated it.

Such mechanisms for enforcing "morality" is a lot. In fact, almost the entire philosophy of totalism is preoccupied with their identification and description. Therefore here I just mention about their existence and the level of complexity, while for a complete learning them I recommend reading my publications devoted to the philosophy of totalizm.

#E2. Tools which God uses for enforcing "morality" on people:

In order to enforce morality, God created and uses a whole array of tools. These tools have various character, starting from the "method of stick and carrot" described in item #D1
of the web page named god.htm, and finishing on cataclysms indicated here in items
#C5.3 or #D4.

Part #F: Two categories of morality: (1) individual, and (2) group:

#F1. Since there are two categories of "intellects" that lead independent lives
(i.e. so-called "individual intellects" and so-called "group intellects"), then there must also exist two categories of "morality", i.e. "individual morality" and "group morality":

From everyday life we know that there are numerous existences which "lead independent lives". For example, their own lives have NOT only individual people, but also entire families, boats, factories, cities, countries, civilisations, and in the future also e.g. intelligent robots, spaceships, etc. Unfortunately, mechanisms which rule over morality must work on different principles when affect individual people, while on different principles when they affect something that is composed of a larger group of people, means entire cities, scientific disciplines, religions, nations, countries, etc. Thus, because of this need for a different description of the work of morality in these two different categories of existences, the philosophy of totalizm introduced the idea of so-called "individual intellects" (i.e. single people), and the concept of so-called "group intellects". The morality of each one of these two categories of intellects is rules by a different category of mechanisms.
Therefore we must also distinguish two categories of morality, namely (1) a so-called "individual morality", and (2) a so-called "group morality".
More information on the subject of "individual intellects" and "group intellects" provide, amongst others, item #B2 on the web page named mozajski.uk.htm, item #E2 on the web page named totalizm.htm, or item #C4 on the web page named parasitism.htm.

#F3. Principles of enforcing the "individual morality" amongst people:

The enforcement of "individual morality" is simple. Whatever a given individual person does, such "rewards" or "punishments" God serves to him or her - for more information see items #B2.1 and #B4 on the web page named mozajski.uk.htm.

#F4. Principles of enforcing the "group morality":

With enforcing of a "group morality" is more problems than in the case of a "individual morality". After all, for example, if an entire city behaves immorally, but in that city still lives several moral people, then immediately there is a question whether these moral people or families must be punished together with the entire city (after all, they failed to "improve" morality of the rest of their co-citizens), or they should be spared from the punishment. For just such reasons and moral dilemmas God developed an entire range of complex principles and rules which rule over enforcement of group morality. Their general description is provided in items #B4 to #B4.4 of the web page named mozajski.uk.htm.

Part #G: The so-called "individual morality":

#G1. Attributes of the "individual morality":

The main (and sometimes the only) source of human knowledge about "morality" in many cases still remain religions. However, "religions" are institutions which in whatever they teach they sometimes choose to to more emphasize what "lies in their interests" than what is real truth. (A best example of just such a behaviour of religions is so-called "Cult of Virgin Mary" practiced by the Roman-Catholic church, which cult is contradictory to the commend of God expressed in the Biblical "Book of Exodus" verses 20:3-5, quote: "You must not have any other gods against my face. You must not make for yourself a carved image or a form like anything that is in the heavens above or that is on the earth underneath or that is in the waters under the earth. You must not bow down to them nor be induced to serve them, ..." - for more information see item #D1 from the web page named malbork_uk.htm.) Thus, for accomplishing various "benefits", some religions introduced to their teachings many claims far from truth about principles of work of morality. For example, that believers of a given religion God "forgives" their immoral behaviours, that in the name of this religion one may act immorally with practitioners of other religions, etc. Therefore, many people have quite wrong idea about attributes which characterise morality. In order to learn facts about these attributes, it is worth to read in person exact source information on the topic of these attributes, i.e. best is to read carefully and exactly the entire Bible, or at least read publications about the philosophy of totalizm.

#G2. Punishments and rewards for the "individual morality":

There relatively well are described in item #B2.1 from the separate web page named mozajski_uk.htm. In turn an example of a reward which I myself experienced is described in item #8 of the web page named jan_pajak.htm.

#G3. Basic principles of carrying out our "individual morality":

On this web page such principles are summarised in sub-items below, and also in item #L1. But the best internet descriptions of these principles are provided in items #A2 to #A2.6 from a separate web page named totalizm.htm. In order to remind here at least what is the most vital in these principles, the greatest attention one should pay to following recommendations of totalizm:

#G3.1. In every your behaviour act pedantically moral:

This is the only rule of practicing totalizm. It is described more extensively on a range of web pages and publications, e.g. see items #B1 and #C1 of the web page named totalizm.htm, or in subsection JA2 from volume 6 of monograph [1/5].

#G3.2. With every your action increase the amount of "moral energy" in yourself and in others:

This principle is also described on a range of web pages and publications of totalizm, e.g. see items #B1 and #D2 to #D11 of the web page named totalizm.htm, or subsections JA5 to JA5.6 from volume 6 of monograph [1/5].
G3.3. In every your decision and action always choose the path "uphill in the moral field" (means "oppositely to the line of the least intellectual resistance"):

The philosophy of totalizm has proven, that "moral" (and thus always beneficial and good for all people involved) is only whatever climbs “uphill” in the invisible “moral field”. Therefore, in our every action and every life situation, we should always try to select this our behaviour, which in fact climbs "uphill in the moral field". Unfortunately, similarly like a gravity field, also this "moral field" remains invisible to our sight. Thus, in order to firstly detect in which direction lies that "uphill", the most easy procedure is to start from finding out what would be the acting "along the so-called 'line of the least intellectual resistance' " (as such a behaviour is immediately indicated to us by our laziness and by the easiest way out from a given situation), and then do an exact opposite to whatever this "line of the least intellectual resistance" indicates to us.

Also this principle of selecting the most moral behaviour is described extensively in publications of totalizm, e.g. see items #A2.1 and #H2 of the web page named totalizm.htm, item #F1 and (2) from item #E3 on the web page named rok_uk.htm, item #E3 on the web page god_exists.htm, item #G3 of the web page eco_cars.htm, or subsections JA4 to JA4.6 from volume 6 of monograph [1/5].

G3.4. Always make sure that you are prepared to receive back the "karma returns" for whatever you are just doing:

Whatever you do, it generates identical karma returns that you are going to experience one day. Therefore, make sure that you do only things which generate the karma, the returns of which you are going to great with pleasure.

G3.5. Always tell the truth, only try to express it in a least painful manner that you can:

In item #K1 of this web page I am emphasizing, that "telling truth is the essence of morality". Therefore we always are obliged to tell truth, especially to these people whom we love. In turn, if for some reasons we are unable to tell them truth, then we should rather be silent, than to tell lies. We also should remember, that "telling complements" in many cases is a kind of lying as well.

Always telling the truth and calling things by their true name is so vital for the philosophy of totalizm, that many presentations are devoted to discussions of these - e.g. see also item #F1 on the web page named totalizm.htm.

Part #H: The so-called "group morality":

#H1. Attributes of the "group morality":

The most vital attribute of "group morality", which clearly distinguishes it from "individual morality", is that in a given "group intellect" acts a whole spectrum of people which individual moralities can spread over the entire possible range. Thus, in a given "group intellect" may participate not only people who are completely immoral, but also people with the morality of almost that of saints. Such a group of people cannot as a whole be generally treated with neither a reward, nor a punishment. If we reward it whole, then also these most immoral would get rewarded for their immorality. In turn if it is punished as a whole, than even these most moral would also get punished. For these reasons God developed a special version of "group morality", attributes of which are discussed more thoroughly, amongst others, in items #B4 to #B4.4 of the web page named mozajski_uk.htm.

#H2. "Rewards" and "punishments" for group morality:

These are described more comprehensively, amongst others, in items #B2.1 to #B4.4 from the web page mozajski_uk.htm.

#H3. Cataclysms as a main tool of God for "correcting group morality":

One amongst most basic and most effective tools of God used for the correcting "group morality" are "cataclysms" - for example earthquakes, volcano eruptions, tsunamis, floods, droughts, frosts, hurricanes, tornadoes, etc. This is emphasized on a number of items from this web page, e.g. see #C5.3, #D4, E2 and this (i.e. #H3) item. After all, during the serving such cataclysms God can selectively save these people who display highly moral behaviour, but simultaneously God can "punish" and even completely annihilate all these people who already let God know their immoral behaviours.

More about "cataclysms" served for "correcting group morality" is described, amongst others, in item #B5 from the web page named seismograph.htm. The same topic is also discussed in item #D4 of this web page.

#H4. Specific examples how God corrects "group morality" of cities and communities via the use of cataclysms:

Such examples are indicated already in e.g. item #C5.3 of this web page.
#H5. How to protect own city or community from cataclysms:

There is a number of methods with the use of which one can protect own city or community against cataclysms. A general description of these methods is provided in items #B6 and #B7.2 from the web page named seismograph.htm. Also in there in item #C5.1 is explained how one amongst these methods can be practically implemented in own city. In turn a real example of protection with one of these methods is documented in item #I3 of the web page named day26.htm.

#H6. So-far learned cases when God temporarily suspended punishments for an immoral city or community:

The biblical example of suspending by God the serving of punishments to immoral city, is described for the city called "Nineveh" - see the Biblical "Book of Jonah", verses 1:2 to 3:10. In turn my present documentation of a similar suspending for the suburb of Petone is described in item #I3 from the web page named day26.htm.

Part #I: How "individual intellects (persons)" should avoid involvement in the painful procedure of "correcting a group morality":

#I1. The Polish proverb "where trees are cut-down one may get hurt by splinters" (in the Polish language "gdzie drzewa rąbią tam wióry lecą") - means if the morality of city or community in which we live is corrected by God, we individually can also get hurt for our passive "tolerance of immorality of others", even if we ourselves do NOT cause an evil:

If the community, city, or even the entire country in which we live, treated as a single large "group intellect", deserved a God's punishment, then we also can get hurt during this occasion - even if we live a relatively "moral" life. There can be several reasons for this - the most vital amongst which can be our "passiveness" in face of immorality.

#I2. The passiveness towards immorality as a major "crime" punished by God during "corrections of group morality":

Someone's "passivity" in face of immorality of other members of the "group intellect" to which we belong, God punishes equally severely as our "co-participation in immoral activities and in doing evil". More information on this subject is provided in items #B4 and #B1 from the web page named parasitism.htm, and in item #B7 from the web page named seismograph.htm.

The most meaningful present example of getting hurt for the "passivity" is the Japanese tsunami of Friday, 11 March 2011 - described, amongst others, in items #C7 and #I1 of the web page named seismograph.htm, and in items #M1 to #M2 from the web page named telekinetics.htm. Highly informative detail of that tsunami from Japan was that this country again was punished with "radioactivity". The probably reasons for this repetition of the history lesson was that after the first being bombed with atomic bombs near the end of the Second World's War, Japanese did NOT draw the required conclusions and still started to develop in their country the nuclear energy which can be called the "most immoral form of energy".

#I3. How to recognise situations when we ourselves are endangered by "splinters" flying from the "group intellect" whose part we are and whose immorality requires God's correction:

Principles of these recognition are described in items #B7.1 and #B7.3 from the web page named seismograph.htm.
#I4. How to defend ourselves from getting hurt by "splinters" from our "group intellect" when its immorality is corrected:

Such a defence is easy. It simply suffices to start practicing the advanced form of the philosophy of totalism called the "formal totalism".

Part #J: Rules, laws and mechanisms of work, that govern over the maintenance of "morality" by subsequent categories of intellects:

#J1. How "morality" is maintained practically in subsequent categories of "intellects", and rules applicable to it:

In order to be able to accomplish His superior goals, God needs people who are highly active and who continually work towards moral perfecting themselves and world around them. Therefore, God requires from people continuous proving to Him, that they are NOT complacent and are still active, as well as that they practice "morally correct kinds of activities". In order to force people to just such a continuous proving, God forms "moral field" which display the attribute of a "dynamic shifting back" people. This means, that all people who even for a moment cease their effort of climbing uphill in the moral field, are shifted back by this field down into increasingly higher "immorality" - as this is described in items #C4.2, #D5 and #I2 from this web page.

In turn, to form such "moral field" that "dynamically shifts people back", God continually creates in our surrounding a whole array of "immoral trends" and "immoral human imperfections" which push down everyone who do NOT resists them. Their examples include: financial gains, fashion, tasty food, sexual desires, etc. So this "proving" to God by people that they still actively practice "morally correct kinds of behaviours" depends, amongst others, on a decisive resisting these :immoral trends" and "immoral human imperfections", and on active fighting against them - so that we always do in our lives only things that are "moral".

Independently from this web page, the above requirement of God that people continually climb upwards in the "dynamically shifting people back" moral field, is described on a number of totalistic web pages, for example in item #A3 of the web page named god_proof.htm, in item #G3 of the totaliztic web page named eco_cars.htm, or in item #F1 of the web page rok_uk.htm.

Unfortunately, the morality of subsequent intellects form a hierarchical structure, that is already described in item #A2 of this web page. In this structure exist also "intellects" which just by themselves are unable to resist this pushing them towards "immorality" action of the "dynamically shifting back" moral field. Examples of just such intellects are: all young people (especially "teenagers"), women (especially "wives"), politicians (especially "heads of states"), or military men (especially creators of "robotic-soldiers"). For these vulnerable intellects, other intellects which are responsible for them are obliged to provide such assistance which is required for the "intellects located lower in a given hierarchy under NO circumstances practice a morality that is contradictory to the superior (primary) morality given to humans by God". An excellent example when a given morality of a lower rank would be "contradictive" towards the morality given to all people by God, would be if e.g. people constructed "robots-soldiers" so intentionally designed that these carried out mass killings of humans (this would be contradictive with the commandment from God stating "do NOT kill" - see e.g. item #C5.2 from this web page). Shockingly, as this is explained in the article [1#J1] "Moral doubts over real-time Terminators" from page A9 of newspaper The New Zealand Herald, issue dated on Tuesday, April 19, 2011, Americans just are building a prototype of a "robot-soldier" named "Reaper", which is to use an "artificial intelligence" for mass killing of humans. Thus it is worth to watch this project, because it is sure that God is going to react about this intention in a manner that is to give to us a lot to think about.

#J2. Kinds of fights for maintaining morality that dominate in subsequent categories of intellects:

So in order to continually expose every person to tests whether really it climbs uphill in the "dynamic moral field", God created on the Earth and promotes various forms of "immoral trends and imperfections". These tempt and push down people that are most weak morally. Only people who really are "moral" are able to resist them and to withstand by the moral behaviours. In turn "immoral" people fast give out to these temptations - in this way allowing God to qualify them into the justly appropriate for them categories (i.e. to these designated by God for subjecting them to appropriate experiences that are aimed at "correcting their morality"). Below I am going to describe most vital such imperfections and trends, with which at present must fight every major category of intellects, and also I am going to explain to what may lead ignoring the duty to help these intellects in their standing by "moral" behaviours.

#J2.1. The superior (primary) "morality of a person" which with the "iron consequence" is enforced in all people by God Himself:

The most superior out of all existing "moralitys" is the "morality of a person" imposed onto all people by God and required from every person - as this is defined in item #B5 from the beginning of this web page. While we are physical people we are exposed to a huge number of various external trends, inner imperfections, and temporary temptations, to which - according to commandments of the Bible and philosophy of totalizm, we must decisively resist in our lives. Of course, the knowledge "how" we should resist them and "how" we should act in their face, is huge and even a brief discussion of it involves the content of the entire Bible and textbooks of the philosophy of totalizm. Therefore, I am NOT going to even try to summarise it here or to describe this huge body of knowledge, but I recommend to reader to seek in the source literature - e.g. in volume 6 of my newest monograph [1/5].

#J2.2. The morality of women (girls, partners, wives, employees, etc.):

Motto: "If a key stone from foundations is make loose, then the entire structure is to collapse."

The omnipotent God knew well, that is anything is to be accomplished by the common effort of two or more people, then always one amongst them must be a "head" or a "leader", while the rest must voluntarily recognise his authority and obey his decisions. This fact is also noticed by people and expressed e.g. in hundreds of various proverbs - as examples of these consider the Polish "where six chiefs rule in the kitchen, there is nothing to eat" (in original Polish: "gddie kucharek sześa tam NIE ma co jeść"), Chinese "if two people own a horse, it dies of hunger", or Malaysian "if a boat belongs to two owners, than for sure it leaks". Therefore, when God created a "man" and a "woman" He did NOT created it equal and exactly identical, but created then in a manner that they mutually complement each other in their attributes, but that the "man" was a "head" while "woman" was his "helper" and "complement". This fact God expressed quite clearly and unambiguously in several different places of the Bible. Thus for man the Bible defines the role of a "head" which is to lead the family, while for woman - the role of a "helper" which is to support and to complement her man. For example, in the Biblical "1 Corinthians", verses 11:3, 8-9, 12 is stated, quote: "But I want you to know that the head of every man is the Christ, in turn the head of a woman is the man; in turn the head of the Christ is God. ... For man is not out of woman, but woman out of man; and, what is more, man was not created for the sake of the woman, but woman for the sake of the man. ... For just as the woman is out of the man, so also the man is through the woman; but all things are out of God."

Unfortunately, the human nature is such, that when ones who supposed to "assist" are NOT absolutely sure that their role is right and just, then they rebel and try to become "heads". This also started to happen with women in recent times - when the authority of their role imposed onto them by the Bible and God was undermined by the female movement called "feminism" or "women emancipists". In rezultacie tego ruchu, większość kobiet z dzisiejszych czasów NIE chce ochotniczo aprobować autorytetu mężczyny jako "głowy" swej rodziny, a walczy z mężczyznama aby też zostać "głowami". W rezultacie, w dzisiejszych czasach doświadczamy nieustannej "wojny płci" (czyli wojny "kobiet z mężczyznami"). Jest to jednak samobójczy rodzaj wojny. Wszakże jeśli dzięki "dobrzej naturze" i "pokojości" jakiegoś mężczyzny, którejś kobiecie faktycznie udaje się w wojnie tej wygrać i rzeczywiście zostaje ona "głową" rodziny, wówczas to uwalnia nagle ukryte mechanizmy działania moralności. Owe zaś mechanizmy całkowicie niszczą tą rodzinę - tak że "nowe życie" jakie ów mężczyzna dał tej kobiecie zostaje zakończone. Taka kobieta która wygrała "wojnę płci" ze swoim mężem i faktycznie została "głową" rodziny, typowo natychmiast po wygraniu traci bowiem szacunek do swego męża, zaczyna rozglądać się za innym partnerem, zaś po jakimś czasie typowo bierze rozwód ze swoim mężem i dana rodzina się rozpada. Co istotniejsze, po owym rozwodzie kobieta ta nigdy NIE jest już szczęśliwa, a spędza resztę życia płacąc za negację roli nadanej jej przez Boga. Zaś wiadomo że ludzie którzy sami są nieszczęśliwi unieszczęśliwiają też wszystkich dookoła siebie. To dlatego Biblia nakazuje m.in. "Nie weźmie za żonę ani wdowy, ani rozwódki, ani pohańbionej, ani nierządnicy: żadnej z takich nie weźmie, ale weźmie

Faktycznie też jeśli przeanalizuje się które małżeństwa żyją razem szczęśliwie przez całe wspólne życie, wówczas się okazuje, że kobiety z tych małżeństw zawsze ochotniczo aprobują swoją rolę nadaną im przez Boga i opisaną Biblią. Oczywiście, to ochotnicze aprobowanie tradycyjnej kobiecej roli wcale NIE uszczupla ich znaczenia, poważania, szacunku swoich mężów, udziału w decyzjach rodziny, itp. Jedyne co ono powoduje, to że eliminuje ową nieustanną "wojnę płci" i ich zmaganie się z mężem oraz zaprzeczanie jego decyzjom, w harmonijne pożycie, konsultowane decyzje, oraz faktyczną współpracę w każdej sprawie.

#J2.2.1. Problems with "feminism" and consequences of "famale rules":

Motto: "There is an important reason why women are so unpredictable."

Moralność i role wielu dzisiejszych kobiet, zarażonych rozprzestrzeniającą się po świecie z krajów anglosaskich Żeńską odmianą filozofii pasożytnictwa znaną pod popularną nazwą "feminizmu" czy "emancypacji kobiet", dobrze opisuje tytuł artykułu [1#J2.2.1] "Girls can do anything boys can - including get violent" (tj. "dzieczynnym mogą wszystko to co chłopcy - włącznie ze staniem się brutalnym") ze strony A2 nowozelandzkiej gazety The Dominion Post Weekend (wydanie z soboty (Saturday), June 18, 2011). Innymi słowy, "feministki" starają się "przeorganizować" w naszej cywilizacji tradycyjną moralność i rolę kobiet oraz mężczyzn, wychodząc ze sprzecznego z empiryką i faktami założenia, że "poza budową organów seksualnych NIE ma żadnej różnicy pomiędzy kobietą i mężczyzną". W ten sposób aktywnie podważają one i unieważniają ustalenia wielu pokoleń badaczy i filozofów, że np. "w naturze kobiet leży trwanie w emocjonalnym i produktywnym związku z tylko jednym mężczyzną", podczas gdy "w naturze mężczyzna leży utrzymywanie fizycznego i niezobowiązującego obcowania z większą liczbą kobiet", czy że "kobieta bierze wszystko na uczucia" podczas gdy "mężczyzna bierze wszystko na logike i rozum". (Niekotórzy genetycy powyższe wyraziliby raczej twierdzenie, że "mężczyzna ma trwale zakodowane w genach obcowanie z całym haremem kobiet", podczas gdy "kobieta ma trwale zakodowane w genach obcowanie z tylko jednym mężczyzną").

Jeśli się rozważy, skąd wzięło się owo założenie feministek, że "jedyna różnica pomiędzy kobietą a mężczyzną sprowadza się do budowy organów seksualnych", wówczas się okazuje że wynika ono właśnie z twierdzeń upowszechnianych przez "ateistyczną naukę ortodoksyjną". Wszakże owa nauka neguje iż ludzie byli stworzeni inteligentnie i celowo przez Boga, a utrzymuje, że mężczyzna i kobieta przeszli, bok przy boku, przez dokładnie tą samą drogę w ślepej i bezmyślnej ewolucji. Stąd muszą odznaczać się dokładnie tymi samymi cechami. Gdyby więc np. dziewczyny wychowywać dokładnie tak jak wychowuje się chłopców, wówczas - zgodnie z owa "ateistyczną nauką ortodoksyjną", po dorośnięciu jako kobieta wykazywałaby one wszystkie cechy które mają mężczyźni. Innymi słowy, wychodząc z twierdzeń "ateistycznej nauki ortodoksyjnej", dochodzi się do ciągle czysto teoretycznego i oczywiście błędnego przypuszczenia, że kobiety wcale NIE zostały stworzone w tak inteligentnie wypracowany sposób, aby uzupełniać i poszerzać cechy i możliwości mężczyzn, a że ślepa ewolucja uformowała je w niemal identyczne duplikaty mężczyzn. Będąc zaś takimi "duplikatami mężczyzn" powinny one móc efektywnie zastępować mężczyzn we wszystkich tradycyjnie "męskich rolach". A więc powinny móc efektywnie pełnić role "głów rodzin" i "głów państw", móc służyć w wojsku, dźwigać ciężary, mieć aż kilku partnerów seksualnych naraz, itp. To zaś wprost namawia kobiety aby te zaczęły się emancypować i praktykować feminizm.

Kiedy jednak zacznie się obserwować co owo przypuszczenie powoduje w państwach które uległy już naciskowi feministek i pozwoliły kobietom zastępować mężczyzn we wszystkich tradycyjnie męskich rolach, wówczas się okazuje, że faktycznie stało się ono
powodem stopniowego upadku owych państw i zaniku ich rodzimej ludności. Znaczy, w rzeczywistym życiu "feminizm" okazał się być wysoce niemoralnym i niszczycielskim trendem. I tak, okazało się tam że kobiety w męskich rolach wcale NIE kierują się intelektu i obiektywnością - tak jak czynią to mężczyźni, a wszystkim u nich rządzi emocje i uczucia. W rezultacie, jako "glowy rodzin" takie kobiety przykładowo NIE pozwalają dyscyplinować dzieci które one kochają - wychowują więc całe nowe pokolenia na nieposłusznych i krajowych neddarzających w punkcie #J2.4 poniżej. Z kolei jako "glowy państw" i politycy, tym których lubią kobiety pozwalają formować "monopol", unicestwiać konkurencję, zwiększać cenę, eskalować biurokrację i podatki, dewaluować pieniądze, itp. Jako zaś siła robocza, odmawiają jednak wykonywania wielu prac z wag na swoją płeć, szybko się obrażają i podają do sądu, bez przerwy są na zwolnieniach lekarzkach lub "wypadach na miasto", wydrukuje zwiększanie płac kiedy wydająć ich pracy spada, nie traktują każdego tak samo, itp. NIE są też w stanie wypracować i wdrożyć jakichkolwiek wynalazków, ulepszeń, czy odkryć naukowych - tak jak czynili to uprzednio mężczyźni, zaczynają mieć po kilku partnerów seksualnych naraz, chodzą, poruszają się i ubierają jak mężczyźni, formują gangi, przestają dbać o rodzinę, itp., itp. Wynikiem tego wszystkiego jest, że mężczyźni już przestali widzieć w nich partnerki z jakim warto spędzać życie. W rezultacie instytucje małżeństwa zaczęły tam upadać - patrz artykuł [2#J2.2.1]"Is marriage over?" (tj. "czy to koniec małżeństwa?") ze strony A1 nowozelandzkiej gazety The Dominion Post Weekend (wydanie z soboty (Saturday), June 18, 2011) - który ujawnia że w 2010 roku małżeństwo zawarło w Nowej Zelandii tylko 20 900 par - co stanowi jedynie połowę liczby małżeństw zawartych tam w 1987 roku. (Artykuł ten NIE wyjaśnia jednak czy podatne na feminizm rodzime Nowozelandki były w tych małżeństwach reprezentowane równie licznie jak np. ciągle obecne zagraniczne kobiety.) Jeśli zaś już któryś mężczyzna decyduje się tam posłubić, wówczas raczej wybiera kobietę z innego kraju, np. Orientu, który NIE przesiąkł jeszcze feminizmem zaś jego kobiety ciągle kultywują tradycyjne cechy żeńskie. Taki opanowany feminizmem kraj zaczyna więc zmieniać NIE tylko swoją kulturę - ponieważ musi "importować" niedobory własnych obywateli, ale dodatkowo szybko zmienia się rasowo.

Tymczasem jeśli moralność i role kobiet rozwija się z podejścia "a priori" stosowanego przez nową "naukę totalizytę", wówczas "feminizm" okazuje się niemoralną dewiacją która wszystko widzi i czyni sprzecznie z nakazami i wymaganiami Boga. Wszakże w świecie stworzonym przez Boga - jaki to świat bada nowa "nauka totalizytę", wszystko ma swój cel i zadania do wypełnienia. Bóg NIE stwarzałby więc w nim kobiety identycznej do mężczyzny, bowiem każdemu z nich wyznaczył odmienne role do wypełnienia.

Jak niemoralny jest "feminizm" oraz jak pokrewne do metod działania filozofii pasożytnictwa są zachowania społeczności rządzone przez "feministki", ujawnia to przypadek który w dniach od 22 czerwca do 7 lipca 2011 roku był dyskutowany szeroko w niemal każdej gazecie i każdym dzienniku telewizyjnym Nowej Zelandii. Mianowicie, w jednej z dyskusji radiowych nadawanych na żywo w dniu 22 czerwca 2011 roku, generalny dyrektor EMA (tj. "Employers and Manufacturers Association" - czyli "Związku Pracodawców i Producentów") wyjaśniał powody dla których w Nowej Zelandii kobiety średnio mają o 12% niższe zarobki od mężczyzn. Komentując wykaz czynników jakie powodują że wydajność produkcyjna kobiet jest niższa od wydajności mężczyzn, wśród wielu innych czynników wymienił on m.in. również "miesiączki" - z powodu których kobiety wykazują wyższą niż mężczyźni nieobecność w pracy. To jedno słowo "miesiączki" wystawiło go jednak na histeryczne ataki feministek, które wyrażały tylko to słowo z kontekstu i zaczęły krzyczeć, że "miesiączki" NIE mogą być powodem dla niższych zarobków kobiet - po więcej informacji patrz artykuł [3#J2.2.1]"EMA chief's job on the line as outrage mounts" (tj. "Praca szefa EMA zagrożona jak oburzenie narasta") ze strony A3 nowozelandzkiej gazety Weekend Herald (wydanie z soboty (Saturday), June 25, 2011). Przez następne dwa tygodnie na głowę tego dyrektora zaczęła się sypać cała lawina ataków zupełnie postrzelonych od faktów i bazujących wyłącznie na kobiecych emocjach i na głośnym krzyku - patrz artykuł [4#J2.2.1] "Wide spread anger at remarks but Thompson keeps his job fo now" (tj. "Szeroki gniew na stwierdzenia, jednak Thompson narazie utrzymuje swe zatrudnienie") ze strony A5 gazety The New Zealand Herald (wydanie ze środę (Wednesday), June 29, 2011). Nie pomogły głosy rozsądku w rodzaju artykułu [5#J2.2.1] "Building bridges across the gender pay gap" (tj. "Znosił one mostów przez różnicę w zarobkach obu płci") ze strony A22 nowozelandzkiej gazety Weekend Herald (wydanie z soboty (Saturday), July 2, 2011) - który powoływał się na badania naukowe przeprowadzone we Włoszech jakie wykazywały że faktycznie z powodu miesiączek kobiety są nieobecne w pracy częściej od mężczyzn. Jak też można tego się doczytać z artykułu [6#J2.2.1] "It's over, period, for Alasdair Thompson" (tj. "Koniec, okresu, dla Alasdaira Thompsona") ze strony A2 gazety The New Zealand Herald (wydanie z czwartku (Thursday), July 7, 2011), w dniu 6 lipca 2011 roku, ów dyrektor został wyrzucony z pracy. Jeśli przeanalizować jego losy, to utracił on pracę tylko dlatego, że w radiowej dyskusji na żywo podsunął "feministkom" słowo "miesiączka" do wyrwania go z kontekstu i do rozpętania histerycznych ataków w których tłumy kobiet z całego kraju NIE pozwoliły rozsądkowi dojść do głosu. Mi osobiście cała ta sprawa przypominała "zlinczowanie" kogoś kto usiłował podjąć rzeczową dyskusję z feministkami na temat który faktycznie wymaga znalezienia rozwiązania.

Niezdolność do podjęcia i przeprowadzenia konstruktywnej dyskusji na drażliwe dla kobiet tematy, a branie wszystkiego na krzyk i na siłę, jest tylko jednym z wielu problemów wnoszonych przez feminizm. Wszakże będąc żeńską wersją filozofii pasożytnej, jak każda wersja tej niemoralnej filozofii, feminizm wszystko "bierze na uczucia" oraz zawsze wybiera tylko te rozwiązania które "biegają w dół pola moralnego". Najlepiej to widać z cech życia płciowego feministek. Im bardziej bowiem feminism zaawansowany, tym więcej cudzołóstwa, zdrady małżeńskiej, seksu z przypadkowymi partnerami, itp. Jako przykład warto poczytać artykuł [7#J2.2.1] o tytule "NZ women promiscuous, says doctor" (tj. "Nowozelandzkie kobiety rozwiązłe płciowo, stwierdza lekarz") ze strony A3 nowozelandzkiej gazety Weekend Herald (wydanie z soboty (Saturday), July 9, 2011). Zgodnie z nim, szokująca proporcja NZ kobiet NIE pamięta nawet z którym mężczyzna zaszała w ciążę. Z kolei jakieś opisane tam międzynarodowe badania wykazały, że kobiety nowozelandzkie są najbardziej rozwiązliwe płciowo na świecie. Przykładowo, przeciętna liczba partnerów seksualnych u nowozelandzkich kobiet wynosi średnio 20.3 mężczyzn na każdą kobietę - podczas gdy dla całego świata owa średnia wynosi 7.3 partnerów na kobietę. Odnoszą jednak, że w innym artykule [7b#J2.2.1] o tytule "Young females sleep arund to keep up with the boys" (tj. "Młode kobiety śpią gdzie się da aby wygrać współzawodnictwo z chłopcami") ze strony A3 gazety The New Zealand Herald (wydanie z poniedziałku (Monday), July 11, 2011) lekarz seksuolog usprawiedliwia te kobiety poprzez wzmianki czytelnikom że wszystko to wina mężczyzn z którymi one po prostu starają się współzawodniczyć (NIE wyjaśnia on jednak dlaczego owa "potrzeba współzawodnictwa z chłopcami" u Nowozelandek około trzykrotnie silniejsza niż u kobiet z reszty świata). Inne artykuły, jak np. [7c#J2.2.1] o tytule "Promiscuity 'damaging for women' " (tj. "Rozwiązłość szkodliwa dla kobiet") ze strony A3 gazety The New Zealand Herald (wydanie z wtorku (Tuesday), July 12, 2011), zwracają uwagę na psychologiczne zniszczenia i wypaczenia jakie u kobiet powoduje rozwiązanie płciowe.

Bóg zawsze celowo tak kształtuje "pole moralne", że aby postępować "moralnie" koniecznym się staje "mozolne i ochotnicze" wspinanie się pod górę owego pola - co opisałem już szerzej w szeregu punktów niniejszej strony, np. patrz punkty #C4.2, #D5, #I2 i #J1. Aby więc również i kobietom dać do wyboru albo "przyjemne i łatwe ześlizganie się w dół pola moralnego", albo też "mozolne wspinanie się pod górę pola moralnego", w dzisiejszych czasach Bóg stworzył właśnie ów "feminizm" (w innych czasach ów wybór będą zapewne dawały jakieś inne niemoralne trendy). Te zaś kobiety które wybierają łatwe uleganie owemu niemoralnemu feminizmowi i postępowanie zgodne z trendami feminizmu, wybierają jednocześnie samo-niszczenie poprzez właśnie takie łatwe ześlizganie się "w dół pola moralnego" - dokumentując w ten sposób Bogu swoją decyzję wiedzenia niemoralnego życia. Oczywiście, Bóg za to "posteruje ich losem" odpowiednio do tej ich decyzji - co już obecnie staje się widoczne jako samo-wyszczególniające trendy objawiające się w krajach opanowanych feminizmem (gdzie np. "rodzime kobiety" są coraz częściej "odstawiane na boczne tory" i zastępowane "kobietami z importu", zaś pojawiające się tam "nowe trendy" powodują zjawiska opisywane np. w artykule "One in five US women raped" (tj. "jedna z każdych pięciu kobiet w USA jest gwałcona"), ze strony B3 nowozelandzkiej gazety o nazwie Weekend Herald, wydanie z soboty (Saturday), December 17, 2011). Zawsze wszakże będą istniały też kraje w których kobiety wybiorą jednak ochotniczo tą trudniejszą drogę wytrwania przy moralności - czyli drogę dobrowolnego i ochotniczego nieulegania dewiacjom typu "feminizm" czy "lesbianizm", oraz trwania przy sumiennym wypełnianiu tradycyjnych ról które Bóg wyznaczył kobietom i zalecił im w Biblii. Te kobiety zdolną być kiedyś nasz świat. Jedynie pytanie które warto sobie tutaj zadać, to czy takie zadminowanie nad światem kobiet które ochotniczo wybrały moralne wytrwanie przy tradycyjnych rolach musi się wiązać z zanikiem i upadkiem tych ras ludzi których kobiety są podatne na niemoralne trendy w rodzaju "feminizmu"?

#J2.2.2. Problems with the "marriage monopole" from the Christian tradition of having just one wife - as a reversal of advantages of the legal polygamy recommended in the Bible:

Motto: "Progress does NOT depend on ruining old and on landing with nothing, but on the introduction of such new that eliminates inadequacies and preserves advantages of old, that has higher moral value, and that opens for the humanity much better prospects for the future."

It took disclosing methods of present private detectives, supported by the divorce lawyers and journalists earning from scandals, while disseminated throughout the world by sensation-thirsty television, press and internet, for the humanity to realise how unrealistic and how contradictory to the human nature is the present "institution of marriage". After all, this institution is based on the principle of monogamy - means on the principle in which the existing laws give into hands of a woman the "marriage monopole" in which she becomes the only legal supplier of, amongst others, "goods" and "services" without the access to which man simply is unable to live. It is for gaining an access to just such "goods" and "services" that in the animal kingdom "males" are prepared to fight till the death. However, in the "marriage monopole" the access to these is subjected to the full control of just a single women ruled by emotions, which can do whatever she is pleased. As we know, in present world, which legally sanctions this "marriage monopole", for everything is needed a "consensus" of both sides. Moreover, laws are so designed, that man can have just one wife, while polygamy and unfaithfulness are banned and severely punished. However, as we all probably know already, there is nothing more destructive in long-term consequences, than establishing laws that legalise and reinforce someone's "monopole". From watching fates of e.g. present countries whichallowed their governments to establish monopolies that rule over the entire their economies, it is already known that during just around ten years monopolies can remove the wealth from even the most rich country and push it into poverty down to the level of so-called "third world". In turn, from the fate of still the only official so-called "atheistic orthodox science" to-date - described, amongst others, in item #B1 of this web page, it is already known that e.g. supporting the "monopole for knowledge" by our civilisation, brought onto the humanity all these disasters that we see currently around, such as warming of climate, economic depression, political and monetary instability, wars, famine, spread of the philosophy of parasitism, cataclysms, illnesses, etc.

Similarly as every other kind of monopole, also the "marriage monopole" hides a highly destructive potential and is full of various vices. After all, it sanctions the unnatural situation, when wives in marriages neither need to consider the existence of legal "competition" for themselves in the form of another wife, nor are motivated by the prospect that if they do NOT meet the expectations, then their husbands may take another wife. So if an immorally inclined woman becomes a wife, then she can use various "tricks" and "games" to abuse her monopolistic position. For example, she can pretend to have "migraine", use "sexual blackmail" for gaining certain benefits - in this for gaining power over her husband, etc. This in turn places her man in face of the dilemma to either suffer - if the husband decides to stand by morality, or to practice an immoral unfaithfulness and expose the marriage to a danger of splitting and divorce. Simultaneously, the same "marriage monopoles" do NOT create for husbands any other option that would be more "moral" than "divorces" in situations when e.g. their wives abuse the "marriage monopole" they hold. Unfortunately, although a divorce is legally acceptable, in the majority of life circumstances it is a highly "immoral" solution - which harms and makes unhappy absolutely all people that are affected by consequences of it.

Shockingly, it happens that the "marriage monopole" was established and implemented on the Earth by the Christian religion - in spite that the Bible is full of statements which reassure us that God supports and approves "polygamy" while does NOT requires nor persuades "monogamy", and that many forefathers of the humanity, indicated in the Bible as examples to follow, in fact had more than one wife. (E.g. even the uniquely wise Salomon had 700 primary wives and 300 secondary wives - see the Bible, 1 Kings, verse 11:3.) So as the result, next to the "Cult of Virgin Mary" - which against the requirements of God is practiced by the Catholic Church (see item #G1 from this web page), establishing the "marriage monopoly" by the Christian religion is yet another significant departure of the present Christianity from the will and recommendations of God expressed in the Bible. Also, as every departure from the will and recommendations of omnipotent God, this leads to many human deviations and difficulties. For example, it is the primary reasons for many present divorces, fall-down of institution of marriage, unfaithfulness, splits of ownerships and life accomplishments, and the primary source of many children who must grow without parents or without male role-model for learning from.

Much more "moral" than the monogamy is a legal polygamy, the approval for practicing of which the omnipotent God expressed in the Bible, because He knows perfectly-well the nature and needs of humans (after all, God created people and thus knows them completely). The Christian "monogamy" still remains one amongst possible "options" to choose from in the legal "polygamy". Thus, the majority of marriages in which both sides truly practice the mutual love, respect and moral fulfilment of roles, in the "polygamist" countries still practice "monogamy". (In this way wives from the polygamist cultures, husbands of which choose having just one wife, receive an obvious proof of the appreciation of their value and know that their husbands truly treasure and love them, NOT that just stay with them only because they are afraid of a divorce and punishments for being unfaithful.) For example, I myself would NOT take a second wife even if the polygamy was officially practiced and legal - in spite that I am FOR legalisation of it because from my research on morality and on the Bible clearly stems that the polygamy would be much more moral, more beneficial for the entire humanity, and more agreeable with intentions of God, than the present monogamy. But I have a wonderful and extraordinary wife, which love, admire and respect increasingly more as time progresses - which fact I am not ashamed to openly admit (e.g. see the web page named jan_pajak.htm). However, for many other marriages, such legalised wedding another wife could turn highly beneficial and desirable. Especially in cases when the first marriage would turn "disastrous", "unfertile", or when having many wives would become an expression of prestige or wealth. After all, when the first wife would NOT meet expectations of the husband or would NOT lift the prestige or quality of life of a given marriage, then instead of cheating and cunningly becoming unfaithful to her, or immorally divorcing her and leaving her together with children without male protection and role model, many men would rather legally marry another wife - while still continuing the fulfilment of their marriage obligations they have towards the first wife.

After thorough analysis everyone can discover, that the legal "polygamy" has many advantages in comparison to "monogamy" - so unfortunately implemented on the entire Earth by Christianity and subjected to the present crisis and moral fall-down that we see spreading around the world. For example, through treatment of "divorces" as the least preferred "option" to which a given couple resorts only in extreme circumstances, the majority of children would NOT need to grow up without fathers and without male role-models for watching and for learning, while a noticeable number of women would NOT need to live alone. Children have in polygamy a larger selection of parents and people to love, play with, take care of them, and teach them. (This is especially vital for e.g. closer learning by them about women which are NOT their mothers. As we know, in the present monogamy children learn closer only about one woman, which typically is their mother - blindly in love with them and thus deprived of objectivity. In turn behaviours of such a blindly-loving mother do NOT represent typical behaviours of women with which these children will be forced to relate in the future adult life.) Also, in polygamy these less talented wives do NOT become unhappy divorcees full of bitterness and hate. Immoral and destructive trends, such as "feminism", do NOT have a reason to eventuate in polygamy. For every wife is less work "per person" - so they have more time for entertainment and taking care of themselves. Life accomplishments and wealth of marriages do NOT need to be split and wasted - but these can benefit a larger number of people. Unfaithfulness ceases to bloom in it - after all, instead of having an immoral, illegal, cheating and risky affairs, in polygamy simply another marriage is arranged. (It is worth to notice, that from practical point of view, present unfaithful marriages almost do NOT differ from polygamy - only that instead of accepting of the function of someone's lovers, in polygamy women simply accept that they are second or further wives.) Venereal diseases cease to spread in it. Both sexes are also more healthy - after all they have more exercises. Men and women are more sexually satisfied in it (and thus also more happy) - after all, women do NOT waste their "turns" nor practice "sexual blackmails" or "migraines" because they are aware of the existence of "competition". In turn men always have handy "someone willing" - so they do NOT need to seek "outside" while because of the continuous practice they are in a greater form. Men must also in it be more ambitious than on monogamy, because if they do NOT meet requirements of their wives, then these in the common effort always find ways to positively reinforce whatever is missing in their husband. Also all domestic violence and arguing disappear in it - as a single male does NOT stand chances against a whole gang of his wives. From streets disappear the majority of overweighted people - after all women do NOT need to "compensate" by eating, while men do NOT have time to become fat. Sperm counts probably do NOT fall down in polygamy because of the lack of "idleness" in males. The required birth rate is healthier in polygamy. Children are NOT rejected or ignored by parents. The excess of women do NOT need to live lonely. Infertile women still receive children of their husbands to love, while infertility ceases to be a reason for tragedies and lonely old age. Parasitic divorce lawyers and private detectives do NOT have jobs, so they can practice professions which are more productive for the humanity. Etc., etc.

In order to explain more comprehensively at least one example from the above list of advantages of polygamy over monogamy, let us consider why both males and females, in polygamy are much healthier than in monogamy. In particular let us explain how polygamy, through the increase in frequency of sexual intercourses in both genders, eliminates the plague of present times, which is obesity (means also eliminates numerous health problems that result from obesity). In other words, polygamy, or more strictly the abolishment of "monopole for sex" in polygamist marriages, and thus the increase of frequency of sexual intercourses in both genders caused by this abolishment, is one amongst the most moral, and simultaneously one amongst the most pleasurable, methods of keeping slim. After all, old folklore beliefs of various nations, as well as present empirical findings, confirm that people who have at least two sexual intercourses each week, typically have NO problems with obesity. (The more of sexual intercourses someone has every week, the less problems with overweight he or she has.) Confirmations for this fact provide e.g. old Polish folklore beliefs, which are expressed e.g. in form of sayings "good cockerel never is fat" or "make love each evening to sleep well, then make love again in morning to remember well" (in original Polish language "dobry kogut nigdy NIE jest tłusty" or "kochaj się wieczorem aby dobrze ci się spalo, ponownie zaś kochaj się rano aby we dnie ci się pamiętało"). (These saying diplomatically express folk findings which with present direct wording would state something along lines that "males who make love frequently never have problems with obesity", and "these ones who make love every evening have no problems with insomnia"). The same folk knowledge is also empirically confirmed by women. For example, in cultures in which women openly and without inhibition express their opinions about sexual matters, e.g. in close to nature tropical Dayaks from Borneo, these women confirm that obese men are hopeless in bed. In turn the fact that a high frequency of sexual intercourses decreases obesity also in women, is confirmed e.g. by a popular saying (and opinion) about fat women, that "they eat to compensate for sexual deficiencies". Such folklore confirmations are additionally enforced by empirical findings, e.g. that in harems never one can see a fat women, while in countries and cultures in which polygamy is practiced until today almost all citizens are slim. (In spite of whatever someone can deduce theoretically, in real life both sexes in typical polygamist families have several times more sexual intercourses than in typical monogamist families. For example, because of the loss of "monopole for sex" and the awareness of the existence of "competition" in the form of other wife, women never resign in there from "their turn" to husbands - as in monogamy women do it chronically because of e.g. "migraines" or "lost of mood". In turn for men the sexual drive is increased in there due to the attractiveness of spending each night with a different wife.) Furthermore, every man which in his life had both, slim and fat girlfriends or partners, knows from empirics that the "libido" of slim women is at the level of several sexual intercourses per week. In turn fat women only with a great difficulty can be persuaded to have one intercourse per week. In other words, if e.g. Americans and New Zealanders started to practice a legal polygamy, then probably they would cease to be two most fat nations of the world. (The suggestion, that Americans and New Zealanders are probably two most fat nations in the present world, originates from the article entitled "Majority in NZ obese or overweight" from page A2 of newspaper The New Zealand Herald, issue dated on Friday, September 16, 2011.) Also then in these countries would probably disappear many present problems, including health-related, which are caused by obesity and by lack of sexual satisfaction. In turn for times, before countries in which we live introduce legal polygamy, I sincerely advice both men and women: "if you are in situation that you can make love in a moral manner, i.e. without harming anyone, then make love as much as you can and as frequently as you have opportunity - because from love making various benefits emerge, while from abstinence only problems are born". (The same recommendation my grandfather used to express with a jocose principle for easy remembering and for everyday applying in life, which recommended that "in our family no-one was ever tarnished by a requirement, that an invitation to bed or to table needed to be repeated twice").

The above reveals, that if any present "monogamist" country introduces a legal "polygamy", then all parties would only benefit from it. Proofs that such benefits actually exists and awaits countries ready to introduce "polygamy", are well visible in these cultures and countries which still preserved polygamy until today. (No many people probably know that until the end of World's War Two, the "polygamy" was still legally practiced in almost all cultures of Orient. In my globetrotting "in search of bread" (for details see the web page about me indicated below in item #O5), I personally met many oriental people who originated from just such polygamist families. As I also noted, typically people from such families are carriers of much more moral systems of values than people born in monogamist families.) Also, opposite to cultures from rich monogamist countries, in polygamy countries the institution of marriages still is blooming, number of marriages do NOT fall down in there, the birth rate is healthy, families still remain holy in there, cheating and affairs almost are non-existent in there, individual people are more happy in there than in rich countries of monogamy, for the lack of need to "import" citizens or women, their race and cultural integrity remains in there untouched, society as a whole still avoids in there a whole array of social evils that become a real plague for monogamist countries, etc., etc. So it is easy to notice, that in a true interest of the humanity lies that also in this matter human laws follow the path which God indicated in the Bible. Thus, instead of further forcing the "monogamy" that is highly destructive for the humanity, we rather should introduce the legal freedom of practicing the "polygamy" - if only someone considers it to be beneficial in a given life situation, while this "other half" knows "what is getting into". It is puzzling why still no political party make from the "polygamy" its election policy (apart, perhaps, the purely hypothetical party of totalizm which duty and goal is to implement in the life everything to which the philosophy of totalizm already established that this is more moral and more beneficial for the humanity than of whatever the humanity practiced so far).

In times of my youth, in Poland lived a large proportion of lonely widows - one amongst unhappy consequences of the Second World War. Until today I remember, that not far from our home in Wszewilki lived three female neighbours - just as such young lonely widows. Several further of them lived in more distant houses of the same village. Having in mind the wellbeing and benefits of just such young widows, the government of Poland of that time undertook analyses of effects of an official introduction of the legalised polygamy. After all, in these times people did NOT have yet the present prejudices towards races or religions which practice polygamy. In addition, a large proportion of countries from the South-East Asia and from islands of Pacific, either still then practiced polygamy, or just was in the process of eliminating it. This included also the huge China - which emperor removed from the throne just shortly before, also had two wives (in spite that he still was very young). The polygamy did NOT overgrow then with present illogical prejudices, stigma, paranoia, etc. So it was permissible to logically analyse it and to consider all "pros" and "cons" of it. But instead of an authoritative introduction of just such legalised polygamy - as the government of Poland of that time used to do in practically every other matter, the consequences of the introduction of a legalised polygamy was subjected to a wide and long public discussion and consultation. Discussions on this topic were carried out openly in the Polish Radio and broadcasted on the entire Poland. In spite of my young age, I liked to listen to them, as sometimes they were so funny and so interesting, that even a young boy had reasons to laugh at them or to learn from them. For example, until today I remember as one person arguing against polygamy was stating emotionally, that he would NOT be able to take these rows of female stockings drying out in his bathroom - it is interesting why he assumed that he either will be forced to marry many wives, or that many women rapidly will pounce at him while he will NOT be able to defend himself from them! But, as we can see from the fact that Poland maintains the monogamy, that discussion most clearly was won by the opponents of polygamy. After all, at that time opponents could use AGAINST it arguments which were exactly the same which in the present time would work PRO introducing it. For example, that the introduction of polygamy would rapidly increase the birth rate, that it would deprive employment for many needed professions (such as lawyers or kindergarten teachers), or that it would run against Christian tradition (after all, at those times copies of the Bible were unavailable for mere mortals - so almost NO-ONE had a chance to find out from the Bible that God actually supports and accept the moral polygamy, while strongly disapproves and punishes immoral unfaithfulness, affairs, deceits, lying, and everything that in present times represents consequences of decaying monogamy), etc., etc. If that discussion is carried out in present times, then advantages of polygamy would probably be additionally denied by members of "feminist movement" whom would see in it the danger of disapproval for their stands. This is pity, because in fact the side which would benefit the most from polygamy, are NOT men, but women! Also polygamy would introduce a potential to save the institution of marriage from present decadency, while save further generations from the need of having lonely lives and test-tube births on principles of artificial insemination. It would also stop the extinction and disappearance of these nations and races, which women adopted self-destructive feminism - as this is visible in trends that already show themselves in various countries.

Only in extremely rare cases progress depends on the introduction of something completely new, what the humanity knew never before, such as e.g. Magnocrafts or Oscillatory Chambers. In the overwhelming majority of cases "progress" boils down to the replacement of old with something that is also known for a long time, only that in a new application it is able to eliminate drawbacks and limitations of this old, and thus is able to open for people completely new perspectives. In just such adaptation for new applications of something known for a long time, the most vital step is NOT the inventiveness, but a courage and insight of noticing drawbacks of the old, and the ability to work out how these drawbacks could be eliminated with a given new application. So let us hope, that we are able to find in ourselves the courage to improve the "institution of marriage", before the present "obsession with one-stand sex" causes the disappearance of families, while nations turn into clusters of artificially inseminated loners.

#J2.3. The morality of husbands:

... (the next part of this web page is to be translated later) ...

Moralność męża formuje drugą warstwę w hierarchii moralności (tj. warstwę zaraz po nadrzędnej warstwie moralności danej nam przez Boga). Stąd moralność ta kryje w sobie wiele aspektów, które wymagają lepszego poznania. Jak każda moralność, też opiera się ona na zwalczaniu pokus i niemoralnych trendów, na korzystaniu z naturalnych zalet które Bóg dał kobiecie i na uzupełnianiu tego co czynią ich małżonki, oraz na faktycznym wypełnianiu roli "głowy" rodziny - dokładnie tak jak wyjaśnia to Biblia z której radzę szczegółowo poznać wymogi i nakazy tej wysoce wymagającej i odpowiedzialnej moralności męża.

#J2.4. Moralność dzieci (syna i/lub córki):

Motto: "Jakie dzieci, taka przyszłość."

Z punktu widzenia "totaliztycznej nauki" moralność naszych dzieci jest manifestowana przez "posłuszeństwo" z jakim owe dzieci wypełniają wymagania i nakazy swoich rodziców (które to nakazy i wymagania NIE są jednak sprzeczne z nakazami i wymaganiami stawianymi wszystkim ludziom przez Boga). Z kolei owo posłuszeństwo jest "skutkiem" wychowywania tychże dzieci w poczuciu dyscypliny, obowiązkowości, potrzeby wiedzy i edukacji, tradycji, respektu i poważania dla starszych i dla nauczycieli, itp. To dlatego, wysoce rozumnym Bóg wyraźnie nakazuje w aż całym szeregu miejsc Biblii (opisywanych i cytowanych dokładniej w punkcie #B5.1 odrębnej strony o nazwie will_pl.htm), aby podczas wychowywania dzieci zawsze pamiętać o tym co wyrażone jest z pomocą angielskiego przysłowia "pożałuj rózgi a popsujesz dzieciaka" (w oryginale "spare rod and spil the child"). Nakazy Boga idą zresztą nawet dalej. Przykładowo, w biblijnej "Księdze Powtórzonego Prawa", wersety 21:18-21 Bóg nakazuje, cytując: "Jeśli ktoś będzie miał syna nieposłusznego i krnąbrnego, nie służącego upomnienia ojca ani matki, tak że nawet po upomnieniach jest im nieposłuszny, ojciec i matka pochwycą go, zaprowadzą do bramy, do starszych miasta, i powiedzą starszym miasta: 'Oto nasz syn jest nieposłuszny i krnąbrny, nie słucha naszego upomnienia, oddaje się rozpuszcze i pijaństwu'. Wtedy mężowie tego miasta będą kamieniowali go, aż umrze. Usuniesz zło spośród siebie, a cały Izrael, słysząc o tym, ulęknie się. "Najwyraźniej Bóg zdaje sobie sprawę jak niszczycielski wpływ na dany naród ma kultywowanie tradycji i kultury nieposłuszeństwa oraz krnąbrności.

Niestety, aby przypodobać się matkom typowo ślepym na nieposłuszeństwo i krńcbowność swoich pociech, oraz aby zdobywać ich głosy, politycy niektórych krajów od dawna stopniowo erodują te nakazane nam przez Boga zasady "twardego" wychowywania dzieci. Przykładowo, np. w Nowej Zelandii politycy uchwalili tzw. "prawo przeciw-klapsowe", zgodnie z którym rodzicom NIE wolno dyscyplinować własnych dzieci. Prawo to omawiane jest w punkcie #B5.1 odrębnej strony o nazwie will_pl.htm. Zgodnie z nim rodzice którzy dyscyplinują swoje dzieci - usuwając je wychować na moralnych dorosłych, są karani przez państwo, wtrącani do więzienia, itp. W rezultacie wprowadzenia owego prawa, Nowa Zelandia już obecnie ma nieopisane kłopoty ze swoją niezdyscyplinowaną młodzieżą. Co zaś będzie tam działo się dalej, o tym aż strach pomyśleć. Dobrym odzwierciedleniem tych kłopotów są artykuły w rodzaju: [1#J2.4] "Misbehaviour by kids rated No 1 social issue" (tj. "Złe zachowanie się dzieci uznane za problem socjalny nr 1") ze strony A2 gazety The New Zealand Herald (wydanie z wtorku (Tuesday), April 5, 2011) - który stara się zwrócić uwagę na następstwa tolerowania niezdyscyplinowanych dzieci; [2#J2.4] "Silence absent in many libraries" (tj. "Cisza nieobecna w wielu bibliotekach") ze strony A10 gazety The New Zealand Herald (wydanie z wtorku (Tuesday), May 31, 2011) - w którym jest opisywane jak źle wychowane dzieci czynią już taki hałas w bibliotekach publicznych, że niemal NIE daje się tam czytać; [3#J2.4] "Three Rs too much for some teachers" (tj. "trzy R zbyt dużo dla niektórych nauczycieli") ze strony A1 nowozelandzkiej gazety The Dominion Post (wydanie z wtorku (Tuesday), February 15, 2011) - w którym opisywane jest że nawet wymagane przez rząd nauczanie dzieci minimum trzech rzeczy których angielskie nazwy zaczynają się na R, tj. podstawowego czytania, pisania i rachunków, przez niektórych nauczycieli uważane jest za zbyt dużo (artykuł NIE ujawnia jednak jaki jest tego powód, tj. że nauczyciele wolą odyszać dzieci na boisko sportowe, do muzeum, itp. aby tylko unikać konieczności uczenia ich czegokolwiek); [4a#J2.4] "Granny prosecuted after girl wages school" (tj. "babcia ukarana po tym jak dziewczyna wagarowała szkołę") ze strony A1 nowozelandzkiej gazety The Dominion Post (wydanie z wtorku (Tuesday), June 14, 2011) - w którym opisane jest działanie władz które ukarały 72-letnią babcię za krnąbrność i nieposłuszeństwo dziewczyny oddanej pod opiekę tej babci (kiedy jednocześnie wszystkim jest wiadomo, że te same władze karzą rodziców i opiekunów nawet za próby dyscyplinowania dzieci); [4b#J2.4] "Man on kidnap charges for tackling thieves" (tj. "Mężczyzna oskarżony przez policję o uprowadzenie za przyciśnięcie do ziemi złodzieja") ze strony A5 gazety The New Zealand Herald (wydanie ze środę (Wednesday), May 11, 2011) - który raportuje kolejny z wielu nowozelandzkich przypadków kiedy policja oskarżyła niewłaściwą osobę - w tym przypadku tego co usiłował zatrzymać młodych złodziei poprzez przyduszenie jednego z nich do ziemi; [4c#J2.4] "Law system encourages criminals" (tj. "System prawny popiera złoczyńców") ze strony A1 nowozelandzkiej gazety Sunday Star Times (wydanie z niedzieli (Tuesday), April 24, 2011) - w którym streszcza ją książka Davida Fraser "Badlands NZ: A Land Fit for Criminals" - tj. "Zły ląd Nowa Zelandia: dobra ziemia dla złoczyńców"; [5a#J2.4] "King's College boy placed in detox room at ball" (tj. "zamknięcie chłopca z King's College w odtruwającym gabinecie podczas balu") ze strony A6 gazety The New Zealand Herald (wydanie z wtorku (Tuesday), June 14, 2011) - w który ujawnia że uczeń ekskluzywanej szkoły aż tak zatruł się używkami podczas szkolnego balu, że musiał go poddać kuracji odtruwającej; [5b#J2.4] "Alcohol and the elite school" (tj.: "alkohol i elitarna szkoła") ze strony A9 nowozelandzkiej gazety Weekend Herald (wydanie z soboty (Saturday), June 18, 2011) - w którym omawiana jest czwarta już śmierć w przeciag ostatnich 17 miesięcy z powodu pijanki i używania narkotyków, która miała miejsce w ekskluzywnej szkole dla synów z najbogatszych domów Nowej Zelandii (tj. ta szkoła z której wywodzi się potem spora większość rządzących owym krajem) zwanej "King's College"; [5c#J2.4] "Hundreds of drunk kids in our hospitals" (tj. "Setki pijanych dzieci w naszych szpitalach") ze strony A1 gazety The Dominion Post (wydanie z poniedziałku (Monday), July 11, 2011) - który alarmuje o zbyt wielkiej ilości młodych dzieci lądujących w szpitalach Nowej Zelandii z powodu przedawkowanego zażycia narkotyków i alkoholu; [6a#J2.4] "Brain-injured victim at home" ze strony A5 nowozelandzkiej gazety The Dominion Post Weekend (wydanie z piątku (Friday), February 18, 2011) - który omawia jeden z dosyć częstych w NZ przypadków, w którym 15-letnia dziewczyna strasznie pobita przez cztery swoje szkolne koleżanki-huliganki zmuszona była zostawać w domu, podczas gdy sprawcze pobicie mogły nadal chodzić do szkoły; [6b#J2.4] "Fleeing teens love thrill of chase: expert" (tj. "uciekające nastolatki uwielbiają podniecenie bycia ściganymi: ekspert") ze strony A1 gazety The New Zealand Herald (wydanie z piątku (Friday), January 7, 2011) - który powtarza wyjaśnienia eksperta że nowozelandzka młodzież lubi podniecenia bycia ściganymi przez policję; [6c#J2.4] "Armed teenager tries to rob diary" (tj. "Uzbrojony nastolatek stara się obrabować sklep") ze strony A7 gazety The Dominion Post (wydanie z poniedziałku (Monday), July 11, 2011) - który opisuje kolejny z całej epidemii przypadków gdy uzbrojeni z broń palną maoryscy nastolatkowie rabują sklepy i banki, czasami strzelając do ludzi; [7#J2.4] "Pupil bashes teacher unconscious in corridor attack" (tj. "Uczeń pobił nauczyciela do nieprzytomności w ataku na korytarzu") ze strony A1 gazety The New Zealand Herald (wydanie ze środę (Wednesday), June 15, 2011) - w którym raportowany jest jeden ze sporej liczby aktów agresji młodzieży nowozelandzkiej przeciwko swoim nauczycielom; [8a#J2.4] "Youth jobless a time bomb says business lobby group" (tj. "Bezrobotna młodzież jest bombą zegarową stwierdza grupa strategii byznesu") ze strony A3 nowozelandzkiej gazety The Dominion Post (wydanie z piątku (Friday), May 6, 2011) - który napomina że w niektórych częściach kraju zasiłek dla bezrobotnych pobiera aż 27.5% młodzieży (artykuł ten NIE wyjaśnia jednak, że pracodawcy NIE chcą zatrudniac młodzieży z powodu jej arogancji, lenistwa i bezużyteczności w charakterze robotników); [8b#J2.4] "Youth unemployment hits crisis point in the north" (tj. "niezatrudnianie młodzieży osiągnęło punkt kryzysu na północy") ze strony A10 nowozelandzkiej gazety Weekend Herald (wydanie z soboty (Saturday), June 11, 2011) - który alarmuje że już 29% młodzieży w wieku 18 do 24 lat z północnych części Nowej Zelandii żyje z zasiłku bezrobotnych (ciągłe jednak atrykuł ten przemilcza sprawę powodów dla których pracodawcy NIE mają odwagi aby zatrudnić nowozelandzką młodzież); [8c#J2.4] "Expensive paperweight' fired after Facebook posts" (tj. "kosztowny przycisk do papieru' wyrzucony z pracy po poście w Facebook") ze strony A10 nowozelandzkiej gazety The Dominion Post Weekend (wydanie z piątku (Friday), December 18, 2010) - który opisuje jak jedna młoda Nowozelandka która zdołała znaleźć pracę została z niej wyrzucona ponieważ wyjaśniła w Facebook że jest "wysoce kompetentna w artysty marnowania czasu"; [8d#J2.4] "Female youth suicides highest in decade" (tj. "Samobójstwa młodych dziewcząt najwyższe od 10 lat") ze strony A9 gazety The New Zealand Herald (wydanie z czwartku (Thursday), December 21, 2011) - który alarmuje że w 2008 było 497 samobójstw; [9a#J2.4] "We can't bury our heads in the sand" (tj. "nie możemy chować naszych głow w piaszku") ze strony A10 nowozelandzkiej gazety The Dominion Post Weekend (wydanie z soboty (Saturday), May 21, 2011) - który informuje że w tylko trochę ponad 4 milionowej Nowej Zelandii co roku popełnianych jest około 540 samobójstw; [9b#J2.4] "It's a delusion to think that banning discussion saves lives" (tj. "jest majaczeniem wierzenie że zakaz dyskutowania uratuje życie") ze strony A26 nowozelandzkiej gazety The Dominion Post Weekend (wydanie z soboty (Saturday), May 28, 2011) - który dysputuje zakaz rządu Nowej Zelandii aby NIE publikować i NIE dyskutować samobójstw obywateli tego kraju. Innymi słowy, próby polityków Nowej Zelandii aby "bawić się w Boga" i "ustanowić zupełnie nowy rodzaj moralności" okazują się kompletną klapą która całkowicie rujnuje ów niegdyś wysoce moralny i zamożny kraj.

Powyższe dosyć jednoznacznie uświadamia, że "niemoralni politycy i wypaczona moda przemianą, zaś my zostaniemy z takimi dziećmi jakie sobie wychowamy". Dlatego faktycznie rodzicom NIE wolno zważać na to co niemoralni politycy lub wypaczona moda stwierdzają na temat wychowania ich dzieci, a muszą moralnie kształtować swoją przyszłość dyscyplinując i wychowując swoje dzieci tak jak nakazuje im to Bóg za pośrednictwem Biblii.

#J2.5. Moralność robota:

Moralność jest cechą NIE tylko ludzi, ale także i wszystkiego czemu ludzie nadają "życie". Stąd przykładowo, jeśli ludzie zbudują "roboty" - jak te opisane w artykule [1#J1] powyżej, albo zbudują "drony" (czyli bezpilotowe samoloty kierowane "sztuczną inteligencją"), owe roboty czy drony też będą wykazywały jakąś nadaną im przez ludzi formę "moralności". Wymóg Boga jest przy tym taki, że wszystko czemu ludzie nadają jakąś nową formę "życia", powinno wykazywać własną "moralność" która jest zgodna z nadrzędną moralnością daną ludziom przez Boga. Jeśli zaś ów wymóg "moralnej zgodności" NIE zostanie spełniony, wówczas można się spodziewać, że takie niemoralne ludzkie twory staną się źródłem wielu przyszłych problemów. (Stąd już obecnie biorą się "ostrzegające" ludzi filmy w rodzaju "Terminator", czy "ostrzegające kataklizmy" - jak te opisane w punkcie #B5 ze strony o nazwie seismograph_pl.htm.)

#J2.6. Moralność psa lub innej żywej "maskotki":

Jeśli ktokolwiek z nas posiada pasa lub jakakolwiek inną żywą "maskotkę", wówczas jest odpowiedzialny za "moralność" którą przekazuje temu zwierzęciu. Przykładowo, przekazanie (wtresowanie) mu niewłaściwych zasad moralnych spowoduje, że pies ów zagryzie jakieś dziecko na ulicy, czy pogryzie sąsiada na jego ogrodzie. Za takie "niemoralne" czyny swoich maskotek, faktycznie odpowiedzialni są ich właściciele.

#J3. Obusieczne działanie moralności - tj. "jaką moralność zasiewasz, taką też będziesz zbierał":

W punkcie #C4.4 tej strony opisane zostało tzw. "Prawo Bumerangu". Jednym z następstw działania tego prawa, a ścisłej działania "karmy" którą prawo to zarządza, jest że "jakąkolwiek moralność sam zasiewasz, taką i będziesz zbierał". W faktyczne działanie tego prawa wcale NIE trzeba mi wierzyć na słowo, bowiem każdy może je sam sobie odnotować i sprawdzić na niezliczonych przykładach z rzeczywistego życia jakie bez przerwy mają miejsce wokół nas.
Część #K: Jakie następstwa dla naszej rzeczywistości wnosi definicja "moralności" wypracowana przez "totaliztyczną naukę" i wdrażana na niniejszej stronie:

#K1. Jeśli kogoś się kocha i szanuje, wówczas należy mówić mu "prawdę, całą prawdę i tylko prawdę":

Wszakże ' "postęp" NIE jest możliwy bez "poznania i szerzenia prawdy" '. Dlatego ujawniając całą prawdę temu kogo się kocha, faktycznie oddaje się mu wielką przysługę - na przekór że dzisiaj ludzie typowo ani NIE lubią mówić prawdy, ani NIE lubią wysłuchiwać prawdy (wszakże zwykle prawda jest dosyć nieprzyjemna do wypowiedzenia i do usłyszenia). Tymczasem "prawda jest esencją moralności". Stąd mówiąc komuś prawdę stwarza mu się szansę aby udoskonałć swoje drogi i sposoby, a w ten sposób aby stał się znacznie lepszym człowiekiem. Szerzej wszystko to jest wyjaśnione w punkcie #F1 strony o nazwie totalizm_pl.htm i w punkcie #P1 strony o nazwie quake_pl.htm.

Oczywiście, jednym z najważniejszych składowych owej "całej prawdy" którą mamy obowiązek mówić lub przekazywać tym których kochamy, jest właśnie prawda na temat "moralności" - ujawniana definicją "moralności" zaprezentowaną na niniejszej stronie, a także prawda na temat następstw jakie do naszego życia wnosi owa definicja.

Wszyscy wiemy, że niezależnie od tzw. "intelektów indywidualnych" opisywanych w punkcie #F1 tej strony, niemal wszyscy z nas kochają także niektóre tzw. "intelekty grupowe" też opisywane w punkcie #F1 tej strony. Przykładowo, ja osobiście ogromnie kocham i szanuję (i wcale nie wstydzę się do tego przyznać) m.in. takie "intelekty grupowe" jak cała ludzkość - w tym szczególnie dwa kraje które ze zrozumiałych powodów są ogromnie miłe mojemu sercu, tj. Nową Zelandię oraz Polskę. To właśnie też z powodu swej miłości do owych intelektów grupowych czynię wszystko to co czynię, zawsze też szczególną uwagę przykładając do faktu, aby to co piszę lub mówię było całą prawdą wynikającą właśnie z tej miłości do nich. Wszakże głośząc konieczność mówienia prawdy i tylko prawdy, ma się też moralny obowiązek aby faktycznie mówić prawdę, całą prawdę i tylko prawdę - nawet jeśli wcale NIE brzmi ona przyjemnie dla słuchającego.

#K2. Jeśli chce się aby nasz intelekt grupowy uniknął kar za niemoralne prowadzenie się, wówczas należy ujawniać prawdę o jego niedoskonałościach i błędach:
Tylko bowiem ujawnianie prawdy pozwala aby błędy te i niedoskonałości zostały naprawione. Pytanie jednak które warto sobie zadać, to czy nasze postępowanie wobec ludzi którzy ujawniają prawdę faktycznie jest takie jakie być powinno - jak przykład rozwija losy założyciela "Wiki-Leaks", czy też losy bloggerów ujawniających prawdę.

#K3. Dlaczego mechanizmy rządzące "moralnością" nakazują przestrzeganie zasad "przedawnienia":

Definicja "moralności" opisywana na tej stronie ujawnia również jeden istotny aspekt losów ludzkich, mianowicie że "w świecie rządzonym przez Boga każdego spotyka dokładnie taki los na jaki faktycznie zasługuje". Innymi słowy, jeśli ktoś przypadkowo jest bogaty lub ma wspaniałą żonę czy dzieci, tak się dzieje tylko ponieważ faktycznie na to zasługuje. Jeśli zaś ktoś traci majątek lub pozostaje bezdzietnym, zaś uparcie zawodzą wszelkie jego wysiłki aby zmienić ten stan, wówczas również to oznacza, że na taki los zasługuje w/g praw i mechanizmów moralnych.

Jeśli bowiem coś się traci w świecie rządzonym przez Boga, wówczas istnieć ku temu mogą jedynie dwie przyczyny, mianowicie albo (1) Bóg poddaje tego kogoś "probie" jako ma na celu wykazanie się determinacją, uporem i aktywnością w osiąganiu swych celów, lub (2) z powodu niemoralnego życia ktoś ten w oczach Boga zupełnie NIE zasługuje aby to coś posiadać. W obu tezych przypadkach, jeśli dany ktoś włoży wszystko na co go stać w odzyskanie tego co utracił, jednak tego NIE odzyska w okresie swojego życia, wówczas to oznacza, że faktycznie NIE zasłużył sobie na posiadanie tego. Jeżeli zaś ów ktoś NIE zasługuje w posiadaniu tego czegoś, wówczas NIE ma prawa aby to przekazać swoim potomkom. Jego potomkowie też nie mogą prawa aby wysuwać do tego jakiekolwiek roszczenia. Innymi słowy, w świetle działania mechanizmów moralności, zupełnie niesłuszne są czyjekolwiek żądania w rodzaju, "mój dziadek był właścicielem tego pałacu, jednak wojna mu go odebrała, więc jak jego potomek i spadkobierca obecnie ja chcę otrzymać ten pałac". Faktycznie bowiem jeśli ów dziadek stracił swój pałac i go NIE odzyskał ciągle za swego życia, wówczas jego potomkowie tracą do tego wszelkie prawa. We wszelkich więc stratach i zmianach właścicieli, zgodnie z definicją moralności obowiązuje tzw. "zasada przedawnienia". Zasada ta stwierdza, że jeśli ktoś stracił cokolwiek i NIE odzyskał tego ciągle w okresie swojego życia, wówczas jego potomkowie NIE mogą już moralnego prawa aby wysuwać do tego jakiekolwiek roszczenia własności.

Powyższe jest szczególnie aktualne w dzisiejszych wysoce materialistycznych czasach - kiedy to każdy rości prawą własności do praktycznie wszystkiego o co tylko jego przodka osiągnął jakoś swoje portki. I tak przekładnie dzisiejsi Maorysi z Nowej Zelandii chcą otrzymać z powrotem niemal cały obszar owego kraju, bowiem około dwóch wieków temu europejczyci kupili od nich ową ziemię za bezcen - np. za muszkiety lub za butelki wódki (patrz też punkt #L2.2 poniżej). Zapominają przy tym że ich przodka osiągnęli to z powodu obojętności ogromnej ilości wódki, a czasem nawet nawet pełne dziesięciu Polski, które obecnie są własnością Polaków. Zapominają przy tym, że te same ziemie kiedyś odebrali Polakom ktorzy oryginalnie na nich mieszkali. Itd., itp.

Część #L: Przykłady użycia opisywanej tutaj definicji "moralności" do kategoryzowania i oceny faktycznie zaszłych przypadków z rzeczywistego życia:

#L1. Problem dzisiejszych ludzi: "wierzą że wiedzą wszystko o moralności, jednak faktycznie to NIE potrafią wybrać moralnie poprawnego rozwiązania dla niemal żadnego
codziennego problemu czy decyzji"

Motto: "Postępowanie 'moralne' ma tę cechę, że nikogo ono NIE krzywdzi ani nigdy NIE trzeba go potem korygować czy naprawiać."

W punkcie #A1 tej strony już wspomniałem, że w dzisiejszych czasach niemal każdy wierzy że wie już niemal wszystko na temat "moralności", a stąd NIE uważa za stosowne aby chociaż zerknąć na opracowania takie jak niniejsza strona. Wszakże niemal każdy uważa, że mu wystarczy dla "moralnego życia" to co zawarte w przykazaniach boskich i kościelnych, albo to co zobaczył w telewizji przy okazji najróżniejszych programów o wymowie moralnej. Tymczasem, jeśli to co ludzie faktycznie czynią w życiu przeanalizuje się z punktu widzenia standardów moralfnych, praw moralnych, oraz wskaźników moralnie poprawnego postępowania (tj. tych wielkości które opisane są np. w podpunktach #C3.1 do #C4.5 tej strony), wówczas się okazuje, że ludzie NIE potrafią znajdować na codziennym podróże moralnie poprawnych rozwiązań dla nawet najmniej skomplikowanych problemów życiowych, ani NIE potrafią podjąć niemal żadnej moralnie poprawnej decyzji.

Jeśli ktoś mi NIE wierzy iż ignorancja ludzka w sprawach "moralności" jest aż tak duża, wówczas proponuję mu aby albo sam rozwiązał poprawnie, albo też prosił jakiegoś "ekspertyz"a o etyki czy moralności (np. profesora filozofii, czy księdza) o wskazanie które jego zdaniem wyjścia, czy decyzje, są moralnie najbardziej poprawne w następujących przypadkach jakie dosyć dobrze oddają rodzaj dylematów moralnych wymagających codziennego rozwiązania przez dzisiejszych ludzi (a także aby poprosił owego "eksperta" o uzasadnienie "dlaczego" te właśnie wyjścia czy decyzje są poprawniejsze od innych). Jako przypadki dla takiego "przeglądania" ludzkiej znajomości mechanizmów i zasad moralnych, proponuję użyć następujące sytuacje: (1) który model małżeński jest moralniejszy: jednożeństwo (monogamia) czy wielożeństwo (poligamia)? - odnotuj że moralnie prawidłowy wybór wskazuje już punkt #J2.2.2 powyżej, (2) jeśli masz jedno jabłko, to komu je dałbyś: babci czy dziecku?, (3) byłyby "moralnym" podwyższenie wieku emerytalnego np. do 70 lat po to aby wygospodarować budżet na rozdawanie mleka i bułek dzieciom w szkołach?, (4) czy zwiększenie podatków jest moralne czy niemoralne?, (5) czy wprowadzenie "najniższego dopuszczalnego zarobku" jest moralne czy niemoralne?, (6) czy wprowadzenie "najwyższego dopuszczalnego zarobku" jest moralne czy też niemoralne?, (7) czy zawód "prostytutki" jest bardziej niemoralny od stosunku seksualnego pomiędzy parą nieżonatych ludzi?, (8) czy użycie "kondonów" jest moralne czy niemoralne?, (9) jeśli biedny i głodny rolnik ma ostatni worek ziarna, to czy powinien go zabić aby dać;babi cz dziecku?, (10) czy będąc bezrobotnym wziąłbyś proponowaną ci posadę w wytwórni papierosów, czy też raczej wolę przeżyć całe swoje oszczędności?, (11) jeśli przypadkowo odkryłbyś że przedsiębiorstwo w którym pracujesz bogaci się sprzedając produkty niezgodne z prawem, to czy powinieneś o tym znać gazetom lub telewizji wiedząc że spowoduje to zlikwidowanie tego przedsiębiorstwa?, (12) gdybyś wiedział, że ukraińscy jakiekolwiek ograniczenie do wzięcia w próbę swojego życia, to czy powinniśmy zamiast wziąć do siebie swą pracę, czy też przemilczać "ich" o poważnym czynie? , (13) gdyby zaszczytowałbyś się z czymś, które rozwijają kogoś bardzo wpływowego, to czy jego powinien dobrze godzić w siebie i unikać czyni cię zaszczytować się z innego? , (14) jeśli nocą do sypialni w której spiszę z żoną i dziećmi wpada z rykiem ogłupiony narkotykami bandyta wymachujący ostrym nożem, to czy bardziej moralne byłoby wezwanie policji czy też natychmiastowe postrzelenie go bronią którą właśnie przy sobie posiadasz?, (15) czy jest moralnym wyprzedzenie wroga o którym wiesz że właśnie planuje napadnąć i obrabować twój dom, poprzez szybsze napadnięcie i pobicie go w jego własnym domu?, itd., itp. Warto przy tym odnotować, że jeśli do znalezienia moralnie najpoprawniejszego rozwiązania używa się wskaźników moralnej poprawności oddanych nam do użytku przez filozofię totalizmu i opisywanych w podpunktech z #C4 tej strony, wówczas wskaźniki te dają nam całkowicie jednoznaczne odpowiedzi dla każdego z tych pytań i to w każdym układzie okoliczności. Wszakże najmoralniejsze rozwiązanie czy decyzja zawsze wyróżnia się tym wśród innych, że albo (a) "wspina się najstromej pod górę pola moralnego", albo (b) "przysparza nam najwięcej energii moralnej", albo (c) "jest najbardziej zgodna z treścią znanych nam praw moralnych", albo też (d) "generuje nam karmę której zwrot chętnie i z przyjemnością sami potem przyjmiemy z powrotem". Te więc nasze rozwiązania lub decyzje, które w danym zbiórze alternatyw i okoliczności są wyróżniane jednym lub kilkoma z powyższych wskaźników (a) do (d), zawsze reprezentują moralnie najwłaściwsze postępowanie - po odpowiednie przykłady patrz podpunkty z #L2 tej strony, lub podpunkty #A2.1 do #A2.6 strony totalizm_pl.htm.

Decyzje o charakterze moralnym, podobne do tych wyszczególnionych w powyższych przykładach (1), (2), ... egzaminujących moralność "ekspertów", każdy z nas musi podejmować praktycznie niemal bez przerwy. Nie znając zaś działania mechanizmów moralnych, typowo ludzie wybierają i wdrażają to co "niemoralne" zamiast tego co "moralne". Zaś z wdrożeniem "niemoralności" jest poważny problem - mianowicie później zawsze musi ona być korygowana i naprawiana, podczas gdy w międzyczasie krzywdzi ona wielu ludzi. Dlatego jest ogromnie istotne aby ludzie nauczyli się wybierać i wdrazać tylko to co "moralne". "Moralne" bowiem NIE krzywdzi nikogo, zaś jego następstw nigdy NIE trzeba już potem korygować ani naprawiać. Z tych powodów w podpunktach niniejszej "części #L" wskażę dla rzeczywistych przypadków jakie faktycznie miały miejsce, która decyzja jest poprawna moralnie i "dla nas" jest to właśnie ta a nie inna czy odwrotna.

Dla opisywanych tu przypadków obowiązuje "typowy" przebieg "pola moralnego" (tj. typowe okoliczności). Chodzi bowiem o to, że w okolicznościach niektórych "nietyposowych" przebiegów "pola moralnego", moralnie poprawne rozwiązanie mogłoby być tym odwrotnym niż przy przebiegach "typowych". Przykładowo, w typowym przebiegu pola moralnego nawet "biedny rolnik" posiada ziemię która rodzi zboże, a stąd jej obsianie jest moralnie poprawniejsze niż np. zjedzenie zboża "biedny rolnik" NIE może już odzyskać, zaś jeżeli może on też wiele innych rzeczy poza zbożem, np. w błędzie zjadać się daje lebiedię, pokrzywy, dżdżownice, a w czasach wojny w Polsce ludzie to nawet przypieki muchy na ogniu i też je zjadali). Jeśli jednak rozważyć "nietyposowe" okoliczności w których biedny rolnik mieszka np. na pustyni, gdzie panuje piasek - a nie gleba, oraz gdzie nic się NIE sieje, wówczas wysianie tam zboża byłoby jego marnowaniem - dlatego tam moralniejsze byłoby jego spożycie, a nie wysianie.

#L2. Faktycznie zaistniałe przykłady wyjaśniające jak wybrać najmoralniejszą alternatywę w najbardziej reprezentatywnych przypadkach podejmowania codziennych decyzji:

Przykłady opisywane w podpunktach niniejszego punktu wybrane zostały z puli najbardziej moralnie reprezentacyjnych przypadków dyskutowanych często lub obszernie w prasie nowozelandzkiej. Jest aż kilka powodów dla takiego ich wyboru. Przykładowo, ich dyskutowanie w prasie oznacza, że jestem w stanie wskazać tutaj przykłady źródeł w których przykłady te były dyskutowane. W razie więc większego zainteresowania się którymś z nich, czytelnik może odnaleźć więcej pisanych informacji na jego temat. Proszę tu jednak odnotować, że ich zaistnienie na terenie Nowej Zelandii wcale NIE oznacza, że są one unikalne tylko dla tego kraju i że podobnych przypadków NIE da się znaleźć w żanym innym miejscu na świecie. Faktycznie bowiem są one wysoce reprezentacyjne dla całej naszej cywilizacji, zaś jedynym powodem dla którego wybrałem je z prasy Nowej Zelandii, jest że mam łatwy dostęp do prasy tego kraju, zaś NIE mam dostępu do prasy innych krajów. Oto więc owe przypadki:

#L2.1. Zagładzanie staruszków aby jeszcze bardziej rozpieszczać młodzież:

Motto: "Każdy kto wydłuża wiek emerytalny poza 60 lat bierze na swe sumienie aż dwa niemoralne następstwa, bowiem (1) powoduje niemoralną eksploatację staruszków, oraz (2) blokuje prawo młodzieży do zarobku i do miejsca pracy."

Na stronie A21 gazety The New Zealand Herald (wydanie z piątku (Friday), July 8, 2011) ukazał się artykuł [1#L2.1] o tytule "Raise super age, doctors say, and spend up on kids" (tj. "Podwyszyć wiek emerytalny, stwierdzają lekarze, oraz wydajmy pieniądze na dzieci"). Bardzo podobny do niego artykuł [1b#L2.1] o tytule "Lift super age and spend money on kids - doctors" (tj. "Podnieść wiek emerytalny i wydać pieniądze na dzieci - lekarze") ukazał się też na stronie A17 nowozelandzkiej gazety The Dominion Post Weekend (wydanie z soboty (Saturday), July 9, 2011). Oba one reprezentują kolejne przykłady całego szeregu artykułów "domorosłych moralistów" Nowej Zelandii, jacy terroryzują starsze pokolenie owego kraju groźbami, że wiek emerytalny zostanie wkrótce tam podwyższony do 70 lat, zaś staruszkowie owego kraju nagle zaczną głodować lub będą musieli poszukać sobie jakiejs pracy. Inne podobne artykuły opisuję np. w (1) z punktu #E1 strony o nazwie rok.htm, czy w #108 podrozdziału W4 w tomie 18 monografii [1/5]. Jeśli jednak sugestie zawarte w powyższym artykule [1#L2.1] przeanalizować z punktu widzenia zaprezentowanej na niniejszej stronie wiedzy o działaniu mechanizmów moralnych, wówczas się okazuje że są one aż podwójnie "niemoralne". Wszakże po pierwsze nakazują one aby obedrzeć staruszków z prawa do emerytury i zmusić ich do pracy, po drugie zaś nakazują one aby dodatkowo rozpieszczć nowozelandzkie dzieci które i tak są już niesamowicie rozwydrzone i oderwane od rzeczywistości - patrz punkt #J2.4 powyżej na tej stronie. Powody "dlaczego" oba te posunięcia są wysoce "niemoralne" najlepiej ujawnia analiza co czynią one z "energią moralną" opisywaną w punkcie #C4.3 tej strony. Wszakże "moralne" jest tylko to co "generuje" i "przysparza" u ludzi ową energię, zaś wszystko co ją od ludzi "odbiera" lub "upuszcza" jest "niemoralne". I tak "pozbawianie" kogoś czegokolwiek, lub nawet tylko "groźba pozbawienia", jest już upuszczeniem owej energii moralnej. To dlatego pozbawianie staruszków prawa emerytury, lub choćby tylko postraszenie tym odebraniem, jest już wysoce "niemoralne". (Podobnie jak niemoralne jest np. postraszenie kogoś rąbnięciem, pobiciem, pokaleczeniem, rozwodem, itp.) Na dodatek, jeśli staruszków pozbawi się prawa emerytury, wówczas będą oni zmuszeni iść do pracy aby zarobić na chleb i życie. Liczba miejsc pracy jest zaś ograniczona - szczególnie w dzisiejszych czasach bezrobocia. Kiedy więc staruszkowie będą zmuszeni pracować, pozbawią oni prawa do pracy młodych ludzi - co dodatkowo odbierze dalsze ilości energii moranej od młodych ludzi.Już obecnie w Nowej Zelandii kontynuacja zatrudnienia przez tak zastraszanych starszych ludzi powyżej wieku 65 lat, powoduje że 27.5% młodzieży w wieku 15 do 19 lat nie ma tu zatrudnienia i zmuszone jest żyć z zasiłku dla bezrobotnych - patrz artykuł [2#L2.1] "Older workers seem hogging jobs" (tj. "starsi pracownicy blokują zatrudnienie") ze strony A3 nowozelandzkiej gazety The Dominion Post (wydanie z czwartku (Thursday), July 7, 2011). Na dodatek do powyższego, "dawanie" czegokolwiek dzieciom też jest rzadzone odpowiednimi prawnami moralnymi - w szczególności prawem stwierdzającym, że "za wszystko czego się jeszcze nie zarobiło, a co się kiedykolwiek otrzymuje, przychodzi potem słony rachunek" (opisanym m.in. w podrozdziale I4.1.1 z tomu 5 monografii [1/5]. Stąd wydawanie na dzieci tego co odebrane starszom będzie kiedyś drogo kosztowało owe dzieci - jako zaś takie też jest postępowaniem "niemoralnym".

Powyższe analizy uzasadniły "niemoralność" sugestii z artykułu [1#L21] na bazie wpływu jaki sugestie te miałyby na zachowania "energii moralnej". Jednak z tzw. "zasady jednomówności" (opisanej powyżej w punkcie #D5) wynika, że do tych samych wniosków prowadzi też użyć innych wskaźników moralnego postępowania. Przykładowo, "pole moralne" stwierdza, że w typowych okolicznościach "podnoszenie wieku emerytalnego" i "wydawanie na dzieci", są działaniami najłatwiejszymi do dokonania, a stąd biegnią one "w dół pola moralnego" czyli są "niemoralne". Warto też odnotować, że zgodnie z tym co wyjaśnia punkt #C8 strony o nazwie pigs_pl.htm, ludzie powinni być odsyłani na emeryturę w wieku dokładnie 60 lat - stąd każde wydłużanie wieku emerytalnego ponad wiek 60 lat jest wysoce niemoralnym postępowaniem za jakie wydłużającym przyjde kiedyś słono zapłacić.

#L2.2. Następstwa niemoralnego rezygnowania samemu z pracy kiedy prawda którą się ujawniło "uraziła" kogoś wpływowego:

Motto: "Jeśli sam rezygnujesz z pracy aby uniknąć represji za mówienie prawdy (lub za czynienie czegoś moralnego), wówczas karzesz siebie podwójnie, bowiem (1) popełniasz niemoralny czyn na sobie samym za który będziesz potem ukarany przez mechanizmy moralne, oraz (2) odbierasz sobie prawo do moralnej nagrody przynależnej ofiarom represji za prawdę."

Na stronie A2 nowozelandzkiej gazety The Dominion Post (wydanie z poniedziałku (Monday), July 11, 2011) ukazał się artykuł [1#L2.2] o tytule "Party of cowards says Ansell of ACT" (tj. "Partia tchórzy stwierdził Ansell o ACT"). W tym interesującym artykule zawarta jest m.in. informacja, że były dyrektor marketingowy nowozelandzkiej partii politycznej o nazwie ACT zmuszony został aby się sam zwolnił z zajmowanego stanowiska ponieważ gdzieś tam wyraził się o rodzimej ludności Nowej Zelandii zwanej "Maorysami", że, cytuję w moim własnym tłumaczeniu: Maorysi "have gone from the stone age to the space age in 150 years and haven't said thanks". Problem polega na tym, że stwierdzenie to jest prawdą. Faktycznie bowiem, zanim Europejczycy około 1840 roku podjęli kolonizację obecnej Nowej Zelandii, zamieszkujący tam Maorys i nie zdawali sobie podwójnie, bowiem (1) popełniasz niemoralny czyn na sobie samym za który będziesz potem ukarany przez mechanizmy moralne, oraz (2) odbierasz sobie prawo do moralnej nagrody przynależnej ofiarom represji za prawdę."
Lokalna zaś tradycja jest taka, że jeśli ktoś się narazi komuś wpływowemu, wówczas otrzymuje dwie alternatywy, mianowicie "albo sam zrezygnujesz z zajmowanej posady, albo też my cię wyrzucimy z pracy" (do owych alternatyw zwykle dodawane jest też kilka dalszych szczegółów, jak np. że "jeśli my cię wyrzucimy z pracy, wówczas będziesz miał trudności ze znalezieniem następnej, zaś jeśli sam zrezygnujesz, wówczas my ci dorzucimy sporo pożegnalną sumkę"). W opisywanym tutaj przypadku ów dyrektor marketingowy zdecydował się widać sam zrezygnować.

Istnieje jednak poważny problem moralny jaki wiąże się z powyższymi "alternatywami". Mianowicie, kiedy takie osoby mówiące prawdę są konfrontowani z naciskami aby zrezygnowały z zajmowanej posady, to czy faktycznie powinny one wówczas same rezygnować, czy też raczej odczekać aż ich przełożeni wyrzucą ich siłą z pracy. Moralne ustalenia filozofii totalizmu opisywane na niniejszej stronie nakazują, że w typowych okolicznościach w żadnym wypadku NIE powinni oni sami rezygnować, a odczekać aż ich przełożeni ich siłą usuną z zajmowanego stanowiska - tak jak to uczynił dyrektor EMA opisany w punkcie #J2.2.1 tej strony. Powodem jest, że każda utrata pracy wywołuje znaczącą stratę "energii moralnej". Stąd osoba która powoduje tą utratę energii moralnej popełnia "niemoralny czyn" - nawet jeśli to ona sama zwolni się z pracy. Każdy zaś niemoralny czyn jest potem karany przez Boga - w tym przypadku za to że po "pierwszej wymianie ognia" ktoś taki NIE walczy już dalej aktywnie o wypowiadaną przez siebie prawdę, a pasywnie daje wygrać wrogom tej prawdy. Dlatego mechanizmy moralne nakazują, że zamiast samemu popełniać niemoralny czyn zwolnienia siebie z pracy, takie mówiące prawdę osoby powinny odczekać aż ktoś inny popełni ten niemoralny czyn na nich - zaś w międzyczasie nadal walczyć aktywnie o daną prawdę. W takim bowiem przypadku ten ktoś inny będzie potem surowo ukarany przez Boga - co m.in. pozwoli aby "wytrzymał" danej prawdy otrzymać kiedyś wymaganą "zwrot karmatyczny" zaś sprawiedliwość została przywrócona. Na dodatek, każdy kto zostaje usunięty siłą z pracy za gloszenie prawdy, automatycznie staje się rodzajem "martyra" - za co w przyszłości oczekuje go znacząca nagroda od mechanizmów moralnych. Taka nagroda NIE czeka jednak na tych co dali za wygraną w sprawie tej prawdy i sami zrezygnowali z pracy.

Część #M: Dlaczego warto naukowo poznawać naszego Boga:

#M1. Jeśli naprawdę kocha się swego Boga, wówczas chce się naukowo i obiektywnie poznać całą prawdę na Jego temat:

Jest tylko jedna droga do wyrażenia naszej miłości do Boga. Polegą ona na obiektywnym i naukowym poznawaniu wszystkiego na Jego temat. Wszakże jeśli kogoś naprawdę kocha się, wówczas chce się wiedzieć całą prawdę na jego temat. Więcej informacji na temat związku pomiędzy miłością do naszego Boga, a potrzebą obiektywnego poznawania całej prawdy na Jego temat, zaiera m.in. punkt #F1 na stronie o nazwie totalizm_pl.htm.
#M2. Tylko naukowe i obiektywne poznanie całej prawdy o naszym Bogu pozwoli ludzkości żyć w szczęściu, zasobności i harmonii:

Jeśli poznamy prawdę o Bogu, wówczas będziemy mogli mu służyć lepiej niż dotychczas. To zaś, zgodnie z zasadą omówioną w punktach #C4.4 i #J2 - że "tak jak my traktujemy Boga, tak samo Bóg potraktuje nas zwrotnie", będzie powodowało że Bóg pozwoli w końcu ludzkości żyć w szczęściu, zasobności i harmonii.

Oczywiście, poszukiwanie i ujawnianie prawdy musi także obejmować całą prawdę na naszym Bogu. Tylko bowiem kiedy faktycznie poznany naszego Boga, wówczas jesteśmy w stanie właściwie z nim współpracować i spełniać jego nakazy i wymogi. Dobrze więc zadać sobie pytanie, czy np. znane nam religie faktycznie szukają i ujawniają prawdę na temat Boga.

Część #N: Droga do prawdy o Bogu wiedzie przez oficjalne uznanie i ustanowienie "nauki totaliztycznej":

#N1. Jeśli chce się postępu ludzkości, koniecznie trzeba oficjalnie ustanowić drugą (konkurencyjną do monopolu) instytucję "nauki totaliztycznej":

Szerzej jest to wyjaśnione w punkcie #A2.6 strony o nazwie totalizm_pl.htm, oraz w punkcie #C1 strony o nazwie telekinetyka.htm.

#N2. Skoro nawet będąc prześladowaną i bez żadnego finansowania "nauka totaliztyczna" zdołała już wypracować aż tak ogromny dorobek, jakiż ogromny postęp by ona wniosła do ludzkości gdyby uzyskała oficjalne uznanie i
finansowanie na badania:

Nowa "nauka totaliztyczna" ciągle działa w warunkach jakby "konspiracji" - kiedy jest prześladowana na wszelkie możliwe sposoby przez broniącą swego "monopolu na wiedzę" dotychczasową "ateistyczną naukę ortodoksyjną". Na przekór tego ta nowa nauka na już ogromny dorobek, którego dowodem są wszystkie już rozpracowanie tematy opisane m.in. na stronie o nazwie skorowidz.htm.

Part #O: Summary, and the final information of this web page:

#O1. The summary of this web page – means benefits which result from learning an objective truth about "morality" (e.g. allowing people to defend themselves against ill fates and disasters, confirmation of the need for an official establishing the new "totaliztic science", another proof for the existence of God, more happy and fulfilled life, etc.):

Motto: "The new 'totaliztic science' merges the ‘pursue of knowledge’ with the ‘love to God’."

In present times we all work in categories of "investments" and "returns". In turn when we extrapolate these categories to our lives, then it turns out that our most vital life "investment" which in the lowest "costs" of efforts and inconvenience on our part brings to us the highest "returns" of benefits, is just "morality" described on this web page - which the "atheistic orthodox science" to-date taught us to chronically ignore and unappreciated.

#O2. How with the web page named "skorowidz_links.htm" one can find totaliztic descriptions of topics in which he is interested:

A whole array of topics equally interesting as these from the above web page, is also discussed from the angle that is unique to the philosophy of totalizm. All these related topics can be found and identified with the use of content index prepared especially to make easier finding these web pages and topics. The name "index" means a list of "key words" usually provided at the end of textbooks, which allows to find fast the description or the topic in which we are interested. My web pages also has such a content "index" - only that it is additionally supplied in green links which after "clicking" at them with a mouse immediately open the web page with the topic that interest the reader. This content "index" is provided on the web page named skorowidz_links.htm. It can be called from the "organising" part of "Menu 1" of every totaliztic web page. I would recommend to look at it and to begin using it systematically - after all it brings closer hundreds of totaliztic topics which can be of interest to everyone.

#O3. Blogs of totalizm:

It is also worth to check periodically the blog of totalizm, available under the address: totalizm.wordpress.com (with a mirror copy available under the address totalizm.blox.pl/html). On this blog many matters discussed here are also explained with additional details written as new events unveil before our eyes.

#O4. Internet discussions on topic presented here:

Links to internet forums that discuss selected topics presented on this web page are provided in item #E2 from a different web page named faq.htm.

#O5. Emails to the author of this web page:

Current email addresses to the author of this web page, i.e. officially to Dr Eng. Jan Pajak while courteously to Prof. Dr Eng. Jan Pajak, at which readers can post possible comments, opinions, descriptions, or information which in their opinion I should learn, are provided on the web page named pajak_jan_uk.htm (for its version in the HTML language), or the web page named pajak_jan_uk.pdf (for the version of the web page "pajak_jan_uk.pdf" in safe PDF format - which safe PDF versions of further web pages by the author can also be downloaded via links from item #B1 of the web page named text_11.htm).

The author’s right for the use of courteous title of “Professor” stems from the custom that "with professors is like with generals", namely when someone is once a professor, than he or she courteously remains a professor forever. In turn the author of this web page was a professor at 4 different universities, i.e. at 3 of them, from 1 September 1992 until 31 October 1998, as an "Associate Professor" from English-based educational system, while on one university as a (Full) "Professor" (since 1 March 2007 till 31 December 2007 - means at the last place of employment in his professional life).

However, please notice that because of my rather chronic lack of time, I reluctantly reply to emails which contain JUST time consuming requests, while simultaneously they document a complete ignorance of their author in the topic area which I am researching.

#O6. A copy of this web page is also disseminated as a brochure from series [11] in the safe format "PDF":

This web page is also available in the form of a brochure marked [11], which is prepared in "PDF" ("Portable Document Format") - currently considered to be the most safe amongst all internet formats, as normally viruses cannot cling to PDF. This clear brochure is ready both, for printing, as well as for reading from a computer screen. It also has all its green links still active. Thus, if it is read from the computer screen connected to internet, then after clicking onto these green links, the linked web pages and illustrations will open. Unfortunately, because the volume of it is around a double of the volume of web page which this brochure publishes, the memory limitations on a significant number of free servers which I use, do NOT allow to offer it from them (so if it does NOT download from this address, because it is NOT available on this server, then you should click onto any other address from Menu 3, and then check whether in there it is available). In order to open this brochure (and/or download it to own computer), it suffices to either click on the following green link or to open from any totaliztic web site the PDF file named as in the above green link.

If the reader wishes to check, whether some other totaliztic web page which he or she just is studying, is also available in the form of such PDF brochure, then should check whether it is listed amongst links from "part #B" of the web page named text 11.htm. This is because links from there indicate all totaliztic web pages, which are already published as such brochures from series [11] in PDF format. I wish you a fruitful reading!
